VIGILANTES, GUN-TOTERS ARE RIDING AGAIN

Weird Posse's Founder Sees U.S. Rebellion

By SUSAN SWARD
Associated Press Writer

They call themselves the Posse Comitatus and they spring up mostly in small rural towns across America — believing in God, guns and the U.S. Constitution. This Posse Comitatus, loosely translated from Latin as "power of the county," claims 400,000 members in all states but Hawaii. Members buy badges and a posse charter for a nominal fee.

The posse, founded in 1969 by a retired Portland, Ore., machinist, is vague about its precise membership, and an Associated Press survey found only spotty showing of posse strength nationwide. But the group is out there — in places like rural Missouri and the Rockies — preaching a form of Americanism that attracts many people.

—Last year in a tomato field in California's San Joaquin Valley, armed posse members squared off against deputies to block United Farm Worker union organizers from entering a grower's property.

—In Missouri posse members had a run-in they call the "Siege of Seligman" when they came to town with guns to defend a newspaper they liked, the Ozark Sunbeam.

—In Northern California's tiny Alpine County, residents were stirred up by reports that the posse was going to make a mass move to the area when one posse member's son bought 600 acres of land there.

—In Montana a sheriff repossessed a posse member's truck because he hadn't paid his taxes, and some posse members came to the truck auction toting their guns.

—In the South Dakota town of Sturgis the reverend of a local church said his life was threatened by a posse member when he battled with the posse over his role as the county planning commissioner.

—In Virginia City, Mont., the sheriff had an Old West-style verbal showdown with posse members who came to town for a posse convention packing their guns.

Posse people don't want gun control. Some refuse to pay state or federal taxes. They think government is gobbling up their freedoms. And some don't like Jews or blacks. They want to be prepared, they say — prepared for anything government might try to pull on them in the way of unconstitutional laws, court rulings, taxes, conspiracies.

Although they say they have some blacks and Jews-turned-Christians as members, posse people mostly are white Protestants who are intensely unhappy with government.

Mike Beach, the posse's founder, has predicted the day will come when people get "so sick and tired" of government officials that they'll stage a rebellion in the country.

Beach says the posse's main job is to be there in case the local sheriff needs any help maintaining law and order.

"A lot of times we get some member we're not too proud of after we find out what they're doing. We had one guy in Wisconsin who got off on the (anti) Jewish kick and did a lot of harm there," he said. Critics of the posse see a darker side to the group; vigilante shades of the Ku Klux Klan and the American Nazis.

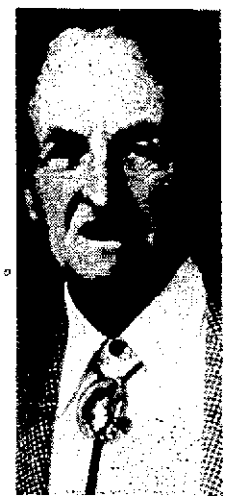

When posse members and law enforcement tangle, it is usually because the posse's ideas of the law don't coincide with a sheriff's ideas.

In Stockton, Calif., two posse members were convicted of charges stemming from the confrontation in the tomato field. One of them, Francis Gillings, is something of a celebrity in posse circles. It was Gillings' 19-year-old son David, he said, who spent $200,000 in inheritance money for 600 acres in Alpine County for an "investment."

"There ain't a cockeyed thing wrong with that, except the newspapers said it was vigilantes that were going to go in there and take over the county," Gillings said.

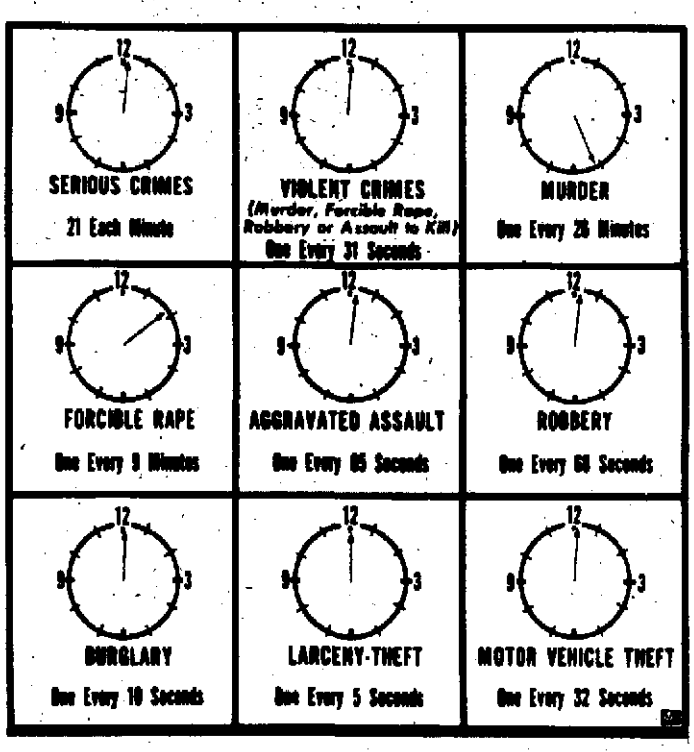

It was also Gillings' gun

U.S. Crimes Increase 10% In Year!

CLOCKING CRIME: Chart shows frequency of certain serious crimes across the nation during 1975, according to the annual Uniform Crime Reports. (AP Wirephoto)

WASHINGTON (AP) — In an average hour last year in the United States, two persons were murdered and six women were raped.

Before that hour ended, 55 persons became victims of aggravated assault, 52 persons were robbed and 112 vehicles were stolen.

In addition, 360 burglaries were committed and 720 persons or businesses became victims of larcenies.

Altogether, the Federal Bureau of Investigation reported Tuesday, 21 serious crimes were committed every minute of 1975 as the over-all rate increased 10 per cent over 1974.

Of the seven categories tabulated by the FBI in the annual Uniform Crime Reports, only murder showed a decline — by 1 per cent.

In addition, suburbs showed a 10 per cent increase in crime, rural areas 8 per cent and cities of at least 250,000 persons, 7 per cent.

The report showed an estimated 56,090 forcible rapes. That would mean 91 out of every 100,000 women and girls in the country were raped last year or suffered an attempted rape or assault with intent to rape.

But rape is considered the least reported of all crimes, with some authorities speculating that three of every four victims do not report the attack.

Twenty-six per cent of the offenses tabulated under the forcible-rape category were attempted rapes or assaults with intent to rape.

The FBI's Uniform Crime Reports are compiled from voluntary reports by nearly all state and local law enforcement agencies.

Increases in serious crime were recorded for all regions of the country and for cities, suburbs and rural areas alike.

The category showing the greatest leap since 1974, a 14 per cent increase, was larceny-theft, especially of motor vehicles.

Victims lost some $992 million in property in 5.9 million incidents.

The Northeast had the highest rise in serious crime, with 11 per cent more than the year before.

Reported rapes were up 1 per cent, aggravated assault 6 per cent, robbery 5 per cent, burglary 7 per cent and car theft 2 per cent.

Compared with 1970 levels of reported crime, however, rapes had increased by 48 per cent.

Serious property and violent crimes together rose by 39 per cent over the five years.

Sixty-six per cent of the 20,510 murders reported last year were committed by firearms, 51 per cent of which were handguns.

One-fourth of the 484,710 aggravated assaults involved a firearm, the report said, as did 45 per cent of the robberies.

Twenty-five per cent of those arrested for murder last year were between 20 and 24 years old, and 85 per cent of those arrested for burglaries were under 25, the agency said.

Victims of the estimated 3.25 million burglaries lost a total of roughly $1.4 billion last year, the report continued. Some $154 million was taken during the 464,970 robberies.

Legion Boos Carter Over Pardon Plan

LEGIONNAIRE ED McDONALD
Thumbs down on Carter

JIMMY CARTER
Pardon idea bombs

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — Jimmy Carter carried his Presidential campaign into America's heartland today as he moved into Des Moines to speak at the Iowa State Fair.

He received a warm welcome from representatives of two dozen national farm organizations when he spoke to them Tuesday night. It was a sharp contrast to the vociferous boos which greeted him earlier in the day at the American Legion national convention in Seattle when he advocated a blanket pardon for the Vietnam war draft evaders.

At the same time, a counter-demonstration in support of his position broke out in the galleries above the convention floor. The demonstrators were mostly young and did not wear Legion uniforms.

As he has done many times before, Carter made a distinction between pardon and amnesty, which he said he opposed.

"Amnesty means what you did is right," he said. "A pardon means what you did — right or wrong — is forgiven. So pardon — yes, amnesty — no."

But Carter was applauded when he added that military deserters "should be handled on an individual basis in accordance with our nation's system of military justice."

Hearing the earlier boos, Carter, who was wearing a Legion cap, closed his eyes for several seconds and then gave a tight, fixed smile as he said, "I realized before I made my statement that everyone would not agree."

But he added he felt that the divisions and hatred generated by the Vietnam war would not end until the problem of draft evaders and deserters have been resolved.

Carter, an American Legion member himself, got a standing ovation from most of the delegates at the end of the speech, and many of his statements were warmly applauded, including his commitment not to militarily involve the United States in the internal affairs of another country unless national security is directly threatened.

American Legion National Commander Harry Wiles said later that the organization would have to carefully study Carter's pardon proposal. Wiles said he supported "100 per cent" the candidate's suggestion of a case-by-case consideration of deserters and added he felt draft dodgers should be treated the same way.

Others were not so calm. J.J. Wicker, a delegate from Virginia, said he had been prepared to vote for Carter but that he might change his mind as a result of the pardon

UP Fire Burns 18,000 Acres

SENEY, Mich. (AP) — A 'controlled' fire watched by the U.S. Forest Service flared out of control in a gusty wind and has burned 18,000 acres of drought-plagued Upper Peninsula wilderness.

More than 500 firefighters from Idaho, Alaska and several eastern states have joined Michigan crews who say they are battling the worst conflagration in Michigan since 1939.

"Michigan shouldn't be having a fire like this," fire crew supervisor Arnold Hartigan said early today.

The fire, raging out of control through Schoolcraft County's Seney National Wildlife Refuge and Manistique River State Forest, is believed to have started during a late July thunderstorm, sparked by lightning.

Until last Saturday, state forestry officials had allowed it to burn, "to clear out some of the underbrush and debris," Hartigan said.

But the central U.P. area has been suffering an unusual mid-summer drought. And over the weekend, high temperatures and low humidity combined with gusting, shifting winds to fan the flames. Within two days, the fire was out of control.

The National Weather Service forecasts no rain for the area over the next several days.

Thick clouds of smoke have been reported as far away as Milwaukee, Wis., where a newspaper reported that authorities received dozens of phone calls early Monday morning from residents asking what was on fire there.

Hartigan said when he flew in from Idaho in a small private plane, smoke over Green Bay, Wis. "completely obscured" the bay.

Firefighters efforts are hampered by the terrain, Hartigan said, "It's really wild in there. It's a combination of peat, pools of standing water, and marsh grass, interspersed with trees — mostly jack pine, tag alder,

Bird Device Reported Missing

Last night, Friday, of 2550 Friday road, reported to Coloma township police the theft of a $250 electronic bird control device from one of his orchards.

Friday told police the bird control device was removed sometime during the past two days. The electronic device gives off intermittent shrieks (actual recorded warning sounds of birds) throughout the day.

Dole Aims At Carter's 'Contradictions'

SEATTLE (AP) — Republican vice presidential nominee Robert Dole — campaigning on the heels of Carter — said he intends to spell out the Democratic presidential nominee's "mass of contradictions."

Dole said he intends to campaign the next 2½ months emphasizing changes in Carter's political positions, but the Kansas senator said it would not be a personal attack.

Dole said he would reply today to Carter's position on Vietnam war draft evaders when he addresses a national American Legion convention here. He said his position would be his personal view and not necessarily that of the Ford administration.

Carter, appearing before the convention on Tuesday, said he would pardon, but not grant amnesty, to draft evaders if he is elected president. Hundreds of delegates booed and shouted "No" while a counter-demonstration supporting his position broke out in the stands above the convention floor.

Carter said that "for those who violated Selective Service laws, I intend to grant a blanket pardon." He continued, "Amnesty means what you did is right. A pardon means what you did — right or wrong — is forgiven. So pardon — yes, amnesty — no."

Dole is a decorated World War II veteran who spent 30 months in an Army hospital recovering from shrapnel wounds. He still does not have the use of his right arm.

Dole was asked at an airport news conference Tuesday night if his role in the campaign would be to act as "the heavy hitter" while Ford maintains a more aloof "presidential posture".

"Not really," Dole replied. "I'm not known as a hard hitter, I'm one who likes to point up differences, and there will be no personal attacks on anyone.

"Mr. Carter is a mass of contradictions. We hope to spell those out to the American people. They're entitled to know, and if he doesn't want to tell them, I'll be happy to tell them."

Dole said he was not deliberately following Carter around the nation. He arrived in Seattle seven hours after Carter left and moved into the same suite of rooms in the hotel where Carter had stayed.

Later today, Dole was to fly to Des Moines, where Carter was speaking at the Iowa State Fair. Dole plans to make an appearance at the fair tonight.

He is then scheduled to fly to Vail, Colo., on Thursday for a meeting with the President.

Before leaving Washington on Tuesday, Dole said his trip was "a warm-up exercise. We're not really in hot pursuit yet."

The Kansas City Star today quoted Dole as saying in an interview conducted in Washington that he went to last week's Republican National Convention thinking he could be Ronald Reagan's vice presidential candidate. He said he believed it was "very unlikely" that he would end up as Ford's running mate.

Federal Court Logjam Means Justice Denied

Congestion in the state courts has been such in the past several decades as to become accepted as a matter of historical development, but if this condition were ascribed to the U.S. Supreme Court, most laymen would dispute the assertion.

The fact is that the Court is in the situation of a person using a broom to dry out a flooded basement.

The Court itself may not be drowning in its paper work, but litigants seeking its decision are drifting ever farther from shore.

In 1951 the Court had 1,200 cases filed before it.

Today the filing is over 4,000 annually.

Congress which has been aware of this stickiness for a long time has been slow to act upon it.

It appointed a special commission in 1974 to survey the situation.

After 15 months spent mainly in gathering and analyzing statistics the commission recommended creating a National Court of Appeals as one means of reducing the burden thrust upon the Supreme Court.

The NCA is a layering proposal.

In the federal system the district court is the trial tribunal. It is the U.S. counterpart of our circuit in Michigan.

The next step up the line are the Courts of Appeals. They are distributed geographically throughout the country. Roughly speaking, their jurisdictional territory is distributed by the work load generating from a given area.

The final rung on the ladder is the Supreme Court.

The NCA concept would be an interposition between the Court of Appeals and the Supreme Court.

Its proponents make two principal arguments for it.

It would sidestep the time and effort required to restructure today's overlouded system.

More importantly or such is the hope advanced for it, the National Appeals Court would reduce the conflict between the district courts and the Courts of Appeal.

Under the present system the district court at Grand Rapids is not obliged to follow the rulings of the district court at Detroit, nor is the Court of Appeals at Cincinnati jurisdiction includes Michigan required to harmonize its views with the Court of Appeals which holds forth at Chicago.

These differences from court to court contribute substantially to the Supreme Court's burgeoning work load since a litigant losing in one area will try to convince the Washington tribunal that an opinion from another area should be applied.

A National Court of Appeals theoretically would strain those conflicts and thereby give the Supreme Court the time and capacity to devote itself to major constitutional issues.

While the necessity to unclog the federal judicial pipeline is growing daily, there is a question if the NCA would be an adequate solution.

It suffers from the Washington disease of creating another agency to take up the slack caused by an existing bureaucracy.

If it is to perform as an effective screen, it would have to deliver what could be undue arbitrary judgments.

A better approach would be to reduce the jurisdiction of the district courts which are processing a large volume of litigation which more properly lies with the state courts.

Another move could be taken by the Supreme Court itself. This would be removing some of the intricacies in the judicial process itself, the red tape which foments so many appeals.

These two simple moves would do much to alleviate the sting in the acknowledged truism that justice delayed is justice denied.

They're Masters Of Synthetic Enthusiasm

Officially the 1976 presidential election campaign is in full swing, if in fact it has not been for many months. There are times when it seems the presidential sweepstakes has become a permanent fixture stretching into years rather than just a few months before November.

As the hoopla continues to build — and this year's appears to be a particularly lively contest with numerous surprises — it will be interesting to note the perfection of professional spontaneity which accompanies the candidates wherever they go.

Professional spontaneity is a peculiarly political invention. It is a gimmick designed to give the impression, over and over, that a candidate has the magnetic charm, personality and vote-getting appeal to enthrall audiences everywhere.

It isn't limited to nominating conventions, although some of the antics invented for those occasions ought to put the political choreographers in the running for an Oscar or Emmy.

Everytime a candidate makes an appearance, whether at an airport, in a hotel lobby, in a motorcade or at a fund-raising dinner, the spontaneous crowds which seem to appear from nowhere and whoop it up for The Man are largely the work of the advance man.

Advance men are the engineers of a successful political affair and they have become the indispensable — if invisible — men of a campaign. Some candidates employ scores of these innovative aides.

They are the ones who travel several days or weeks ahead of a candidate's schedule making arrangements with local political figures, renting halls and professional demonstrators, outlining the routes and then seeing that they are well lined with enthusiastic spectators.

When the candidate makes his appearance, it is the advance man who fills him in on local situations, provides the names of local celebrities the candidate should not overlook and otherwise stages the affair — no matter how minor — in the most professional manner possible.

Upon the competence of advance men, or lack of it, might well depend the success of an election campaign. They seldom are seen or heard by the public, but without them the candidate probably wouldn't be either.

Phosphate Detergent Ban Topic Of State Hearing

By SUSAN AGER
Associated Press Writer

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Laundry detergents containing any phosphates would be banned from sale or use in Michigan under proposed tougher water quality rules.

The state Water Resources Commission will meet Friday in Escanaba to talk about the proposed rules with representatives of the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, the detergent industry and areas where phosphates are already banned.

Industry representatives are expected to oppose a tightening of current restrictions as being costly to consumers. A spokesman for the Soap and Detergent Association said banning phosphates from laundry detergents will "mean a different kind of cleaning and perhaps problems with appliances."

Current rules set in 1971 by the Natural Resources Commission (NRC) ban the sale in Michigan of any detergent containing more than 8.7 per cent phosphates. New rules also would have to be set by the NRC, though the water resources panel will make a recommendation based on its hearing Friday.

William Turney, chief of the Department of Natural Resources' Water Quality Division, said scientific evidence supports a further reduction in phosphate levels in detergents as a way to continue improving lake quality.

Since the 1971 rules were set, Turney said, "We have seen some dramatic improvements in the lakes and streams, particularly Lake Erie.... The more phosphates you can remove, the better we think the water will be."

In the past several years, parts of Lake Erie that were devoid of oxygen because of heavy algae growth sparked by phosphate nutrients decreased from 15 per cent of the lake area to 45 per cent, Turney said.

A main motive in proposing the tougher rules was the failure of the city of Detroit's wastewater treatment system to meet state pollution rules, he acknowledged.

The Detroit system removes only 50 per cent of phosphorus from sewage, though state rules require it to remove 80 per cent. Equipping the system to meet the phosphate standards would take several years and several million dollars, Turney said.

Sewage from Detroit and 78 suburbs is treated in the Detroit plant and dumped into the Detroit River, which flows into Lake Erie.

When dumped into lakes as an element of treated sewage, phosphates stimulate the growth of algae. Large amounts of algae not only create unpleasant odors and tastes in drinking water, but also consume a lake's oxygen and leave it devoid of other plant and fish life.

Turney said besides the Great Lakes, about 7 per cent of Michigan's inland lakes also receive treated sewage containing phosphates.

Robert Singer, vice president of the Soap and Detergent Association of New York City, which represents more than 90 per cent of the nation's detergent manufacturers, said phosphates are one of two major categories of laundry detergent ingredients. He called it a "builder," and said it enhances a detergent's cleansing powers and softens water to eliminate minerals that interfere with cleaning.

Turney said that although dishwashing liquids and industrial cleansers also contain phosphates, they are exempted from the state's phosphate limitations. Laundry detergents, he said, contribute the greatest percentage of phosphates to sewage.

Already, he said, about 15 per cent of the laundry detergents on Michigan supermarket shelves are phosphate-free.

The Water Resources Commission Friday will also discuss whether to extend the phosphate ban to other products, Turney said.

Jurisdictions which currently ban the use of phosphate detergents include New York, Indiana, Chicago, Akron, Ohio and Dade County (Miami), Fla., according to Singer. The state of Minnesota also has approved new rules that take effect in January banning phosphates in detergents.

Canada also has rules that limit phosphates to 2.2 per cent of laundry detergents, but permit the inclusion of another "builder," the compound NMT. Singer said detergent manufacturers discontinued using that phosphate substitute in 1970 after questions were raised about its effects on the environment and human health.

A subcommittee of the International Joint Commission, a U.S.-Canadian panel, recommended about a month ago that Great Lakes governments seriously consider banning phosphate detergents.

Radiation Dump Deadly Neighbor?

RINGOS MILL, Ky. — Oscar Hurst's cows are dying. First they lose energy and sexual interest; then they begin to grind their teeth and paw at the ground as if in pain; finally, patches of their hair bleach out, grow rapidly and shed away. "And they just die," says Hurst, "one day they just keel over and go."

Oscar Hurst is a dairyman who works 20 head of cattle on a scrubby stretch of bottom land here in the hills of northeastern Kentucky. Ordinarily his bovine problems are a matter of interest only to him and his veterinarian, but not this time. Hurst's farm is located down valley from the world's largest private nuclear materials dump, a dump that has been known to leak radiation, and Hurst fears his cows may be the victims of alpha ray poisoning.

"I don't know it for a fact," Hurst says, while walking among his unhealthy animals, "I don't even know if it's possible. All I know is my cows are dropping dead on me. Now you look at that old girl over there. See that white hair? It's an inch longer than the black. Nobody knows why. Nobody I know has ever seen anything like it. That old girl's in bad shape; a month or two more, maybe."

Hurst is not the only one in Ringos Mill with the nuclear jitters these days. Growing numbers of residents are wondering if their cattle, or their soil, or their sons and daughters are being contaminated by the omnipresent nuclear dump. Dump officers say no, and U.S. authorities agree, but people here are worried just the same.

The dump itself is not newly alarming. It was created on about 30 acres of farmland in the early 1960s, ostensibly as a final resting place for low-radiation waste (hospital equipment and other relatively harmless garbage). Then a few years ago the Environmental Protection Agency determined that the buried radiation may be "migrating," that is leaching into surrounding soil and water.

The EPA suggestion enlightened and sobered the locals. For instance they learned for the first time that the burials consisted not merely of low yield radiation, but perhaps prisons as well, plutonium, for instance. An invisible speck of plutonium can cause cancer, a pound of it in the air might kill nine billion people. Citizens here began to wonder if one day they might all wake up dead.

Staunch opposition to the dump (owned by nuclear Engineering Co.) has existed since the EPA report, not only locally but in the Kentucky legislature. Recently the lawmakers instituted a tough 10 cent tax on every pound of nuclear waste brought into the state, a law essentially calculated to discourage continuance of the dumping at Ringos Mill.

That law may be working. Local wisdom is that dump owners can't afford the tariff and will soon have to close.

But even an end to the dumping would not eliminate the worries and suspicion here. Plutonium has a half life of 25,000 years, which means that if it is leaking it will continue to leak for hundreds of thousands of generations. So it is that Hurst and others may not in their lifetimes be entirely out of harm's way.

Understand, there is no evidence that the locals are in danger. Nuclear officers have sampled the soil, the grass, the streams, even the milk from Hurst's cows, apparently with no alarm. Yet apprehension grows. Cancer? Birth deformities? Slow deaths? "The government keeps telling us not to worry," says Hurst's neighbor John P. Hay, "but we worry. What we worry about is the unknown."

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — The late journalistic lion Walter Lippmann once wrote: "Politicians don't mean badly; most of the time they don't mean anything."

The Republicans have just spent four days and nights tryng to tell us what they mean, and it all boils down to two little words: Get Jimmy.

And memories were astonishing short. Richard Nixon was a verbal no-no. A proposal that injudictously described corrupt acts by public officials as "unpardonable" was quickly shouted down.

Differences between Republican delegates and their Democratic counterparts of a month ago were not as obvious as in 1972, when the Republicans had the confident air of permanent occupants of the White House and Democrats neither drank Gallo wine nor ate lettuce. But there is no mixing the two breeds.

Republicans wear funny hats with rubber elephants on them. Democrats wear funny T-shirts with messages on them that say, . . well, never mind.

Republican women wear high heels and neat dresses and think the new taffeta peasant look is adorable. Democratic women wear pants suits and think the French fashion industry is stupid.

Republicans think women's rights means not having to pick up the dinner check. Democrats know it means owning the restaurant.

Republicans think conservatism means maintaining the status quo. Democrats think it means a billion dollars less than they would like to spend.

ITEM: Henry Cabot Lodge, Richard Nixon's 1960 running mate, could have used that American Express card which used to give William E. Miller instant indentification. Here as a delegate from Massachusetts, Lodge was as forgotten as Barry Goldwater's vice presidential nominee.

Virtually ignored in the activity on the floor, Lodge, 74, observed that he has been attending GOP conventions since 1928, when the party nominated Herbert Hoover. He liked that first one best.

But he keeps coming back, he says, because, "I'm a glutton for punishment."

ITEM: The new Federal finance laws have transformed certain convention attitudes. President Ford's staff all had to pay their own expenses and it increased their friendliness no end.

"Normally, we don't talk to the press over drinks," a Ford official sniffed. "But now we're all reconsidering."

ITEM: It still isn't clear why Sen. James Buckley flirted with a last-minute presidential mini-bid. The answer appears to be simply that he wanted some publicity for his New York Senate race. His four Democratic opponents, still battling it out in the primary, have been getting all the attention.

Federal Court Logjam Means Justice Denied

Congestion in the state courts has been such in the past several decades as to become accepted as a matter of historical development, but if this condition were ascribed to the U.S. Supreme Court, most laymen would dispute the assertion.

The fact is that the Court is in the situation of a person using a broom to dry out a flooded basement.

The Court itself may not be drowning in its paper work, but litigants seeking its decision are drifting ever farther from shore.

In 1951 the Court had 1,200 cases filed before it.

Today the filing is over 4,000 annually.

Congress which has been aware of this stickiness for a long time has been slow to act upon it.

It appointed a special commission in 1974 to survey the situation.

After 15 months spent mainly in gathering and analyzing statistics the commission recommended creating a National Court of Appeals as one means of reducing the burden thrust upon the Supreme Court.

The NCA is a layering proposal.

In the federal system the district court is the trial tribunal. It is the U.S. counterpart of our circuit in Michigan.

The next step up the line are the Courts of Appeals. They are distributed geographically throughout the country. Roughly speaking, their jurisdictional territory is distributed by the work load generating from a given area.

The final rung on the ladder is the Supreme Court.

The NCA concept would be an interposition between the Court of Appeals and the Supreme Court.

Its proponents make two principal arguments for it.

It would sidestep the time and effort required to restructure today's overloaded system.

More importantly or such is the hope advanced for it, the National Appeals Court would reduce the conflict between the district courts and the Courts of Appeal.

Under the present system the district court at Grand Rapids is not obliged to follow the rulings of the district court at Detroit, nor is the Court of Appeals at Cincinnati jurisdiction includes Michigan required to harmonize its views with the Court of Appeals which holds forth at Chicago.

These differences from court to court contribute substantially to the Supreme Court's burgeoning work load since a litigant losing in one area will try to convince the Washington tribunal that an opinion from another area should be applied.

A National Court of Appeals theoretically would strain those conflicts and thereby give the Supreme Court the time and capacity to devote itself to major constitutional issues.

While the necessity to unclog the federal judicial pipeline is growing daily, there is a question if the NCA would be an adequate solution.

It suffers from the Washington disease of creating another agency to take up the slack caused by an existing bureaucracy.

If it is to perform as an effective screen, it would have to deliver what could be undue arbitrary judgments.

A better approach would be to reduce the jurisdiction of the district courts which are processing a large volume of litigation which more properly lies with the state courts.

Another move could be taken by the Supreme Court itself. This would be removing some of the intricacies in the judicial process itself, the red tape which foments so many appeals.

These two simple moves would do much to alleviate the sting in the acknowledged truism that justice delayed is justice denied.

Republican women wear high heels and neat dresses and think the new taffeta peasant look is adorable. Democratic women wear pants suits and think the French fashion industry is stupid.

Republicans think women's rights means not having to pick up the dinner check. Democrats know it means owning the restaurant.

Republicans think conservatism means maintaining the status quo. Democrats think it means a billion dollars less than they would like to spend.

ITEM: Henry Cabot Lodge, Richard Nixon's 1960 running mate, could have used that American Express card which used to give William E. Miller instant indentification. Here as a delegate from Massachusetts, Lodge was as forgotten as Barry Goldwater's vice presidential nominee.

Virtually ignored in the activity on the floor, Lodge, 74, observed that he has been attending GOP conventions since 1928, when the party nonlinated Herbert Hoover. He liked that first one best.

But he keeps coming back, he says, because, "I'm a glutton for punishment."

ITEM: The new Federal finance laws have transformed certain convention attitudes. President Ford's staff all had to pay their own expenses and it increased their friendliness no end.

"Normally, we don't talk to the press over drinks," a Ford official sniffed. "But now we're all reconsidering."

ITEM: It still isn't clear why Sen. James Buckley flirted with a last-minute presidential minibid. The answer appears to be simply that he wanted some publicity for his New York Senate race. His four Democratic opponents, still battling it out in the primary, have been getting all the attention.

St. Joe School Classes Will Begin Sept. 7

St. Joseph public schools will open with a full day of classes Tuesday, Sept. 7, Supt. Burton R. Aldrich announced. Aldrich said parents of students new to the St. Joseph school district should contact the principal of the school they will be attending to receive enrollment information.

Willis Koontz, principal of Upton junior high, said seventh and eighth grade students new to the district should report to Upton to have their class schedules prepared. They may report to Upton on any day next Monday through Thursday from 8 a.m. to noon and 1 to 3 p.m., Koontz said. Upton junior high will be the only junior high school operating in the district this school year.

The St. Joseph board of education voted May 17 to close Milton junior high school, move ninth graders to St. senior high, and send all seventh and eighth graders to Upton junior high. Milton was closed for economy reasons and because of declining enrollment.

Aldrich said the schedule for senior high will remain the same with students beginning school at 8 a.m. and ending at 2:50 p.m. He said the junior high school schedule will be different this year with students starting at 8:25 a.m. and ending at 3:08 p.m. Schedules for elementary schools will be split, according to Aldrich, with students at Brown, Clarke, and North Lincoln going from 8:50 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.; Jefferson 8:50-3:15; and students at Lincoln and Washington 8:45-3:10.

Bus schedules for the new school year will be similar to those in operation two years ago, Aldrich said. Students living more than a mile-and-a-half from school and those students who must walk across or along Cleveland, Washington and Lincoln avenues are eligible to ride the bus this year, he said.

Buses will start morning runs at 7:15 a.m. for high school students, 8 a.m. for junior high school students, and 8:15 a.m. for elementary students. A special "after-practice" bus run will be established to bring Upton students participating in sports back to the city, Aldrich said. A complete bus schedule will be published in The Herald-Palladium Sept. 4, he said.

The hot lunch program will start the first day of classes Sept. 7, according to Aldrich. Cost for lunches will be 40 cents, for elementary students and 45 cents for junior and senior high school students. The first collection date for lunch tickets will be Sept. 7. Kindergarten milk will be $4.50 per half-year and can be paid at registration time, Aldrich said.

Aldrich said the school calendar calls for a Christmas recess from the close of school on Dec. 17 until Jan. 3. The first semester ends Jan. 21 and spring recess begins April 1 and ends April 11. Baccalaureate is set for June 5 and commencement exercises on June 9, which is also the last day of school for students. Koontz said parents of seventh and eighth graders who have questions concerning enrollment at Upton junior high should contact him at 429-1566.

GRADUATE TOGETHER: Mrs. Sam P. (Cleo) Hansen and her daughter, Kay, graduated Aug. 28 from Western Michigan university. Mrs. Hansen received a master's degree in elementary education. Miss Hansen graduated magna cum laude, receiving bachelor's degree in elementary education. Mrs. Hansen is a substitute teacher in St. Joseph school system and her daughter will teach first grade in Lakeview, Mich., school system. The Hansens reside at 3062 Washington avenue, St. Joseph. Sam Hansen is regional supervisor of food inspection division and weights and measure section of Michigan Department of Agriculture.

Judges Give Grand Jury Month More

By SCOTT WILLIAMSON
Staff Writer

Berrien county's citizens' grand jury was granted an extension yesterday by the county's three circuit court judges and is now scheduled to expire Sept. 24.

The extension order came after Prosecutor John Smietanka requested the additional month "to complete the work of the grand jury as best we can." The grand jury, empaneled in February, had been slated to end yesterday.

Smietanka said the extension will not involve any more funds because there are still monies available from the original appropriation. The extension order was granted by Judges Julian E. Hughes, Chester J. Byrns, and William S. White.

Smietanka said he expects more indictments to be returned in the next 30 days, but declined to say how many. Asked if he felt the first six months of Berrien's only citizens' grand jury had been worthwhile, the prosecutor replied: "I feel it's been extremely effective.

"Like an iceberg, much of the effect of the grand jury is unseen. It's sometimes difficult for people not involved directly with the grand jury to appreciate that, but it's worth every penny we've spent and more."

To date, the grand jury has returned indictments against 13 people. One has pleaded no contest to his charge in circuit court, eight have been bound over to circuit court for trial, one is awaiting preliminary examination in district court, and charges against three have been dismissed.

Session Slated On Swine Flu

The Berrien County county health department has announced an orientation meeting designed to inform community leaders about the nationwide swine flu immunization program authorized by Congress and President Ford.

Jerome A. Erickson, public health administrator for the department, said the meeting will be held Sept. 22 from 1:30 to 3:30 p.m. at Lake Michigan college, Napier avenue, Benton township.

Erickson said the meeting he will explain "the mechanics and logistics of the program" to representatives from county school systems, industries, health care facilities and the press.

"These groups have a large captive audience that can be familiarized with the program and immunized with a minimum of effort," Erickson explained.

Erickson said representatives who attend the meeting will be told about the different types of swine flu vaccine available, possible reactions from the shots, how long the vaccine is effective, and immunization procedures. They will also be informed about the forms which those who want the flu shots must fill out and the liability procedures.

"We also want to know if these schools, industries and health facilities have the personnel to give the shots or if they'll need our help," the health administrator added.

Has Eye Surgery

Mrs. E.A. (Henrietta) Irion, 76, Goshen, Ind., has been released from the Goshen General hospital and is home recovering following surgery for removal of a cataract from her eye, according to her husband.

Rev. E.A. Irion, former minister of the Zion Evangelical & Reformed church, 3001 Veronica drive, St. Joseph, said his wife was operated on Aug. 20 and returned home Tuesday of this week. The Irions were long time residents of St. Joseph prior to moving to Goshen. They reside at 500 Ora-Roy drive, Goshen.

Veteran Social Worker Fired For 'Resistance'

Mrs. Inez Holmes, well-known social worker with the Berrien county social services department, was fired from her job Monday for what was described as "resistance to follow department guidelines."

She had been employed by social services 24 years with the last 18 in Berrien county.

Michael Masternak, employe relations representative for the Department of Social Services in Lansing, said Mrs. Holmes was fired by the Lansing office after a recommendation to do so from the Berrien county office.

Masternak said Mrs. Holmes was fired because she "refused to carry out assignments and handle the necessary caseloads." He said her firing was recommended after a second 3-month rating on her work proved unsatisfactory.

"I think everyone believes that Mrs. Holmes had the ability," Masternak said. "But she had a resistance to follow the department's guidelines. A lot of workers don't like to do the paperwork, but it's a necessary part of the job."

Masternak said Mrs. Holmes was offered the chance to "voluntarily retire" but chose instead to be dismissed.

She has already filed a preliminary grievance with her immediate supervisor, Kathleen McKee, charging "harassment and discrimination," which has been forwarded to the Lansing office, according to Masternak. He said Mrs. Holmes has also indicated she will file a formal grievance against her firing.

Mrs. Holmes released a statement this morning in response to the firing:

"I accept the challenge of the Berrien County Department of Social Services in the stand I am taking.

"It has been my endeavor to remove the people from welfare, placing them in secure positions so they, themselves, can become taxpayers and be able to maintain their dignity.

"As to the charge of failure to complete cases, I ask that you look around in the agencies within the county as well as the hospitals and school systems and see the many people I have worked for who are now removed from ADC and are now independent taxpaying citizens. The young people I work with are not sitting on 'welfare and laughing'. They are working and producing.

"I have no further statement at this time."

Tourism Booming

Jack Wilson, director of the Michigan Travel Commission, told the group's annual convention Tuesday that Michigan's tourist trade is increasing at more than twice the national average this year.

Wilson said that nationally, the tourist business is up 2 to 4 per cent. In Michigan, the increase is 5 to 10 per cent. He said during the first week of August, tourism revenues in Michigan ran 10.4 per cent above the same week of 1975.

The tourist trade is worth almost $4 billion to Michigan each year, the commission reported.

Congress OKs $528,000 For New Feeder Beach

By MIKE WYNGARDEN
Staff Writer

Funds have been approved to construct a second "feeder beach" at Shoreham and south St. Joseph in an effort to rebuild the erosion-plagued Lake Michigan shoreline here, according to an official from the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers.

Bory Steinberg, assistant chief of the programs division for the Army Corps of Engineers in Washington D.C., said Congress has approved about $528,000 for the project and said the money should become available Oct. 1.

Steinberg said the new 3,000-foot feeder beach will be constructed by a private contractor. The beach will extend 1,500 feet south into Shoreham and 1,500 feet north along the St. Joseph city shoreline.

Earlier in the summer, the Army Corps of Engineers rebuilt the beach immediately south of the St. Joseph piers by dredging unpolluted sand from the lake bottom and depositing the sand along a 3,500-foot stretch of beach from Elm street to the St. Joseph water pumping station.

At the time the $447,000 project at the St. Joseph harbor was started, Col. James E. Hays, Detroit district engineer for the Army Corps, said the Army Corps did not have the money to complete the Shoreham-south St. Joseph feeder beach portion of the project.

But Steinberg said Congress has just approved appropriations to complete the entire $975,000 project.

Richard Price, project manager for the Detroit district office of the Army Corps of Engineers, said bid-taking on the project is expected to begin within the next couple of weeks and said the contract should be awarded by Oct. 1. The project should be completed by March, Price said.

The object of the "feeder beach" method, described as the first of its kind in the continental United States, is to deposit new sand on the beach and allow lake currents to carry the sand away and "feed" the sand to badly-eroded areas.

Steinberg said said an act of Congress of 1968 calls for the federal government to remedy erosion caused by federal navigation structures. In the case of St. Joseph, Steinberg said, the two piers were found to be the cause of some of the shoreline erosion.

Price said sand for the Shoreham-south St. Joseph project will be purchased by a private contractor and the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers will oversee the quality and amount of sand used.

New City Manager Didn't Get Increase

Melvin Farmer Jr. said he did not get a raise in salary when he was appointed acting city manager by the Benton Harbor city commission Monday. The resolution stated that "the acting city manager be paid an annual salary of $24,000."

Farmer said he was making $24,000 before being named acting city manager. Yesterday's Herald-Palladium described $24,000 as a "new" salary for Farmer.

Farmer said his salary has been $24,000 since October, 1973. He was hired in June, 1973, as deputy city manager at a salary of $16,500. In October that year it rose to $24,000 when he was appointed Model Cities director and took on a dual role.

He explained that for more than a year after that federal Model Cities funds reimbursed the City of Benton Harbor for the portion of his time spent on Model Cities work. But since March, 1975, Model Cities has not reimbursed the city for his time.

Farmer said the Model Cities portion of his salary has counted as an in-kind city contribution to Benton Harbor's share of Model Cities costs.

Farmer said he is still Model Cities director, although no new Model Cities projects have been undertaken since June 30, 1975. But Model Cities administrative closeout work has continued.

He described the dual arrangement as a "money saving one because an additional director was not hired."

Farmer said he believed an explanation was necessary "in that the article as written implies a contradictory action by the city commission regarding the utilization of personnel and cutting costs."

AT LAKESHORE: David Clark, 33, has been hired as an assistant principal at Lakeshore high school. Clark most recently was a social studies teacher at Stanton. He has a bachelor's degree from University of Idaho plus master's and education specialist degrees from Western Michigan university.

Sixth Year For Nursery

Registration Sept. 1

By ALICE KOCH
Stevensville Correspondent

Lakeshore Pre-School Nursery, a cooperative nursery in southwestern Michigan, will begin its sixth year Sept. 13.

The school, located in St. Lukes Lutheran church, 5020 Cleveland avenue, Stevensville, is open to all children who will be three years old by Sept. 1.

The Lakeshore nursery originated six years ago under the leadership of Mrs. Joseph (Barbara) Skwara of Stevensville and other parents who felt a need for a cooperative nursery in the area.

Licensed by the Michigan Council of Cooperative Nurseries, the school is owned, operated and administered by parents of enrolled pre-school children. Each session is taught by a licensed teacher with the assistance of three mothers.

The cooperative nursery provides the mother the opportunity to see her child grow and develop with children his own age outside the home environment. Each mother assists at one session every other week, according to a schedule prepared two months in advance.

Registration deadline is Sept. 1, followed by an orientation evening for all parents on Sept. 7 at 7:30 p.m. at the church.

Sixth Year For Nursery

Registration Sept. 1

By ALICE KOCH
Stevensville Correspondent

Lakeshore Pre-School Nursery, a cooperative nursery in southwestern Michigan, will begin its sixth year Sept. 13.

The school, located in St. Lukes 'Lutheran church, 5020 Cleveland avenue, Stevensville, is open to all children who will be three years old by Sept. 1.

The Lakeshore nursery originated six years ago under the leadership of Mrs. Joseph (Barbara) Skwara of Stevensville and other parents who felt a need for a cooperative nursery in the area.

Licensed by the Michigan Council of Cooperative Nurseries, the school is owned, operated and administered by parents of enrolled pre-school children. Each session is taught by a licensed teacher with the assistance of three mothers.

The cooperative nursery provides the mother the opportunity to see her child grow and develop with children his own age outside the home environment. Each mother assists at one session every other week, according to a schedule prepared two months in advance.

Plan Special Summer Outing Before Season's End

Picnics Are Popular Pastime

According to Webster's dictionary, a picnic is "a pleasure party, the food for which is usually provided by members of the group and is eaten in the open air."

Americans love picnics. A popular pastime is toting a basket picnic supper to an outdoor concert. Whether it is rock, jazz or Beethoven's Fifth, people of all ages can be found in the local parks listening to music and eating a sandwich.

Another favorite is the tailgate picnic — so called because a station wagon's tailgate when lowered makes an ideal picnic table. This modern version of a chuck wagon meal is a great way to picnic before a baseball or football game.

The best part of any picnic is the food. Make sure you have plenty of it; you will work up an appetitite just being outdoors. Select foods that suit the weather, the group and the picnic site. In general picnic foods should be quick to make, simple to carry and easy to eat. Finger foods (crackers, peanuts, raw vegetables, pickles), cold cooked meats, hearty salads (potato, macaroni, rice, coleslaw), hot and cold thermos drinks and uncut fruit travel well.

Sandwiches are always popular for picnics. Make them ahead and wrap individually or carry different fillings in plastic containers along with a variety of bread and rolls.

CURRIED SHRIMP SALAD
Makes six sandwiches

Two cups chopped cooked shrimp
One cup finely chopped celery
Two tablespoons finely chopped onion
One-half teaspoon salt
Three-fourths teaspoon curry powder
One tablespoon lemon juice
Two tablespoons chopped parsley
One-half cup mayonnaise
One-half cup chopped peanuts
Six hard rolls

Combine shrimp and celery in a large bowl. Mix together onion, salt, curry, lemon juice, parsley and mayonnaise. Blend into shrimp mixture. Chill.

One of the reasons camping has become such a popular American pastime is that there's a form of camping to fit everyone's needs.

You can choose to rough-it by back-packing with little more than a sleeping bag, or set up a comfortable tent camp, or relax in the luxury of a camper-trailer. Whichever way, an outdoors vacation is an exciting change from your usual city or suburban routine.

Feeding a crew on a long distance sailing race is the ultimate challenge for a galley chef. He must avoid excess weight, but meet the needs of the hungry crew, as well.

Alex Crabtree was called on to do just this as a galley cook on the 14-day, 2,225-mile Transpac Race across the Pacific. Here are some tips from him, complimented with seaworthy recipes.

Storage Space: Regardless of boat size, there is very little room allotted to the galley. The key here is to keep supplies to a minimum.

Cooking utensils should include a large frying pan, saucepan, teakettle and mixing/serving bowl. Kitchen tools are comprised of a spatula, fork, two knives and two mixing/serving spoons.

Refrigeration: Plan to have two ice chests. One packed with dry ice and pre-frozen foods, marked and packed in reverse order of use. This way the chest needs to be opened only once in the morning for each day's provisions. The thawing packs can then be transferred to a second chest holding canned beverages. This chest may then be opened throughout the day.

Before packing the foods, do as much preparations as possible. Remember that there is limited work space. For the Mandarin Fish recipe, slice carrots, celery and onions and pack with butter in foil and refrigerate. You're then ready to cook the entire package at once. The fish fillets can be pre-cut and refrigerated, too.

Dry Goods: Assume that everything in the galley may get wet. With this in mind pack all dry goods in plastic, like the rolls for Meatball Boats. You can then be assured that there will be dry rolls to hollow out and form the meatballs. The reserved crumbs are combined with ground beef, an egg and seasonings to form the meatballs.

Try to consolidate as many ingredients for one dish as possible. For Scalloped Tuna Skillet, add all the spices to the package scallop potato mix and reseal. You've just eliminated a number of small jars.

SALAMI STEW

Two cans (nineteen-ounce each) chunky minestrone soup
One-fourth teaspoon Italian seasoning, crushed

In saucepan, brown salami; pour off fat. Add remaining ingredients. Heat; stir occasionally. Makes about five and one-half cups, four servings.

MANDARIN FISH

One-half cup diagonally sliced carrots
One-half cup diagonally sliced celery
One-fourth cup finely chopped green onions
One tablespoon butter or margarine
One can (ten and three-fourths ounce) condensed mushroom soup
One-half cup water
One pound fillets of white fish, cut in two-inch pieces
Chinese noodles
Soy sauce

In skillet, cook carrots, celery and onion in butter until just tender. Add soup, water and fish. Cover; cook over low heat 10 minutes or until done. Stir gently now and then. Serve over Chinese noodles with soy sauce. Makes about four cups, four servings.

MEATBALL BOATS

Four long hard rolls
One can (eleven ounce) condensed tomato bisque soup
One pound ground beef
One egg, slightly beaten
Two teaspoons instant minced onion
One-half teaspoon salt
Two tablespoons shortening
One cup water
One tablespoon vinegar
One-fourth teaspoon hot pepper sauce
Grated cheese

Cut thin slice from tops of rolls. Hollow out leaving one-half-inch thick shell, reserving bread. Crumble bread to form soft bread crumbs (one and one-half cups).

In bowl, mix thoroughly one-fourth cup soup, beef, egg, reserved bread crumbs, onion and salt. Shape firmly into 24 meatballs.

In skillet, brown meatballs in shortening; pour off fat. Add remaining soup, water, vinegar and hot pepper sauce. Cover; cook over low heat 20 minutes or until done. Stir occasionally.

Spoon mixture into rolls. Garnish with cheese, if desired. Makes four sandwiches, about one cup sauce.

SCALLOPED TUNA SKILLET

Four slices bacon
One can (ten and three-fourths ounce) condensed cream of onion soup
Two cups water
One pkg. (about five ounces) scalloped potato mix
One can (sixteen ounce) cut green beans, drained
One-half teaspoon ground thyme
One-fourth teaspoon salt
Dash pepper
Two cans (about seven ounce each) tuna, drained and flaked

In skillet, cook bacon until crisp; remove and crumble. Pour off all but two tablespoons drippings. Stir remaining ingredients except tuna and bacon into drippings. Cover; cook over low heat 15 minutes or until potatoes are tender. Stir occasionally. Add tuna; heat. Garnish with bacon. Makes about five cups, four servings.

Picnics Are Popular Pastime

According to Webster's dictionary, a picnic is "a pleasure party, the food for which is usually provided by members of the group and is eaten in the open air."

Americans love picnics. A popular pastime is toting a basket picnic supper to an outdoor concert. Whether it is rock, jazz or Beethoven's Fifth, people of all ages can be found in the local parks listening to music and eating a sandwich.

Another favorite is the tailgate picnic — so called because a station wagon's tailgate when lowered makes an ideal picnic table. This modern version of a chuck wagon meal is a great way to picnic before a baseball or football game.

The best part of any picnic is the food. Make sure you have plenty of it; you will work up an appetitite just being outdoors. Select foods that suit the weather, the group and the picnic site. In general picnic foods should be quick to make, simple to carry and easy to eat. Finger foods (crackers, peanuts, raw vegetables, pickles), cold cooked meats, hearty salads (potato, macaroni, rice, coleslaw), hot and cold thermos drinks and uncut fruit travel well.

Sandwiches are always popular for picnics. Make them ahead and wrap individually or carry different fillings in plastic containers along with a variety of bread and rolls.

CURRIED SHRIMP SALAD
Makes six sandwiches
Two cups chopped cooked shrimp
One cup finely chopped celery
Two tablespoons finely chopped onion
One-half teaspoon salt
Three-fourths teaspoon curry powder
One tablespoon lemon juice
Two tablespoons chopped parsley
One-half cup mayonnaise
One-half cup chopped peanuts
Six hard rolls

Combine shrimp and celery in a large bowl. Mix together onion, salt, curry, lemon juice, parsley and mayonnaise. Blend into shrimp mixture. Chill.

One of the reasons camping has become such a popular American pastime is that there's a form of camping to fit everyone's needs.

You can choose to rough-it by back-packing with little more than a sleeping bag, or set up a comfortable tent camp, or relax in the luxury of a camper-trailer. Whichever way, an outdoors vacation is an exciting change from your usual city or suburban routine.

Two envelopes instant onion soup
One cup water
One whole chicken breast, split
Two small potatoes, thinly sliced

Two pieces heavy-duty aluminum foil (eighteen inches square)

In small bowl or cup, blend instant cream of mushroom and instant onion soup with water.

For each dinner, place half the chicken, potatoes, and carrots on foil; pour on half the soup mixture. Wrap foil loosely, sealing edges airtight with double fold.

'Your Problems' By Ann Landers

Ann Sticks To Her 'Humor'

Dear Ann Landers: Your misguided advice to "Morph" set the Women's Movement back 100 years.

I agree — a married couple who cannot get adequate rest in a double bed should go to twin beds, but your suggestion that the wife put a whistle on his nightstand left me cold.

Sexist humor is no longer in good taste. Unfortunately, too many of your readers do not have your intellectual capacity. They are sure to take you seriously. I pity the wives of the chauvinist males who will have that column used against them.

People are not to be whistled for like dogs — especially wives of men who want sex. I'll bet the flamboyant your receive for that shameful answer will bring forth an apology, but it can't possibly compensate for the damage you've already done. — P.M.

Dear P.M.: If you don't have a sense of humor you're nowhere — which, incidentally, is the principal flaw in the Women's Movement. Sorry, P.M., I'm not apologizing for that answer. It was O.K. and I stand by it.

Bed-Wetting

Dear Ann: The problem is bed-wetting. It is our son, the oldest of seven children. He reads your column religiously and we hope he will heed your advice.

We have had Arnie to a urologist for tests three times in the last six years. There is nothing physically wrong with the boy. He is 19 years old now and has ruined more bedding and mattresses than I care to think about. The doctor has given Arnie pills, which he "forgets" to take. All instructions not to drink liquids after 4:00 p.m. are ignored.

I can't tell you how upset I get when I go to make up his bed in the morning and find he has done it again.

What burns me up is he doesn't care. Any advice? — Washing Machine Blues

Dear Wash: A 19-year-old boy who wets his bed and "doesn't care" is sending out messages. Tell him he can swim ten laps a night if he wants to but from now on he must do his own laundry and make his own bed. (I'll bet he dries up fairly soon.)

New Name Costly

Dear Ann Landers: The letter from the woman who had her name legally changed misled you as well as countless others. She made it sound very simple. Well, it isn't.

First you have to go to the county courthouse and get a petition. It must be filled out and notarized by someone who has known you for at least five years. Then you must publicize it for six to eight weeks in a newspaper or a daily law bulletin.

Next step: You are required to get new copies of all certified documents, such as driver's license, marriage license, social security card, birth certificate, just about everything that bears your name.

The total cost for all this runs anywhere from $60 to $75. So please, Ann, let your readers know that there's more to it than Mrs. New-Name implied. — Think I'll Keep My Old Name

ANN LANDERS

Dear Think: I feel like changing mine after all the complaints I've received. Charles Seib, Associate Editor of the Washington Post, informed me that Jack Crandall, Chief of Vital Records for the District of Columbia, had to straighten out a lot of people because of that flaky information. I've checked out yours and it is correct. So folks, now you have the straight goods.

Ann Landers discusses teenage drinking — its myths, its realities. Learn the facts by reading "Booze and You — For Teen-Agers Only," by Ann Landers. Send 50 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120.

Dr. Lester Coleman

Can you imagine how upset my wife and I were when my routine Wasserman test recently came back positive for syphilis? I'm 45 and responsible enough to know that I never had this disease. The next test proved negative. I'm confused. — Mr. M.M., Va.

Dear Mr. M.:

False positive Wasserman reactions are not uncommon. Even in the absence of syphilis, occasionally the report can be mildly positive.

Recent viral infections, pneumonia, malaria, pregnancy (obviously not in your case!), mononucleosis and recent vaccinations may sometimes produce a temporary, false positive Wasserman.

Since these and other conditions may produce such a result, these tests are repeated when there has been no history of exposure to syphilis.

There are now many more sensitive and highly sophisticated blood studies that can determine positively the absence or presence of syphilis.

Can a cancer of the breast be caused by an injury? I hurt myself playing tennis and I worry about it. — Mrs. K.T., Fla.

Dear Mrs. T.:

I doubt that a single injury can be responsible for the production cancer. Perhaps repeated pressure or injuries may be a cause.

An injury may cause the rupture of a blood vessel and a collection of blood (hematoma). This may feel like a lump and give the appearance of a tumor.

One of the reasons why some women attribute a breast cancer to an injury is that the injury may have made them inspect their breast more thoroughly. It is in this way that an undiscovered lump may have been brought to light.

Nametags Needed

We were talking the other day about a strange phenomenon of Motherhood.

A woman starts thinking of a name for her baby from the minute she knows she is carrying one. She will write it out, say it aloud, try it out on friends and embroider it on little shirts. When the baby is born, she will whisper the name softly in its ear, write it on dozens of announcements and file it in the courthouse.

A few years and a few kids later, she can't remember who you are. I've heard mothers go through 10 or 12 names before they get lucky and hit the right one. (Once I wore my PJs wrong-side-out and my Mom thinking it was a name tag called me Dr. Denton for a week!)

Children seem to think there is something Freudian in the entire exercise. The old if - my - mother - really - loved - me — she'd - remember - my - name. This is bogwash. I love Marc . . . Mary . . . Mike . . . Mil . . . Mash . . . Maaa . . . whatshisname with the same affection as I love Bet . . . Bronc . . . Evelyn . . . Martha . . . Trish . . . you know who you are.

Our neighborhood psychiatrist bears me out. He said there is nothing you can generalize from mothers who can't put a name to their children right off the bat.

It used to be a good day for me when I could remember what I called them for, let alone remember who they are.

In talking with a young married the other day, it was revealed that he was one of seven children and not once when he was growing up was he ever called by his real name. "I guess it was because there were so many of us," he said, "that it confused my mother."

I hated to shoot his theory down but for a long while I was an only child and still got "Sarah . . . Betty . . . Mildred . . . Virginia . . . Edna."

Finally, in desperation, my mother would shout, "How long do I have to call you before you answer?"

"Was I CLOSE?" she'd shout.

"Edna was somewhere in the neighborhood."

"I always liked Edna," she mused, "I should have named you that."

"Then why did you name me Erma?"

"Because it was easy to remember."

All jumps to game do convey the message that you want to play in that denomination. In case your partner has already limited his hand, you also expect him to stop. Thus, if your raise him from one to three notrump you are saying: "I have enough for game, but not enough for a slam and notrump is where I want to play the hand."

South's three notrump call with today's hand showed 19 or 20 points, preparation for any lead except that of his partner's suit and a desire to play notrump.

North had 14 high-card points of his own and five-card spade suit, but his 10 of clubs turned out to be the key card for the slam. That card gave South a sure 12 tricks against any combination of East-West cards since it gave him three sure tricks in each suit. 'Your Problems' By Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: Your misguided advice to "Morph" set the Women's Movement back 100 years.

I agree — a married couple who cannot get adequate rest in a double bed should go to twin beds, but your suggestion that the wife put a whistle on his nightstand left me cold.

Sexist humor is no longer in good taste. Unfortunately, too many of your readers do not have your intellectual capacity. They are sure to take you seriously. I pity the wives of the chauvinist males who will have that column used against them.

People are not to be whistled for like dogs — especially wives of men who want sex. I'll bet the lambasting your receive for that shameful answer will bring forth an apology, but it can't possibly compensate for the damage you've already done. — P.M.

Dear P.M.: If you don't have a sense of humor you're nowhere — which, incidentally, is the principal flaw in the Women's Movement. Sorry, P.M., I'm not apologizing for that answer. It was O.K. and I stand by it.

Bed-Wetting

Dear Ann: The problem is bed-wetting. It is our son, the oldest of seven children. He reads your column religiously and we hope he will heed your advice.

We have had Arnie to a urologist for tests three times in the last six years. There is nothing physically wrong with the boy. He is 19 years old now and has ruined more bedding and mattresses than I care to think about. The doctor has given Arnie pills, which he "forgets" to take. All instructions not to drink liquids after 4:00 p.m. are ignored.

I can't tell you how upset I get when I go to make up his bed in the morning and find he has done it again.

What burns me up is he doesn't care. Any advice? — Washing Machine Blues

Dear Wash: A 19-year-old boy who wets his bed and "doesn't care" is sending out messages. Tell him he can swim ten laps a night if he wants to but from now on he must do his own laundry and make his own bed. (I'll bet he dries up fairly soon.)

New Name Costly

Dear Ann Landers: The letter from the woman who had her name legally changed misled you as well as countless others. She made it sound very simple. Well, it isn't.

First you have to go to the county courthouse and get a petition. It must be filled out and notarized by someone who has known you for at least five years. Then you must publicize it for six to eight weeks in a newspaper or a daily law bulletin.

Next step: You are required to get new copies of all certified documents, such as driver's license, marriage license, social security card, birth certificate, just about everything that bears your name.

The total cost for all this runs anywhere from $60 to $75. So please, Ann, let your readers know that there's more to it than Mrs. New-Name implied. — Think I'll Keep My Old Name

ANN LANDERS

Dear Think: I feel like changing mine after all the complaints I've received. Charles Seib, Associate Editor of the Washington Post, informed me that Jack Crandall, Chief of Vital Records for the District of Columbia, had to straighten out a lot of people because of that flaky information. I've checked out yours and it is correct. So folks, now you have the straight goods.

Can you imagine how upset my wife and I were when my routine Wasserman test recently came back positive for syphilis? I'm 45 and responsible enough to know that I never had this disease. The next test proved negative. I'm confused. — Mr. M.M., Va.

Dear Mr. M.:

False positive Wasserman reactions are not uncommon. Even in the absence of syphilis, occasionally the report can be mildly positive.

Recent viral infections, pneumonia, malaria, pregnancy (obviously not in your case!), mononucleosis and recent vaccinations may sometimes produce a temporary, false positive Wasserman.

Since these and other conditions may produce such a result, these tests are repeated when there has been no history of exposure to syphilis.

There are now many more sensitive and highly sophisticated blood studies that can determine positively the absence or presence of syphilis.

Can a cancer of the breast be caused by an injury? I hurt myself playing tennis and I worry about it. — Mrs. K.T., Fla.

Dear Mrs. T.:

I doubt that a single injury can be responsible for the production cancer. Perhaps repeated pressure or injuries may be a cause.

An injury may cause the rupture of a blood vessel and a collection of blood (hematoma). This may feel like a lump and give the appearance of a tumor.

One of the reasons why some women attribute a breast cancer to an injury is that the injury may have made them inspect their breast more thoroughly. It is in this way that an undiscovered lump may have been brought to light.

Erma Bombeck

Nametags Needed

We were talking the other day about a strange phenomenon of Motherhood.

A woman starts thinking of a name for her baby from the minute she knows she is carrying one. She will write it out, say it aloud, try it out on friends and embroider it on little shirts. When the baby is born, she will whisper the name softly in its ear, write it on dozens of announcements and file it in the courthouse.

A few years and a few kids later, she can't remember who you are. I've heard mothers go through 10 or 12 names before they get lucky and hit the right one. (Once I wore my PJs wrong-side-out and my Mom thinking it was a name tag called me Dr. Denton for a week!)

Children seem to think there is something Freudian in the entire exercise. The old if - my - mother - really - loved - me — she'd - remember - my - name. This is hogwash. I love Marc . . . Mary . . . Mike . . . Mil . . . Mash . . . Maaa . . . whatshisname with the same affection as I love Bet . . . Bronc . . . Evelyn . . . Martha . . . Trish . . . you know who you are.

Our neighborhood psychiatrist bears me out. He said there is nothing you can generalize from mothers who can't put a name to their children right off the bat.

It used to be a good day for me when I could remember what I called them for, let alone remember who they are.

In talking with a young married the other day, it was revealed that he was one of seven children and not once when he was growing up was he ever called by his real name. "I guess it was because there were so many of us," he said, "that it confused my mother."

I hated to shoot his theory down but for a long while I was an only child and still got "Sarah . . . Betty . . . Mildred . . . Virginia . . . Edna.'

Finally, in desperation, my mother would shout, "How long do I have to call you before you answer?"

"Was I CLOSE?" she'd shout.

"Edna was somewhere in the neighborhood."

"I always liked Edna," she mused, "I should have named you that."

"Then why did you name me Erma?"

FOR THURSDAY AUG. 26, 1976

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You could be a champion of lost causes today and that's not all bad. Apparently dead issues can be brought back to life.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Members of the opposite sex should find you especially appealing today. Don't be surprised if you pick up a bevy of new admirers.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You're extremely creative today, especially in projects that beautify your surroundings. Show off your talents at home or at work.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) A smile, plus your natural charm, are your most valuable assets today. Even the hardest hearts will melt.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Sometimes you have to prime the pump to start the water flowing. If you expect to gain today, you must invest your time and talent.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Welcome that which is new in your life. It's the bellwether of things to come. Approach tomorrow with optimism and anticipation.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) People with whom you have financial involvements will know quickly that you'll be fair today. They'll give you a free hand.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) If you have a new interest that you can enter into with high hopes, do so even at the expense of shelving an old project. Good things can happen!

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) The spotlight will be on you today. Don't get stage fright. The house will be full of friends and admirers.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) It's important today to have faith in yourself and your philosophy. How else can you expect others to believe in you?

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) A venture in which you play a subordinate role is your best bet today. Let leadership rest with others you have faith in.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) If you show a willingness to compromise today, it could benefit you. Your share will be far greater than if you were demanding.

Opening lead — J ♥

By Oswald & James Jacoby

All jumps to game do convey the message that you want to play in that denomination. In case your partner has already limited his hand, you also expect him to stop. Thus, if your raise him from one to three notrump you are saying: "I have enough for game, but not enough for a slam and notrump is where I want to play the hand."

South's three notrump call with today's hand showed 19 or 20 points, preparation for any lead except that of his partner's suit and a desire to play notrump.

North had 14 high-card points of his own and five-card spade suit, but his 10 of clubs turned out to be the key card for the slam. That card gave South a sure 12 tricks against any combination of East-West cards since it gave him three sure tricks in each suit. Actually, it gave him four club tricks so that he would have made the slam without one of the other queens.

Battle Creek Woman, 24, Abducted, Found Slain

BATTLE CREEK, Mich. (AP) — The body of a 24-year-old Battle Creek woman was discovered Tuesday nearly 15 hours after she was abducted at gunpoint.

Police said the victim, Debra Bradley, had been shot in the head. Her body was found two blocks from her home by a group of children playing behind a church.

Miss Bradley's 14-year-old sister told police Miss Bradley was abducted early Tuesday by a man carrying either a sawed-off shotgun or a rifle.

The abduction occurred as the teen-ager and her older sister were walking to a neighborhood store to buy milk, officials said.

The sister said as the two crossed a vacant lot, they were accosted by the gunman who ordered them toward some bushes. The teen-ager ran instead and escaped.

A witness gave police a description of a car in which the woman was taken away. Officials in Battle Creek Township spotted the vehicle about two hours later, but the man driving escaped on foot.

A check disclosed the car was stolen.

Miss Bradley's ailing mother, Thelma, joined nearly 50 neighbors and police in the search for her daughter.

Despite a heart condition and poor health, Mrs. Bradley hunted for her daughter long after others stopped combing their neighborhood Tuesday.

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — John Fox's pickup may be 37 years old and may have over 260,000 miles on it, but it never lets him down.

It runs in all kinds of weather with no trouble starting and it has never been involved in an accident, he says.

Fox bought it in 1941 for $275 when it had about 20,000 miles on it. He has used it ever since to drive 10 miles five times a week to and from work.

ADMIRAL Charles Hector d'Estaing brought the first French fleet to American shores, July 8, 1778, in support of the colonies' waning sea trade. Governor Leaves Door Open On Seafarer Vote

MARQUETTE, Mich. (AP) — Gov. William Milliken has not ruled out an Upper Peninsula-wide referendum to decide whether he will allow construction of the Navy's controversial Seafarer project, according to two state science experts.

The pair, state Environmental Review Board Chairman Dr. William Taylor and William Rustem, science advisor to the governor, fielded questions Tuesday as some 200 U.P. residents voiced their opinions about Seafarer.

It was the first of three U.P. meetings — the others to be held in Iron Mountain and Iron River today — set by the governor to gather public opinion about the Navy submarine communications grid.

Although Milliken has said he would prefer a public opinion poll over a referendum as a means of gauging Seafarer sentiment in the U.P., Taylor and Rustem said he is leaving the door open on the question. They said the governor has received numerous requests from U.P. residents who favor the referendum idea.

Those attending Tuesday's meeting included both foes and supporters of Seafarer's location in the U.P. Opponents wanted to know what criteria Milliken would use when he decides whether to give the Navy the go-ahead for the project.

Several persons questioned the objectivity of an environmental impact statement being prepared on Seafarer, charging that the survey is being conducted by the same company awarded a Navy contract to help build the project.

Seafarer supporters argued that the project, to communicate with submarines while they are underwater, is vital to the national defense.

In a television interview Tuesday, Taylor explained why the Navy plans to bypass the privately-owned Huron Mountain Club when and if Seafarer is built.

Reports last week of that decision stirred angry charges from Seafarer opponents, who claim the club, which is owned by wealthy lower Michigan residents, would be getting special treatment.

Taylor said the ground underlying the club's acreage is rocky and unsuitable for burying the miles of cable that would make up the underground Seafarer grid.

The Club is on the fringe of the proposed construction area, he said, and blasting the rocky terrain could be harmful to the environment as well as too costly.

Port Paperwork Rapped

ESCANABA, Mich. (AP) — A joint state legislative committee was urged Tuesday to concentrate its efforts and develop a single deepwater port in the Upper Peninsula, rather than trying build several ports in U.P. communities.

The joint committee heard public in Escanaba at one of several public hearings being held throughout the state this summer.

Escanaba area residents said port development has been hindered by bureaucratic paperwork and the need to obtain development permits from more than one government agency.

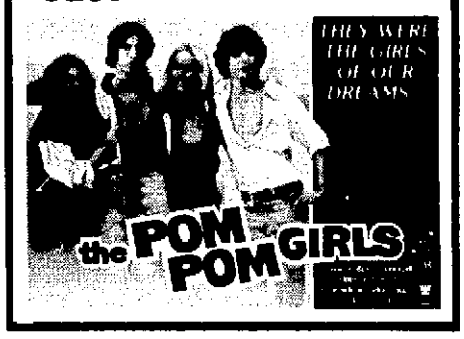

Another drawback to port development in the U.P., according to testimony Tuesday, is the lack of available waterfront land for such projects.

Police said the victim, Debra Bradley, had been shot in the head. Her body was found two blocks from her home by a group of children playing behind a church.

Miss Bradley's 14-year-old sister told police Miss Bradley was abducted early Tuesday by a man carrying either a sawed-off shotgun or a rifle.

The abduction occurred as the teen-ager and her older sister were walking to a neighborhood store to buy milk, officials said.

The sister said as the two crossed a vacant lot, they were accosted by the gunman who ordered them toward some bushes. The teen-ager ran instead and escaped.

A witness gave police a description of a car in which the woman was taken away. Officials in Battle Creek Township spotted the vehicle about two hours later, but the man driving escaped on foot.

A check disclosed the car was stolen.

Miss Bradley's ailing mother, Thelma, joined nearly 50 neighbors and police in the search for her daughter.

His Pickup Is An Oldie But A Goodie

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — John Fox's pickup may be 37 years old and may have over 260,000 miles on it, but it never lets him down.

It runs in all kinds of weather with no trouble starting and it has never been involved in an accident, he says.

Fox bought it in 1941 for $275 when it had about 20,000 miles on it. He has used it ever since to drive 10 miles five times a week to and from work.

ADMIRAL Charles Hector d'Estaing brought the first French fleet to American shores, July 8, 1778, in support of the colonies' waning sea trade. D'Estaing's fleet arrived off the Delaware coast and chased away inferior British naval forces, allowing the dying American seaborne trade to re-establish its importance to the Revolutionary War effort. The World Almanac points out that Giscard d'Estaing, president of France, is a descendant of Admiral d'Estaing!

Governor Leaves Door Open On Seafarer Vote

MARQUETTE, Mich. (AP) — Gov. William Milliken has not ruled out an Upper Peninsula-wide referendum to decide whether he will allow construction of the Navy's controversial Seafarer project, according to two state science experts.

The pair, state Environmental Review Board Chairman Dr. William Taylor and William Rustem, science advisor to the governor, fielded questions Tuesday as some 200 U.P. residents voiced their opinions about Seafarer.

It was the first of three U.P. meetings — the others to be held in Iron Mountain and Iron River today — set by the governor to gather public opinion about the Navy submarine communications grid.

Although Milliken has said he would prefer a public opinion poll over a referendum as a means of gauging Seafarer sentiment in the U.P., Taylor and Rustem said he is leaving the door open on the question. They said the governor has received numerous requests from U.P. residents who favor the referendum idea.

Those attending Tuesday's meeting included both foes and supporters of Seafarer's location in the U.P. Opponents wanted to know what criteria Milliken would use when he decides whether to give the Navy the go-ahead for the project.

Several persons questioned the obectivity of an environmental impact statement being prepared on Seafarer, charging that the survey is being conducted by the same company awarded a Navy contract to help build the project.

Seafarer supporters argued that the project, to communicate with submarines while they are underwater, is vital to the national defense.

In a television interview Tuesday, Taylor explained why the Navy plans to bypass the privately-owned Huron Mountain Club when and if Seafarer is built.

Reports last week of that decision stirred angry charges from Seafarer opponents, who claim the club, which is owned by wealthy lower Michigan residents, would be getting special treatment.

Taylor said the ground underlying the club's acreage is rocky and unsuitable for burying the miles of cable that would make up the underground Seafarer grid.

The Club is on the fringe of the proposed construction area, he said, and blasting the rocky terrain could be harmful to the environment as well as too costly.

Port Paperwork Rapped

ESCANABA, Mich. (AP) — A joint state legislative committee was urged Tuesday to concentrate its efforts and develop a single deepwater port in the Upper Peninsula, rather than trying build several ports in U.P. communities.

The joint committee heard public in Escanaba at one of several public hearings being held throughout the state this summer.

Escanaba area residents said port development has been hindered by bureaucratic paperwork and the need to obtain development permits from more than one government agency.

Another drawback to port development in the U.P., according to testimony Tuesday, is the lack of available waterfront land for such projects.

Thief Returns Priceless Tree

By RICHARD PYLE
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Arboretum has recovered a century-old bonsai tree that was stolen by a young plant lover who "thought it was worth about $20," an official says.

The miniature juniper plant was returned to the National Arboretum Monday night by a 20-year-old New Carrollton, Md., man who stole it on an impulse with two 17-year-old friends, William L. Ackerman, acting director of the arboretum, revealed Tuesday.

The 30-inch-high tree is part of Japan's $4-million gift of 53 bonsai trees to the United States in honor of the Bicentennial.

The New Carrollton man returned it after his girl friend convinced him of its real value, Ackerman said. "For an amateur, he took good care of it. He even watered it," he added.

No charges have been filed against the man and his friends, but they are scheduled to appear at a hearing today before a U.S. attorney.

Meanwhile, the arboretum has posted a 24-hour guard over the bonsai tree pavillion to prevent a repetition of what could have been an embarassing international incident.

Loss of the tree would have proved particularly embarrassing to U.S. officials in view of an incident in Seattle last June in which vandals damaged or destroyed 130 stripling cherry trees that Japan gave the city for the Bicentennial.

Bonsai trees are purposely miniaturized through centuries-old methods of pruning and shaping. Some of those in the arboretum exhibit are from the Japanese imperial collection. One is 350 years old.

While the collection is estimated by Agriculture Department officials to be worth $4 million, experts consider the trees to be priceless in the same sense that great works of art have no actual price tag.

The trees are so delicate that smoking and camera flashbulbs are not permitted in the display area at the aboretum.

The incident received no public attention until a reporter began making inquiries Tuesday. Gail Sedgwick, an Agriculture Department official with responsibility for the arboretum, admitted that authorities had hoped to get the tree back before its disappearance became public knowledge.

Secrecy about the theft was such that even the Japanese Embassy didn't know about it until called by a reporter Tuesday.

Rep. Howe Is Convicted Again

By BILL BEECHAM
Associated Press Writer

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Utah's top Democrats again are urging Rep. Allan T. Howe to drop his re-election bid after a second conviction for offering money to two police decoy prostitutes for sexual favors.

Howe, 48 and the father of five, was convicted by an eight-member District Court jury Tuesday. The jury had deliberated less than half an hour after two days of testimony in Howe's appeal trial.

Sentencing was set for today. Maximum sentence is six months in jail and a $299 fine.

Howe sat rigidly at the defense table when the verdict was read. His wife, Marlene, wept. Howe got up, hugged members of his family individually and then strode from the courtroom.

Other than saying he would reassess his political plans, Howe did not comment to reporters.

Howe's attorney, Dean R. Mitchell, was asked he if would appeal the verdict. "I don't know, I really don't know.... My client hasn't made up his mind," he said.

Four hours after Howe's conviction, Tim Allen, Howe's 24-year-old campaign manager, was arrested on a charge of selling marijuana to a University of Utah undercover agent.

Howe said in a statement, "I know nothing of the alleged incident that has led to his arrest."

He was sentenced in the first trial to 30 days in jail and $150 fine, with the jail term suspended upon payment of the fine. The sentence, however, was stayed pending outcome of the appeal.

"It's a sad day for Allan. He's a close personal friend, but speaking politically, I think he ought to get off the ticket," said Daryl McCarty, an executive committee member of the Democratic State Central Committee. "I think he can only hurt the party more than he already has."

"I think the Central Committee wanted to give him his day in court. I'm sure they will call overwhelmingly for him to resign" from the campaign, said David Duncan, another committee member.

State party Chairman Justin Stewart, in a meeting last week with party leaders, said that if Howe was convicted in District Court he would withdraw.

After Howe's conviction, Stewart said the executive committee would meet Thursday or Friday to discuss the matter.

Ford Is Conceding South, New York

By FRANK CORMIER
Associated Press Writer

VAIL, Colo. (AP) — President Ford privately is conceding the deep South and New York to Democratic rival Jimmy Carter, administration sources say.

The Ford camp feels the former Georgia governor is solidly entrenched in the South, including Texas, but may be vulnerable in Florida, the sources said Tuesday.

They made the assessment after Ford's first post-convention strategy session with political aides. The President planned to confer again today with campaign advisers.

The sources said Ford will focus his efforts first on the Midwest and move from there into the Northeast and California.

California is a key battleground state, according to these informants, along with Illinois, New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

Ford is placing high hopes on his prospects for outshining Carter in televised debates, and much of his campaign will be fashioned around these still-unscheduled confrontations.

Ford told reporters Tuesday that he favors four debates of at least 90 minutes each in which "tough questions are asked by tough reporters." He suggested that the first debate be held no later than Sept. 10 and said, "The sooner we get started the better."

The debates should focus on four areas: defense, domestic, foreign and economic policies, said Ford, who acknowledged he has not communicated his suggestions to the Carter camp. He said he was relying on reporters to do that.

In Seattle, Wash., Carter's press secretary complained about Ford's public utterances on the proposed debates.

"An attempt to conduct discussions by press release holds little chance for success," said Jody Powell. "We had always assumed that there was time to sit down and discuss proposals for debate in a mature and businesslike fashion. We don't feel that it's proper for either side to attempt to play partisan politics or gain partisan advantage from these discussions."

Ford said talks with Carter's camp would begin later this week.

The Ford camp apparently feels that an early debate on defense policy would give the President an advantage because Ford dealt with these issues extensively in his successful campaign against GOP challenger Ronald Reagan. Carter, who has suggested a Sept. 28 date for an initial debate, may desire more time for preparation.

At this point, informants said, Ford hopes to limit his active campaigning to the debates and selected appearances before major audiences. This would allow him to maintain a presidential stance throughout the campaign season.

But Ford always has relished stump appearances, and his zest for campaigning eventually may upset the plans being drafted here.

The President spent nearly two hours in strategy talks Tuesday, then went golfing.

By JIM ADAMS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic vice presidential nominee Walter Mondale is headed across the country attacking what he calls the "Nixon-Ford" economy and promising full employment by 1980.

He said in an interview that he will be blaming high inflation and high joblessness on "inconsistent, botched management" started by former President Richard M. Nixon and continued by President Ford.

But he made the campaign promise that election of Democratic presidential nominee Jimmy Carter would bring full employment — a job for every adult who can work — by 1980.

The first stop on Mondale's nine-day, nine-state campaign swing today was to be Chicago for a private meeting with Mayor Richard Daley.

He planned stops in Pennsylvania, New York, Wisconsin, back to Illinois, Ohio, Oregon, California, Nevada and Colorado.

In his first major speech in New York Thursday, Mondale said he will argue that Ford-Nixon policies not only foster inflation and unemployment but have wiped out Republican businessmen.

"The Republicans always do better when the Democrats are in," he said he will say. "If you want to live like a Republican, vote Democratic."

Ford already has given an answer to such charges.

He said in his acceptance speech at the Republican convention last week that he inherited runaway inflation and is bringing it under control in spite of a big-spending Democratic Congress.

Mondale contended in the interview that the Republicans botched the economy, and that Carter will fix it, with money supply and federal spending policies.

He blamed inconsistent tight money policy under the Republicans for driving up interest rates, wiping out some businesses and slowing down others, and putting millions of people out of work.

He said Carter would balance the money supply with federal spending policy as tools to stimulate business and create jobs.

Mondale said full employment would bring in an additional $55 billion in income tax money and save money on less-needed food stamps, welfare and unemployment insurance.

That additional revenue, he said, would finance such Carter-Mondale programs as national health insurance, tax reform and better housing.

None of that would be as easy as it sounds, especially Carter's key goal of getting money supply influence over the Federal Reserve Board, which is completely independent of the president.

But Mondale said full employment is a campaign pledge that he and Carter will keep.

"If we have Mr. Carter, we'll have full employment," he said. "and the rest will follow."

Carter Nephew Says He Set Up Stab Incident

VACAVILLE, Calif. (AP) — The jailed nephew of Democratic presidential candidate Jimmy Carter says he set up his own assault in an attempt to get a transfer out of the California prison system.

In a letter published in the Oakland Tribune Tuesday, 29-year-old William Carter Spann wrote:

"The assault was a setup. I arranged for a guy to stab me. I am so paranoid about my situation and the probability of a serious assault on me that I wanted to use the press to get some action in leaving this state."

The sources said Ford will focus his efforts first on the Midwest and move from there into the Northeast and California.

California is a key battleground state, according to these informants, along with Illinois, New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

Ford is placing high hopes on his prospects for outshining Carter in televised debates, and much of his campaign will be fashioned around these still-unscheduled confrontations.

Ford told reporters Tuesday that he favors four debates of at least 90 minutes each in which "tough questions are asked by tough reporters." He suggested that the first debate be held no later than Sept. 10 and said, "The sooner we get started the better."

The debates should focus on four areas: defense, domestic, foreign and economic policies, said Ford, who acknowledged he has not communicated his suggestions to the Carter camp. He said he was relying on reporters to do that.

In Seattle, Wash., Carter's press secretary complained about Ford's public utterances on the proposed debates.

"An attempt to conduct discussions by press release holds little chance for success," said Jody Powell. "We had always assumed that there was time to sit down and discuss proposals for debate in a mature and businesslike fashion. We don't feel that it's proper for either side to attempt to play partisan politics or gain partisan advantage from these discussions."

Ford said talks with Carter's camp would begin later this week.

The Ford camp apparently feels that an early debate on defense policy would give the President an advantage because Ford dealt with these issues extensively in his successful campaign against GOP challenger Ronald Reagan. Carter, who has suggested a Sept. 28 date for an initial debate, may desire more time for preparation.

At this point, informants said, Ford hopes to limit his active campaigning to the debates and selected appearances before major audiences. This would allow him to maintain a presidential stance throughout the campaign season.

But Ford always has relished stump appearances, and his zest for campaigning eventually may upset the plans being drafted here.

The President spent nearly two hours in strategy talks Tuesday, then went golfing.

By JIM ADAMS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic vice presidential nominee Walter Mondale is headed across the country attacking what he calls the "Nixon-Ford" economy and promising full employment by 1980.

He said in an interview that he will be blaming high inflation and high joblessness on "inconsistent, botched management" started by former President Richard M. Nixon and continued by President Ford.

But he made the campaign promise that election of Democratic presidential nominee Jimmy Carter would bring full employment — a job for every adult who can work — by 1980.

The first stop on Mondale's nine-day, nine-state campaign swing today was to be Chicago for a private meeting with Mayor Richard Daley.

He planned stops in Pennsylvania, New York, Wisconsin, back to Illinois, Ohio, Oregon, California, Nevada and Colorado.

In his first major speech in New York Thursday, Mondale said he will argue that Ford-Nixon policies not only foster inflation and unemployment but have wiped out Republican businessmen.

"The Republicans always do better when the Democrats are in," he said he will say. "If you want to live like a Republican, vote Democratic."

Ford already has given an answer to such charges.

He said in his acceptance speech at the Republican convention last week that he inherited runaway inflation and is bringing it under control in spite of a big-spending Democratic Congress.

Mondale contended in the interview that the Republicans botched the economy, and that Carter will fix it, with money supply and federal spending policies.

He blamed inconsistent tight money policy under the Republicans for driving up interest rates, wiping out some businesses and slowing down others, and putting millions of people out of work.

He said Carter would balance the money supply with federal spending policy as tools to stimulate business and create jobs.

Mondale said full employment would bring in an additional $55 billion in income tax money and save money on less-needed food stamps, welfare and unemployment insurance.

That additional revenue, he said, would finance such Carter-Mondale programs as national health insurance, tax reform and better housing.

None of that would be as easy as it sounds, especially Carter's key goal of getting money supply influence over the Federal Reserve Board, which is completely independent of the president.

But Mondale said full employment is a campaign pledge that he and Carter will keep.

"If we have Mr. Carter, we'll have full employment," he said. "and the rest will follow."

Carter Nephew Says He Set Up Stab Incident

VACAVILLE, Calif. (AP) — The jailed nephew of Democratic presidential candidate Jimmy Carter says he set up his own assault in an attempt to get a transfer out of the California prison system.

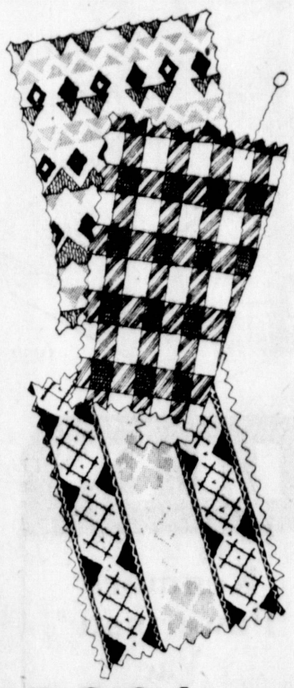

In a letter published in the Oakland Tribune Tuesday, 29-year-old William Carter Spann wrote:

"The assault was a setup. I arranged for a guy to stab me. I am so paranoid about my situation and the probability of a serious assault on me that I wanted to use the press to get some action in leaving this state."

UAW Puts Ford On Strike Hot Seat

DETROIT (AP) — The United Auto Workers has put Ford Motor Co. in the bargaining hot seat by tagging the No. 2 automaker as its target for setting the industry pattern on new three-year contracts this fall.

Starting today, month-long talks between the union and the other carmakers will come to a virtual halt while negotiations intensify at Ford. Bargainers there have 21 days to reach a new agreement or prepare for a national walkout by nearly 170,000 hourly workers.

UAW President Leonard Woodcock drew little surprise from labor observers in announcing Tuesday that the union has selected Ford as its strike target for 1976.

Woodcock said it was Ford's turn to be the target — the company has not been chosen since 1967 — and there was no compelling reason for going to General Motors or Chrysler Corp. this year.

The UAW leader, who is to join talks at Ford on a regular basis as of today, also said there were no insurmountable problems that would block a peaceful settlement with when the current three-year accord expires at midnight Sept. 14.

"There is nothing insurmountable, no complicated or technical problems standing in the way," he said. "We certainly are going to do everything we possibly can to conclude a settlement on both sides of the table before the 14th."

Under the UAW's target strategy, the selected company negotiates a settlement which later is matched by the other companies. If there is a walkout, it is only against the target firm.

Industrywide, nearly 700,000 workers at the Big Three and American Motors Corp. will be affected by the pattern settlement reached between Ford and the UAW.

Ford had been rated the odds-on favorite to become the target this year because GM and Chrysler were given that role during the previous two triennial rounds of talks.

The last time Ford was the target, the firm was struck for 66 days. GM, the target in 1970, was hit by a 67-day walkout, and Chrysler was shut down by a nine-day strike when it was the target in 1973.

Ford's top bargainer, vice president Sidney F. McKenna, said he too was confident of avoiding a strike, although both sides "have a number of rough issues to dispose of" during the next three weeks.

"We believe responsible collective bargaining can result in sound and mutually acceptable solutions to these issues without disruption of our operations," he said. "We will do our part to achieve that objective."

McKenna added that he wasn't surprised by Ford's selection, saying the firm always bargains on the assumption it will be the target and is thus prepared for serious homestretch negotiations.

The UAW has a record $175 million in its strike fund, enough to sustain a four-month walkout against Ford. Weekly strike benefits will range from $40 to $50.

Woodcock said the union's 26-member executive board chose Ford by unanimous vote following a two-hour discussion.

Woodcock said he recommended to the board at the outset of the session that Ford be named the target.

"Since we have not been to Ford in nine years, and since our Ford section has developed many pioneering principles, there has to be a compelling reason why we should bypass Ford and go to either of the other two (companies)," he said he told the other executives.

"Our discussions did not develop any such compelling reason."

Previously, Woodcock has insisted that Ford would not be the target simply because it's "Ford's turn," adding there could be strong arguments for going to GM or Chrysler. But he conceded Tuesday that "in terms of time, yes, it was Ford's turn."

AMC is the only company the UAW ruled out as a possible target for 1976 because of a sustained sales slump which has produced mounting losses for the smallest of the firms.

Entire School Board Quits

FARWELL, Mich. (AP) — The entire seven-member Farwell Board of Education has resigned effective Aug. 30.

The members, citing "overwhelming lack of community cooperation," announced their decision Tuesday.

Farwell Supt. Harold Elenbass said the move was prompted mainly by a lack of financial support for the school system. Voters in the district rejected three millage proposals since March and a fourth vote will be taken Nov. 8, Elenbass said.

The 1,650-student district is currently operating with 12.5 mills.

Mayor Going On TV To Counter Gangsterism

DETROIT (AP) — Mayor Coleman Young is scheduled to go on prime-time television tonight to tell Detroit residents what he's doing about gang violence.

The mayor's 30-minute speech, to be televised on all three commercial network affiliates and two UHF stations, will reportedly be an appeal for citizen support for Young's efforts to stop the increasing problem of teen-age crime. Young has said that problem has reached "crisis" proportions.

The mayor's press secretary said Young may outline some new plans for dealing with youth gangs.

Press aide Robert Pisor said the mayor asked for the free air time because of the seriousness of the gang problem. Pisor said Young wanted to speak directly to the public rather than relying on news accounts to relay his statements.

Meanwhile, three young Detroit men were arraigned Tuesday on two counts each of assault with intent to commit armed robbery and assault with intent to commit murder after they were identified as gang leaders by witnesses who said they were fed up of hearing them brag about crimes.

Police Sgt. Irving Bulmann said "numerous witnesses" had told police they heard the youths bragging "that the police can't touch them, nobody can touch them.

"They (the witnesses) said they've had enough. They're just not going to take it any more," Bulmann said.

Bulman called the three "the real leaders" of an east side gang, the Black Killers, or B.K.'s.

Dye is awaiting trial on six other felony charges ranging from armed robbery to auto theft, police said.

Goodman is awaiting trial on an auto theft charge and Davis has no previous adult criminal record.

Dye and Goodman are being held in lieu of $10,000 bonds, and Davis is being held in lieu of $5,000 bond. A preliminary exam for all three was set for Sept. 2.

Mayor Young told 100 Detroit Baptist ministers Tuesday he wants their help in dealing with the city's youth crime crisis.

He told the ministers he will be returning to their churches soon to recruit "young, able-bodied men for a People's Police Reserve" to act as an extra set of eyes for the city's police force.

Zulus Strike Back At Boycotters

By BRIAN JEFFRIES
Associated Press Writer

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Zulu tribesmen struck back at black militants trying to force compliance with a work boycott, and at least 13 more blacks were reported killed in the Soweto township.

White officials claimed that the effectiveness of the boycott on business and industry in Johannesburg seemed to be weakening Tuesday, the second day of the three-day protest against the white government's racial policies. But the number of commuter trains canceled and informal polls of employers indicated that about 80 per cent of the 250,000 blacks from Soweto who work in Johannesburg have taken part in the strike.

Although government spokesmen tried to minimize the effectiveness of the boycott, it was a remarkable showing considering that South African blacks are not allowed to have labor unions, black organizations opposed to the government are outlawed and most of their leaders are in prison.

The announcement Tuesday night of a one-third increase in bread prices raised the possibility of new protests.

The South African Press Association said at least six persons were killed and more than 100 injured Tuesday when about 1,500 Zulus charged through the streets of Soweto with sticks, stones and short spears and broke into homes in what appeared to be a backlash against the strike.

A black newspaper, the World, reported that a crowd of Zulus who worked Monday in defiance of the strike call killed seven black militants in a group that harassed them Monday night when they returned to Soweto from Johannesburg.

Black antistrike vigilante groups were reported meeting homebound workers at Soweto railroad stations and bus stops to protect them from militants trying to enforce the mass work stoppage.

"If people want to organize themselves to resist the isotsis (thugs), we can't stop them, but we also cannot allow rioting," said Police Commissioner Gert Prinsloo.

He said police could not confirm the Zulu killings. His men have reported five persons killed in Soweto since the start of the strike Monday, one of them by police gunfire.

Numerous clashes between police and demonstrators were reported in Soweto Tuesday, and scattered gunfire was heard.

Blacks make up 71 per cent of the South African work force, so a sustained strike would cripple the economy. But observers predicted this could not happen because black unemployment is so high — it is unofficially estimated at 25 per cent — and wages are so low that black workers cannot risk losing even a few days' pay.

North Korea Proposes Separation Of Troops

PANMUNJOM, Korea (AP) — North Korea proposed today that its troops and those of the United Nations Command be separated physically in the Panmunjom truce village to prevent clashes like the one in which two American army officers were killed last week.

Maj. Gen. Han Ju-kyong, the chief North Korean delegate to the Korean Military Armistice Commission, proposed that the guards for each side be separated by the military demarcation line running through the center of the demilitarized zone between North and South Korea.

The demarcation line bisects the joint security area at Panmunjom, an area about 850 yards in diameter, and also runs through the center of the main conference room in which the armistice commission meets.

Han proposed that the North Koreans stay north of the line and the Americans and South Koreans stay south of it.

The North Korean general also repeated a message he delivered last Saturday from President Kim Il-sung terming the fight last Wednesday "regretful" and saying that "both sides should make efforts ... that such incidents may not recur in the future."

U.S. Rear Adm. Mark P. Frudden, the United Nations Command's senior delegate to the commission, called the proposal and the accompanying expression of regret "a positive step." But he said it was still "unsatisfactory," and he pressed North Korea to be more specific.

The commission met at U.S. request for the third time since North Korean guards killed the two Americans last Wednesday as they headed a working party of South Koreans and Americans pruning a 40-foot tree in the joint security area.

Frudden told the North Koreans the U.N. Command requested the meeting "for one purpose, that our side calls for punishment of those responsible for the murder of the UNC officers.

"Moreover, we insist on assurances that the safety of UNC personnel in the joint security area will be preserved."

It was the first time in the 23-year history of the Korean armistice that the North Koreans publicly expressed regret over an incident involving personnel of the two sides. Kim's message of regret was delivered in private last Saturday at an unannounced meeting of the commission.

The United States said then that the message was unacceptable because it did not accept responsibility for the killing of the Americans. Later, Washington modifed its stand to term it a "positive step," the same words Frudden used today.

The meeting took place a few hundred yards from the spot where the ax-wielding North Korean guards killed the two Americans.

Zulus Strike Back At Boycotters

By BRIAN JEFFRIES
Associated Press Writer

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Zulu tribesmen struck back at black militants trying to force compliance with a work boycott, and at least 13 more blacks were reported killed in the Soweto township.

White officials claimed that the effectiveness of the boycott on business and industry in Johannesburg seemed to be weakening Tuesday, the second day of the three-day protest against the white government's racial policies. But the number of commuter trains canceled and informal polls of employers indicated that about 60 per cent of the 250,000 blacks from Soweto who work in Johannesburg have taken part in the strike.

Although government spokesmen tried to minimize the effectiveness of the boycott, it was a remarkable showing considering that South African blacks are not allowed to have labor unions, black organizations opposed to the government are outlawed and most of their leaders are in prison.

The announcement Tuesday night of a one-third increase in bread prices raised the possibility of new protests.

The South African Press Association said at least six persons were killed and more than 100 injured Tuesday when about 1,500 Zulus charged through the streets of Soweto with sticks, stones and short spears and broke into homes in what appeared to be a backlash against the strike.

A black newspaper, the World, reported that a crowd of Zulus who worked Monday in defiance of the strike call killed seven black militants in a group that harassed them Monday night when they returned to Soweto from Johannesburg.

Black antistrike vigilante groups were reported meeting homebound workers at Soweto railroad stations and bus stops to protect them from militants trying to enforce the mass work stoppage.

"If people want to organize themselves to resist the tsotsis (thugs), we can't stop them, but we also cannot allow rioting," said Police Commissioner Gert Prinsloo.

He said police could not confirm the Zulu killings. His men have reported five persons killed in Soweto since the start of the strike Monday, one of them by police gunfire.

Numerous clashes between police and demonstrators were reported in Soweto Tuesday, and scattered gunfire was heard.

Blacks make up 71 per cent of the South African work force, so a sustained strike would cripple the economy. But observers predicted this could not happen because black unemployment is so high — it is unofficially estimated at 25 per cent — and wages are so low that black workers cannot risk losing even a few days' pay.

A Funny Thing Happened...

On The Rocks

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP) — A self-styled daredevil, sealed in a six-foot long converted propane gas tank, slipped into the upper Niagara River in an attempt to go over Niagara Falls. Several hours later Tuesday — with his ill-fated metal craft snagged on rocks and stalled in shallow water about 200 yards short of the brink of Horseshoe Falls — a Canadian military helicopter arrived on the scene. A crewman opened the hatch and Tibor Hetenyi, 26, of Edison, N.J., climbed aboard the hovering craft. "Did I go over her?" was the first thing he asked. Just before the cylinder became stalled, it went through a six-foot drop in the rapids and hit the rocks. "I thought I had gone over," Hetenyi said. "I felt a thud when I hit the rocks." Hetenyi, examined for chest bruises at a hospital and then released, was charged with disorderly conduct.

Mother Did It

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Motherly love can be carried too far, even in a zoo. Two lion cubs at the Portland Zoo have been removed from view for treatment because their fur was being lapped off. Zoo officials say the cubs have been licked too much by their mother and by other adult lionesses. The cubs — Stripes and Forever — were from a three-cub litter born the Fourth of July weekend. The third cub, Stars, is being raised with a tiger cub, and so far there is no indication that Stars is suffering a similar fate.

Keep It Clean

BAKERSFIELD, Calif. (AP) — A bandit with a need for cash and a concern for bacteria made his victim administer first aid before he made his getaway. Police said the man entered a Golden Gate Avenue gas station Monday, demanded cash and told the young attendant he had a friend across the street with a rifle. The attendent, Robert Noriega, 16, of Bakersfield, said the man cut his finger when he tore open a plastic container for Noriega to put the money in. The bandit forced Noriega to bandage his cut finger, and then made off with $100.

The Iguana's Tail

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Alice the iguana is back home, a foot shorter but otherwise unhurt by her three week stint of freedom. Alice escaped from her owner, Diana Chambers, after burglars left the door of her apartment open. But the iguana was spotted Monday night by three children who gave chase. She ran into a garage and tried to get out a window just as one of the children was slamming it shut so she couldn't escape. That cost Alice, who used to be three feet long, a foot of tail.

Bar Association Is Opposing Ford Nominee For U.S. Judge

WASHINGTON (AP) - For only the second time in the last decade, the American Bar Association is opposing a presidential nominee for a federal judgeship.

The ABA spoke out Tuesday against the confirmation of Herbert F. DeSimone as U.S. District Judge for Rhode Island, claiming he had little trial experience.

DeSimone is a former Rhode Island attorney general who once served as an assistant secretary in the Department of Transportation. President Ford has nominated him to succeed Judge Edward Day.

Warren Christopher, chairman of the ABA's standing committee on the federal judiciary, said that DeSimone has tried only one significant case during his entire career, and that he has never taken a jury case through federal or state court.

Christopher told the Senate Judiciary Committee that among trial judges and attorneys in Rhode Island, DeSimone is "uniformly regarded as not being a trial lawyer. ..."

Gael Malony, also an ABA committee member, said that when he questioned Rhode Island lawyers about DeSimone's qualifications, "their answer was that they had no basis for forming an opinion because they had not observed him in the course of a trial."

Opposition to the nomination of the Providence attorney also came from a businessman who claimed that DeSimone had engaged a third party to make death threats against him.

Richard F. Chipperfield, of Westerly, R.I., said the threats were to force his repayment of a $35,000 bank loan.

Rubber Pact Vote Set

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

The United Rubber Workers expects its members to ratify a contract with Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. that could set an industry-wide pattern.

The striking Goodyear employes will vote Friday on a tentative agreement reached Tuesday, but negotiations continued with three other major tire makers.

All four major companies — Goodyear, Goodrich, Firestone and Uniroyal — have reached agreement with the union on economic issues, but each firm must now resolve the remaining noneconomic questions.

The Goodyear agreement provides for a three-year wage boost of $2.04 an hour, plus an adjustment for a cost-of-living increases. Under the old contract, the average pay was $5.50 an hour in wages plus $3.55 in fringe benefits.

About 60,000 striking employes of the Big Four were later joined by about 10,000 employes of smaller firms as their contracts expired.

Jaworski: Nixon Greedy

HOUSTON (AP) — Former special Watergate prosecutor Leon Jaworski says he believes former President Richard Nixon would have "survived and remained in office" if he had destroyed the Watergate tapes.

Jaworski speculates in his new book scheduled to be released today that one reason Nixon refused to destroy the tapes was because they were worth money.

"He hoped to realize a fortune from them," Jaworski writes, "and his background showed him to be a man greedy for both money and power."

The book, entitled "The Right and the Power" had been scheduled for release in September, but officials at Gulf Publishing Co. said it would be released today in Houston. The Houston Post obtained a copy of the book Tuesday.

Jaworski says little in the book about the pardon of Nixon by President Ford but offers some conclusions about the former president.

"I often wondered," Jaworski writes, "how Nixon was able to concentrate even briefly on the matters of state that begged for his attention. There he was in the Oval office, day after day, night after night, scheming, plotting and finally sacrificing his staff and others one by one so as to save himself."

Jaworski also relates an incident in which Sen. James Eastland, D-Miss., describes a sobbing Nixon pleading with the senator to save Nixon from criminal prosecution.

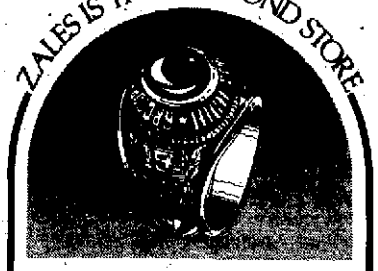

Jaworski said Eastland told him Nixon had called from San Clemente, Calif., a short time after the resignation.

"He was crying," Jaworski quoted Eastland as saying. "He said, 'Jim, don't let Jaworski put me in that trial with Haldeman and Ehrlichman. I can't take any more.'"

Jaworski also writes that former Nixon aide H.R. Haldeman once offered to plead guilty to a single Watergate felony charge and testify against John Ehrlichman, another former Nixon aide, "in all other matters known to him" if the government would dismiss other charges against Haldeman.

But the deal fell through, Jaworski writes, when U.S. District Court Judge John Sirica refused to assure Haldeman's attorney what sort of sentence Haldeman might face.

Democrats Eye Ferency As High Court Candidate

By MARY STEVENSON
Associated Press Writer

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Some Democrats think they'll better the odds on clinching three state Supreme Court seats by running Human Rights Party candidate Zolton Ferency as a Democrat.

But Ferency hasn't decided what to do if this happens.

"There are so many variables at this point it's impossible to say how I'll react to any of them," Ferency said Tuesday. The state Democrats will hold their convention this weekend in Detroit, but Ferency doesn't expect to attend.

The Michigan State University law professor, a former Democrat, has unsuccessfully sought the governor's seat twice, once as a Democrat and once as an HRP candidate.

He is guaranteed a spot on the November ballot as an HRP candidate for a state Supreme Court seat now held by Lawrence Lindemer, who was appointed by Gov. William Milliken after the death of Justice Thomas M. Kavanagh. The winner gets six years on the bench.

Wayne County Circuit Court Judge Blair Moody Jr. wants the Democratic nomination to that seat, and some Democrats fear he and Ferency will split the progressive vote if they compete head on, handing a victory to Lindemer.

To solve that problem, the party's 800-member Educators Caucus has asked party officials to give Ferency the nomination for a different seat, the one held by James Ryan. Ryan was appointed by Milliken to fill a vacancy left by former Justice John Swainson, convicted of perjury in a bribery case. There are two years left in that term.

Lillian Stoner, caucus chairperson, said "this seems like the appropriate time to get under one umbrella. If there's room for (former Alabama Gov. George) Wallace and his supporters, there's room for Ferency and his supporters." She said she has no idea how much support the idea has.

An alternative proposal, nominating Moody to run for the two years left on Ryan's seat, was endorsed earlier this month by the Washtenaw County Democratic Party.

The Ryan and Lindemer seats are up for grabs this fall because appointees named to fill vacancies must run for their seats in the next general election after their appointments.

Ferency said that if the Democrats nominate him he will confer with the Human Rights Party Central Committee before making a decision.

"What it amounts to is an effort to form a coalition between parties on the left to achieve a mutually advantageous objective. We have coalesced with other political parties on other ad hoc situations," he said.

But he said that as far as he knows, there never has been an instance where a political party has actually nominated a member of another party for office.

The third seat up for grabs, now held by Chief Justice Thomas G. Kavanagh, carries a full eight-year term for the winner. Some Democrats are disenchanted with Kavanagh's reluctance to campaign on behalf of other Democrats, and former Detroit Mayor Roman Gribbs also is seeking that nomination.

Anti-Mosquito Devices Faulty

By Associated Press

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency is warning Michigan residents not to buy battery-powered mosquito repellents to protect them from being bitten by mosquitoes carrying sleeping sickness. The EPA says the battery-powered pocket-sized devices, which emit a hum to keep bugs away, simply don't work. "It's better to use screens and fly swatters," said EPA spokesman Lawrence O'Neill. The warning came Tuesday as state and Detroit area health officials met to map out a strategy for heading off a possible outbreak of St. Louis encephalitis, also known as sleeping sickness. "It's a matter false and misleading advertising," O'Neill said of the humming devices. He said the EPA has tested a dozen such products in the past several years and, "They just don't work."

Kavanagh Not On Democrats' Supreme Court Candidate List

By SUSAN AGER
Associated Press Writer

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The Michigan Democratic Party is not listing Chief Justice Thomas Giles Kavanagh as a candidate for the state Supreme Court because he has not formally indicated he wants the party nomination.

A list of Democratic candidates for statewide offices released Tuesday lists Wayne County Circuit Court Judge Roman S. Gribbs as the only candidate for an eight-year term on the high court. Gribbs announced he would seek the party nomination Monday.

Kavanagh's office said it has been clear for weeks that the chief justice is seeking the Democratic nomination, and that he has sent letters to over 100 party leaders seeking the party's endorsement.

But party spokeswoman Beckie Brenneman said Kavanagh has not phoned the party's Lansing headquarters or "given us any other kind of indication" that he wants the party's endorsement. That includes his failure to return a request for a biographical sketch sent out to prospective candidates for statewide office.

"I suppose she could have picked up a Michigan manual for the last 12 years and found it (a biography) there," said Kavanagh aide Roger Lane.

Ms. Brenneman said Kavanagh was erroneously named on an earlier candidate list as the sole candidate for the eight-year Supreme Court term because of "a misunderstanding on my part."

"I hadn't realized he hadn't contacted us," she said.

State Party Chairman Morley Winograd said he had not talked with Kavanagh in at least three months and had no idea if he still wanted the party nomination.

"I talked with him three months ago at least. At that time he was going to talk to party leaders about his renomination, and I said, good," said Winograd.

Winograd has said the state has said the state party convention this weekend in Detroit may nominate someone else for Kavanagh's spot on the bench, because Kavanagh has refused to campaign for Democrats seeking the seats of incumbent justices James Ryan and Lawrence Lindemer, who are Republicans.

Kavanagh, who got the Democratic nomination eight years ago, has said he does not think it "appropriate or seemly" to campaign against his colleagues.

If Gribbs gets the party nomination, Kavanagh can still run on his own without the nomination. Both would oppose the Republican nominee, to be chosen in the GOP party convention in Grand Rapids this weekend.

Democrats Eye Ferency As High Court Candidate

By MARY STEVENSON
Associated Press Writer

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Some Democrats think they'll better the odds on clinching three state Supreme Court seats by running Human Rights Party candidate Zolton Ferency as a Democrat.

But Ferency hasn't decided what to do if this happens.

"There are so many variables at this point it's impossible to say how I'll react to any of them," Ferency said Tuesday. The state Democrats will hold their convention this weekend in Detroit, but Ferency doesn't expect to attend.

The Michigan State University law professor, a former Democrat, has unsuccessfully sought the governor's seat twice, once as a Democrat and once as an HRP candidate.

He is guaranteed a spot on the November ballot as an HRP candidate for a state Supreme Court seat now held by Lawrence Lindemer, who was appointed by Gov. William Milliken after the death of Justice Thomas M. Kavanagh. The winner gets six years on the bench.

Wayne County Circuit Court Judge Blair Moody Jr. wants the Democratic nomination to that seat, and some Democrats fear he and Ferency will split the progressive vote if they compete head on, handing a victory to Lindemer.

To solve that problem, the party's 600-member Educators Caucus has asked party officials to give Ferency the nomination for a different seat, the one held by James Ryan. Ryan was appointed by Milliken to fill a vacancy left by former Justice John Swainson, convicted of perjury in a bribery case. There are two years left in that term.

Lillian Stoner, caucus chairperson, said "this seems like the appropriate time to get under one umbrella. If there's room for (former Alabama Gov. George) Wallace and his supporters, there's room for Ferency and his supporters." She said she has no idea how much support the idea has.

An alternative proposal, nominating Moody to run for the two years left on Ryan's seat, was endorsed earlier this month by the Washtenaw County Democratic Party.

The Ryan and Lindemer seats are up for grabs this fall because appointees named to fill vacancies must run for their seats in the next general election after their appointments.

Ferency said that if the Democrats nominate him he will confer with the Human Rights Party Central Committee before making a decision.

"What it amounts to is an effort to form a coalition between parties on the left to achieve a mutually advantageous objective. We have coalesced with other political parties on other ad hoc situations," he said.

Lied To Police, Murder Trial Witness Says

By SCOTT WILLIAMSON
Staff Writer

A second "key" witness in the murder trial of Charles E. Neal testified yesterday in Berrien Circuit court she was not with Neal the night a Benton township girl disappeared and she had lied to police to give Neal an alibi. Patricia Woodard, who described herself as a former girlfriend of Neal, told the jury she lied to police about Neal's whereabouts the night of Feb. 7, 1975, because Neal had asked her to do so.

Neal, 25, of 1300 East Empire avenue, Benton township, is accused of killing Laverne Cornelius, 17, who disappeared from her Benton township home Feb. 7, 1975. Parts of her body were later discovered in a pine grove in Berrien township.

Neal is the owner of Mr. Neal's karate school in Benton Harbor. Miss Woodard's testimony came during the fifth day of trial in Judge William S. White's court. Last week a Berrien township trapper, who was called the other chief prosecution witness, identified Neal in court as the man he saw on the night of Feb. 7 in a car near where the girl's body was found.

Asked by Assistant Prosecutor Sally Zack why she changed her story about the alibi, Miss Woodard responded: "Because I had lived with the lie I had told for a year. The life of a young lady and her child had been taken."

The prosecution alleges Miss Cornelius was eight-months pregnant at the time of her death, and that Neal was the father of the child.

Miss Woodard testified she originally told police she and Neal were together the night of Feb. 7 at his karate school "because he asked me to."

She said Neal told her that "if I was ever questioned again just to say he was with me at the karate school." She told the court that on the morning of Feb. 7 Neal had told her he "had some business to take care of that evening" and she was to open the karate school.

"I didn't see him at all that evening at the school," she said, and noted that when Neal came to her townhouse later that night he said he had been "riding around getting high." Miss Zack questioned why Neal had told Miss Woodard to make up the alibi, and Miss Woodard said Neal told her "if anything serious happened to the girl his riding around just wouldn't stick.

"I began wondering why he asked me to tell a story if he was just riding around," Miss Woodard said, and testified she was afraid to tell police the truth because she was afraid of Neal. "He had changed, he became very irritable (after Miss Cornelius' disappearance)," she testified.

Miss Woodard stated that when Neal was asked by police and relatives of Miss Cornelius if he knew where the girl was, "he kept saying he didn't know where she was."

But on April 1, 1975, the day the remains were identified, Neal pulled a set of karate sticks from a dresser drawer at Miss Woodard's townhouse, she testified, and said "he'd better get them out of there—they could be used for evidence and that's all they'll need."

He took the device, consisting of two sticks joined by a length of rope, and hid it at the school, according to her testimony. Another witness, Deputy John Clark, of the Berrien sheriff's department, testified yesterday that on June 19, 1976, he executed a search warrant at the karate school on Pipestone street and recovered a set of karate sticks.

Miss Woodard identified those sticks, already introduced as evidence, as the ones Neal removed from her residence.

Defense Atty. Peter Kosick, of St. Joseph, challenged Miss Woodard's credibility as a witness by questioning her on various statements she had given to police and himself.

Under questioning from Kosick, Miss Woodard said she and Neal had broken up in the fall of 1975 and Neal began dating a friend of Miss Woodard. "Were you jealous of Charles Neal?" he asked. "I had no reason to be jealous," Miss Woodard responded.

She also testified under Kosick's examination that when Neal returned to her residence the night of Feb. 7, he did not appear nervous or upset. She also said the philosophy of karate which Neal taught was that of non-aggression, kindness, and humane feelings towards one's fellow man. But she later said Neal had stressed that his karate students, when competing in meets, do everything they could to win.

Trial was expected to resume again today, and attorneys for both sides said the trial should go to the jury late this week or early next week.

'Noise' From Space Fouls Viking Test

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — "Noise" from space has hampered analysis of a key Viking life-search experiment, but mission scientists are optimistic that the problem can be overcome soon.

The test is a repeat of the pyrolytic gas-release experiment designed to detect biological activity on the surface of Mars.

The Viking science team has been eagerly awaiting the data from the test to help identify activity in a soil sample that may be the result of biology or of a non-living chemical process.

"They have the data, but it has to be sifted out of the noise (random, irrelevant signals) before it can be interpreted," a Jet Propulsion Laboratory spokesman said Tuesday. "It can be done, though, and it appears that the noise is decreasing."

In another section of the 7-by-10 foot unmanned Mars lander, an analysis of the atmosphere of the red planet was carried out, and the lander's telescoping arm dug into the Martian surface for another soil sample to be analyzed for inorganic compounds.

Meanwhile, the Viking 2 sister ship was being prepared for a slight maneuver today designed to head the two-piece craft into a proper orbit for its scheduled Sept. 3 Mars landing.

The Viking 2 lander is programmed to touch down in a region called Utopia, in Mars' northern regions about 4,000 miles from the Viking 1 landing site.

It will perform experiments similar to those of Viking 1, chiefly a search for Martian life.

More Room Possible On Machine Ballots, But . . .

By SUSAN AGER
Associated Press Writer

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Key lawmakers acknowledge they could have changed the design of the Michigan November ballot to accomodate more parties, rather than stiffening the requirements for minor parties to qualify.

But the lawmakers say the idea of a ballot redesign was unpopular with both Democrats and Republicans who alternately benefit from its organization.

Others say they're not sure they'd want a ballot that can include more than nine political parties. "Conceivably, we could make a voting machine with room for 100 parties," said state Sen. Kerry Kammer of Pontiac. "But the question we have to ask ourselves is, do we want 100 parties on our ballot?"

The Michigan ballot is one that allows straight-ticket voting with the flick of a single lever. But because parties must be listed across the top, only nine can be fit on the computerized voting machines used by more than two-thirds of Michigan's voters.

Minor political parties have charged that a new law making it very tough for them to get on the general election ballot is discriminatory. They also say it is an attempt by Democrats and Republicans to squelch voices of opposition.

The law, signed routinely by Gov. William Milliken in the spring, has been in court almost ever since then. And it could become a test case for the rights of minor parties if six small parties take it to the U.S. Supreme Court, as they have said they will.

A federal court in Detroit, on a 2-1 decision, recently upheld the law as constitutional, but said it should not apply to this election year because it was passed too late.

The provision minor parties find particularly discriminatory is one that requires minor parties to get three-tenths of a per cent of the primary vote to guarantee a spot on the November ballot.

Major parties that got at least one per cent of the vote cast for the winning secretary of state in the last election have an automatic spot in November. This year they include the Democratic, Republican, Human Rights and American Independent parties.

Legislators, who are Democrats and Republicans only, have denied they intended simply to silent dissident parties. They have maintained that if more than nine parties qualified for the ballot, the state would be forced to go to expensive and time-consuming paper ballots.

But they acknowledge that an alternative to the strict new law was to simply redesign the ballot. Massachusetts, for example, uses a ballot which lists candidates of various parties under the name of the office they are seeking. It makes straight ticket voting more difficult, but allows more parties on the ballot.

New York uses a modified version of the Massachusetts ballot which arranges parties that get big votes — notably the Democrats and Republicans — the old way with straightticket voting by one lever. Minor parties are arranged the Massachusetts way.

Though both designs allow at least 13 minor parties on the ballot, lawmakers say the Michigan political winds blew too strongly against a change.

"You're talking about a much more politically sensitive issue," said Senate Majority Leader William Fitzgerald.

"There was general agreement in the legislature that (redesigning the ballot) would not be a satisfactory solution, that we could not get it through the legislature," said Sen. Patrick McCollough, who introduced the bill aimed at keeping most minor parties off the ballot.

"We tested the water and there wasn't support for it at that time," said McCollough, D-Dearborn.

Democrats always liked the Michigan ballot's design that allowed easy straight ticket voting, he said. And Republicans were anticipating having President Ford at the head of the ticket, and thought that would influence many voters to vote a straight GOP ticket.

In fact, say state election officials, Michigan voters soundly defeated a Massachusetts-type ballot in 1964 by a 2-1 margin. The new design had been approved by a Republican legislature who wanted to physically separate on the ballot conservative presidential candidate Barry Goldwater from moderate gubernatorial candidate George Romney.

But some legislators and state elections officials are talking now about possibly trying to approve the Massachusetts or New York type ballots again, just to avoid paper ballots in November.

Nine parties are now on the November ballot after the federal court ruling returned to it five minor parties who had not qualified under the new law.

But lawsuits are pending by three other parties or candidates who want a spot. State elections officials say they think a challenge by a faction of the American Independent party may succeed, and the attorney general's office says independent presidential candidate Eugene McCarthy has a good case.

Faced with the prospects of a multi-million dollar switch to paper ballots, the idea of a ballot redesign, if only for this election year, may not get the cold shoulder it got in the spring.

Two Russians Land After 49 Days In Space

By GEORGE KRIMSKY

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet cosmonauts Boris Volynov and Vitaly Zhlobov were reported in satisfactory condition today after returning to earth from 49 days in space.

Tass, the Soviet news agency, said Volynov, the 41-year-old flight commander, and Zhlobov, his 38-year-old flight engineer, landed Tuesday night at a predetermined site about 125 miles southwest of Kokchetav, Kazakhstan, in western Asia.

They spent nearly seven weeks aboard the Salyut 5 space station, and their descent module parachuted to earth two days after the return of a successful unmanned Soviet moon probe.

Salyut 5 remained in orbit "in the autopilot regime. All the station's systems are performing normally," Tass reported.

Volynov and Zhlobov fell far short of the space endurance record of 84 days set by an American Skylab crew. It was also short of the Soviet endurance mark of 63 days set by two cosmonauts last year in the Salyut 4 space station.

The cosmonauts conducted experiments with liquid metals in the vacuum of their space chamber and observed the growth of plants and insects in space for the purpose of genetic studies. They surveyed a large portion of Soviet territory and analyzed geological formations, looking for oil, gas and ore deposits. They also made weather observations.

The two space travelers appeared on Soviet television almost every night during their flight, explaining their experiments, showing various features of the Salyut and answering questions from earth.

The unmanned moon probe returned to earth Sunday with a sample of lunar soil and rock it scooped up.

Volynov and Zhlobov left the earth in the Soyuz 21 space capsule on July 6 and linked up the next day with the Salyut station, which had been placed into orbit two weeks earlier. They returned to earth in the Soyuz descent module.

Salyut 5 was the first manned space flight since the joint American-Soviet Apollo and Soyuz project last year. The United States is not expected to resume its manned space program until it starts space shuttle flights sometime after 1978.

Reservists Target Of Suit

DETROIT (AP) — Controversial police reservists in Canton Township are the targets of a class action suit filed by a resident of the community whose allies refer to the reservists as "vigilantes."

The armed reserve force was created late last year with the support of Canton's supervisor, Robert Greenstein, and began patrolling the streets this month.

Greenstein's political foes and professional police organizations oppose the group. The Wayne County Sheriff's Department has questioned the legality of the 24-member unit.

The suit filed Tuesday in Wayne County Circuit Court by resident Leonard Wasczenski claims Canton Township residents are in danger of "injury or death from gunshot wounds" from the reservists.

The reserve unit is believed to have been a factor in Greenstein's defeat in a bid for reelection.

Canton Township in western Wayne County has no standing police force to supervise the new recruits and the sheriff's department has refused to supervise the recruits.

Grace Speaks Out For Clean Films

RAY: A smash in England

BARBARA: She started consolation prizes

Q: I read that Princess Grace of Monaco has accepted a seat on the board of directors of Twentieth Century-Fox. Will she have any say in the movie company's film-making policies? — H. A., Pittsburgh.

A: We would have said no but now we hear that Princess Grace made a strong speech at her first board meeting demanding that Twentieth confine itself to clean, wholesome, family-type films only. She and the Prince are very picky about what movies get shown in their little country. Does Fox have a lion by the tail?

Q: I read that dear old Johnnie Ray was appearing in London. How did he do? — T. L., Los Angeles.

A: England has been bitten by the nostalgia bug, too, and so Ray was a smash hit. What started out as a two-week engagement for the singer has now been stretched to a one-month stand at London's Palladium.

Q: I don't know if it's fallout from women's lib or what, but it seems to me that the men in celebrity divorces are collecting the way women used to. — R.L., Seattle, Wash.

A: It used to be that only Barbara Hutton sent her ex-husbands off with large consolation prizes, but now the practice is getting more common. Goldie Hawn spent about $75,000 for her divorce and then there's Dionne Warwick, who turned over a Rolls-Royce to her ex, Bill Elliott, as part of the split deal.

Q: With all this talk about a possible new marriage for Jacqueline Onassis, we are wondering what a new husband would do to her personal finances? — T. O., Reston, Va.

A: Jackie would have to relinquish the $250,000 a year she gets under the terms of her late husband's will. So unless husband number three is rich, marriage could be an expensive proposition for her.

Q: They make movies so fast now, like three major features on the Israeli rescue at Entebbe. What about a film based on the Chowchilla schoolbus kidnaping? — A. B., Rockport, Me.

A: How about three films based on the kidnaping? One is ready to go into production. And incredibly enough, two other scripts that had been gathering dust in the files have been found which parallel the true story.

SCANDAL TIME: A very hot film director could land in court any day with a paternity suit. The director discovered his live-in girl friend was pregnant, threw her out of the apartment and changed all the locks. He told her repeatedly that he didn't want a baby, but nevertheless. . .

Q: I know Shelly Winters' daughter graduated from Radcliffe. Does she live in New York with her mother or in Italy with her father, Vittorio Gassman? — V. O., Boston.

A: Neither. She lives in Manhattan in her own apartment. Tory is pretty independent since her father gave her $800,000 a few years ago.

QUESTION YOU NEVER ASKED: What's the latest scheme for smuggling narcotics into the United States? Smugglers have been using people in wheelchairs since sympathetic customs officers would simply wave the crippled passenger on without examining either the invalid or his chair.

Grace Speaks Out For Clean Films

RAY: A smash in England

BARBARA: She started consolation prizes

Q: I read that Princess Grace of Monaco has accepted a seat on the board of directors of Twentieth Century-Fox. Will she have any say in the movie company's film-making policies? — H. A., Pittsburgh.

A: We would have said no but now we hear that Princess Grace made a strong speech at her first board meeting demanding that Twentieth confine itself to clean, wholesome, family-type films only. She and the Prince are very picky about what movies get shown in their little country. Does Fox have a lion by the tail?

Q: I read that dear old Johnnie Ray was appearing in London. How did he do? — T. L., Los Angeles.

A: England has been bitten by the nostalgia bug, too, and so Ray was a smash hit. What started out as a two-week engagement for the singer has now been stretched to a one-month stand at London's Palladium.

Q: I don't know if it's fallout from women's lib or what, but it seems to me that the men in celebrity divorces are collecting the way women used to. — R.L., Seattle, Wash.

A: It used to be that only Barbara Hutton sent her ex-husbands off with large consolation prizes, but now the practice is getting more common. Goldie Hawn spent about $75,000 for her divorce and then there's Dionne Warwick, who turned over a Rolls-Royce to her ex, Bill Elliott, as part of the split deal.

Q: With all this talk about a possible new marriage for Jacqueline Onassis, we are wondering what a new husband would do to her personal finances? — T. O., Reston, Va.

A: Jackie would have to relinquish the $250,000 a year she gets under the terms of her late husband's will. So unless husband number three is rich, marriage could be an expensive proposition for her.

Q: They make movies so fast now, like three major features on the Israeli rescue at Entebbe. What about a film based on the Chowchilla schoolbus kidnaping? — A. H., Rockport, Me.

A: How about three films based on the kidnaping? One is ready to go into production. And incredibly enough, two other scripts that had been gathering dust in the files have been found which parallel the true story.

SCANDAL TIME: A very hot film director could land in court any day with a paternity suit. The director discovered his live-in girl friend was pregnant, threw her out of the apartment and changed all the locks. He told her repeatedly that he didn't want a baby, but nevertheless. . .

Q: I know Shelly Winters' daughter graduated from Radcliffe. Does she live in New York with her mother or in Italy with her father, Vittorio Gassman? — V. O., Boston.

A: Neither. She lives in Manhattan in her own apartment. Tory is pretty independent since her father gave her $100,000 a few years ago.

QUESTION YOU NEVER ASKED: What's the latest scheme for smuggling narcotics into the United States? Smugglers have been using people in wheelchairs since sympathetic customs officers would simply wave the crippled passenger on without examining either the invalid or his chair.

Convicted Slayers To Get New Trial

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Two men convicted of a 1974 double murder in Grand Rapids will get a new trial because the judge in their first trial issued an erroneous instruction, the Michigan Court of Appeals has ruled.

The court ordered a new trial in Kent County Circuit Court for Lionel Conway and Lee Weber Lawrence Jr.

The two were found guilty of first-degree murder in the Jan. 17, 1974, shooting deaths of Robert Stedman and Susan Ann Krezen.

In its ruling, the appeals court said Judge John VanderWal committed a reversible error when he instructed the jury that the law presumes malice from use of a deadly weapon.

The appeals court said Michigan law allows a jury to draw the inference of malice from use of a deadly weapon, but that malice from use of a deadly weapon is not automatically presumed under law.

The Kent County prosecutor's office said the shootings occurred during what was allegedly a drug sale.

Bridgmanite To Co-Chair Fibrosis Unit

Ron Burford, of 4346 Willard, Bridgman, was recently appointed co-chairman of the education and public relations committee for southern lower Michigan of the Cystic Fibrosis council of Elkhart County, Inc.

The council provides full patient services for children in lower Michigan afflicted with cystic fibrosis. Cystic fibrosis is a respiratory disease which affects children and for which there is no known cure. Without early diagnosis and therapy, a child with the disease has a short life expectancy.

Clubs or groups seeking more information on cystic fibrosis can contact Burford, who is available for speaking engagements.

Allegan Board Nixes Ambulance Law

ALLEGAN — The Allegan county board last night rejected a proposed county-wide ambulance ordinance that would have set minimum standards for all ambulances operating in the county. The measure failed by a 9 to 3 vote after Commissioner Walter Bray of Hamilton charged it would raise ambulance costs throughout the county.

The proposal required that any new ambulance purchased have wider doors and be equipped with certain types of life-saving equipment such as a suction device to clear clogged breathing passages. The measure would also have required that all ambulance operators be trained in first aid techniques by July 1, 1977.

Casting votes in favor of the measure were James Rolfe, Allegan; Ralph Sytsma, rural Wayland; and Dennis Nickels, Wayland. Voting against the measure were Bray; Vernon Sill, rural South Haven; chairman Jerry Lohman, Hamilton; John Vogelzang, Holland; John Funk, Dorr; Louis Ter Avest, Allegan; Anthony Wykstra, Martin; Ralph Senese, Otsego; and Arthur Popp, Plainwell.

The measure had been under study for the past 18 months in the board's county services committee. That committee is headed by Rolfe and Sytsma. Nickels said that passage of the measure would have insured continuity of service throughout the county. He said most ambulance services were already complying with the requirements in the measure.

In another area, the board approved an additional $4,155 worth of changes to the remodeling of the courthouse and jail now underway. The changes call for additional painting of walls and more work on the air conditioning system being installed. With last night's approval, the changes in remodeling now total an additional $38,206. When the bids were opened, the project was to have cost $351,885. Lohman said the entire project was expected to be completed by mid-October.

School Bids $100,000 High At Dowagiac

DOWAGIAC — Bids on Dowagiac school district's proposed new vocational-technical building and high school remodeling project are approximately $100,000 higher than anticipated. The bids opened last night at a special meeting of the school board revealed Ira C. Mast & Sons, Inc., Elkhart, Ind., as apparent low bidder at $518,117. Project architects, Trend & Associates, Kalamazoo, had pegged the project cost at between $400,000 and $440,000, according to Supt. Lionel Stacey.

Six other bids were submitted ranging from $523,300 to $544,400. Stacey termed the bidding close, "but a lot higher than we expected."

The board instructed its architects to review the bids submitted to see where cost reductions could be made and return with recommendations to the board.

Stacey said the possibility exists that re-bids could be sought.

The building and remodeling program is to be financed through the sale of $400,000 in bonds to be paid off by an approximate property tax millage rate of 1.1 mills over a five-year period. The issue was approved by the board without a vote of the people as in most building bond issues.

State law allows a school board to levy up to 5 per cent of its district's state equalized valuation for site acquisition, construction or remodeling.

The bonds were sold in July to the William C. Roney & Co., Detroit, at a low interest bid of 4.720722 per cent. Paid back over five years, the bonds would cost the district $56,569 in interest, school officials previously stated.

Money from the bond sale would finance construction of an 8,100 square foot steel building to house auto and shop classes plus remodeling of the existing mechanics wing of the high school into eight new classrooms.

Other bidders included: Whitaker Construction Co., Kalamazoo, $523,300; Miller-Davis Co., Kalamazoo, $528,072; Carl Reinke & Son, South Bend, $530,000; Paul J. Barton & Associates, Kalamazoo, $531,000; Holland Construction Co., St. Joseph, $543,311; and Pearson Construction Co. St. Joseph, $544,400.

Libertowski Back In Jail In South Bend

By JOHN DYE
South Berrien Bureau

SOUTH BEND — Gerald Libertowski, accused of murdering a Niles woman who disappeared in 1975, is back in jail here. Accompanied by his lawyers, Libertowski surrendered himself yesterday to the St. Joseph county, Ind., sheriff's department.

Indiana Gov. Otis Bowen has signed documents authorizing his extradition to Berrien county.

A 34-year-old building contractor, Libertowski faces an open murder charge in Michigan in connection with the disappearance of Mrs. Janis Sanders, Niles, who was last seen in July, 1975.

Libertowski was acquitted Aug. 6 in Indiana of a first degree murder charge stemming from the disappearance of another woman in 1973.

On Aug. 19, St. Joseph county, Ind., Superior Court Judge Douglas Seeley Jr. dismissed a Michigan fugitive warrant under which Libertowski was being held in Indiana since the Aug. 6 acquittal.

Libertowski's co-counsel, Atty. Carl Leibowitz of South Bend, said he planned to file petitions today in South Bend asking that the extradition warrant be set aside.

The South Bend attorney said he would also ask that Libertowski be freed on bail pending a ruling on the petitions.

Ohio Confirms Encephalitis Discoveries

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio state health authorities have confirmed two cases of potentially deadly St. Louis encephalitis, commonly known as sleeping sickness.

A spokesman for the Ohio Health Department said Tuesday that a third case has been tentatively identified, and all three persons are under close observation.

The disease killed 28 Ohio residents last summer, and nine Detroit area residents also died from it.

Washington Promotion Advanced

WASHINGTON (AP) — George Washington's promotion to the highest ranking Army officer in U.S. history now goes to the Senate after a 275-107 favorable vote in the House.

Washington was made a lieutenant general after his command of U.S. revolutionary forces 200 year ago. It was the highest rank at the time but now is only a three-star general.

Rep. Lucien N. Nedzi, D-Mich., said Washington's place in history is assured and he "certainly doesn't need an extra star from us." He compared the proposal to "having the Pope offer to make Christ a Cardinal."

Rep. Mario Biaggi, D-N.Y., the bill's chief sponsor, said he never intended to have Congress improve Washington's status. He said he offered the proposal "in the spirit of the bicentennial."

The bill would make Washington a general of the armies of the United States, as of last July 4. Nedzi said it wasn't clear this would make Washington the highest ranking Army officer ever, despite the bill's language saying so.

He produced a 1930s federal finding that Congress gave Gen. John Pershing the rank of general of the armies of the United States after World War I.

But Chairman F. Edward Hebert, D-La., of the House Armed Services subcommittee, which approved the bill, said he assumes the bill would make Washington a six-star general.

Posse Comitatus' Founder Predicts U.S. Rebellion

that fired during the so-called "tomato field incident" in September last year. The blast left a deputy with a concussion and sent Gillings to trial. Gillings, convicted of assault with a deadly weapon, says someone else must have fired his gun. The posse was there, he says, because the sheriff wasn't doing his job and keeping the organizers away.

When public officials don't fulfill their oath of office properly, Gillings said, they should be tried and removed from office upon conviction.

In the group's early days, one of the posse's first manuals mentioned hangings of public officials who fail to enforce the law. That language, scrapped in later editions, was simply quoted from an old English law that "a few pantywaists felt was going a little too strong," Beach said. Nowadays, few posse members talk openly about hangings, and they remain vague about just what kind of situations will prompt them to help out their local sheriffs.

Rev. Phillip Potter, the South Dakota minister who tangled with the posse over planning commission regulations, describes himself as a member of the authorized 40-man sheriff's posse in Meade County.

"Their interpretation is we're just minions of big government on the planning commission. It's typical Nazi tactics. If they ever came to blows, they would be the first ones to jump the trigger and do something foolish, I'm afraid," Potter said. Potter said the group reminded him of the Ku Klux Klan, which had a big membership in his state in the 1920s.

When discussions come up about law enforcement-posse confrontations, posse members often have much calmer descriptions of the episodes than the local authorities.

Robert Lewis, the 40-year-old rancher from Stevensville, Mont., who had his truck repossessed, says a couple of posse members were wearing guns the day Sheriff Dale Dye tried to auction his truck. Lewis said the guns were used because he wanted to buy the truck back and was carrying a large amount of cash on him. Dye, the sheriff in Hamilton, Mont., recalled the situation somewhat differently. First, Dye said, Lewis tried to run his tractor across the road to block Dye from taking his truck. A lawyer finally convinced Lewis to turn over the truck and the auction took place.

"Alleged posse members showed up wearing firearms and circulating pamphlets saying I had stolen the truck," Dye said. The state internal revenue service finally bought the truck.

In Missouri last October posse member Jack Moffitt said the Ozark Sunbeam "was about to get burned down there in Seligman" because it opposed regional government.

"In view of apparent lack of law enforcement we carried defensive weapons and took posts as look-outs in various places around the building," Moffitt wrote in an account of the "Seige."

Soon there were 103 men to help if anyone tried to burn the newspaper, he said. Nobody tried to burn the paper, but two posse members were arrested for carrying concealed weapons. A local court threw out the charges.

Montana posse member Slim Deardorff had a showdown with Sheriff Roy Kitson, who told him to put his .357-caliber Smith and Wesson pistols in his car when he went into bars and restaurants.

Kitson said Virginia City banned guns in public places after some shootings in bars. "This guy got a little book out of his pocket and he was going to read it to me. I said I'd been around too many years. I knew what the law was." Deardorff, a 45-year-old "horse-shoer" and self-described tax rebel, put his guns away.

When Deardorff talks about why he joined the posse, he sounds like many members across the country. He mentions the crime rate, heavy handed government, a conspiracy "at the top" involving many Jews.

George Hill of the San Joaquin County posse in California summed up this way:

Milliken Tells Appointees

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Gov. William Milliken announced appointments Tuesday to the State Board of Ethics and to the Commission for Volunteers in Michigan. John Riecker, Midland, was appointed to the State Board of Ethics for a term expiring Feb. 7, 1980, subject to Senate confirmation. Ethics for a term expiring Feb. 7, 1980, subject to Senate confirmation, did not desire reappointment. Marian Klein of Kalamazoo was named to the Commission for Volunteers in Michigan for a term expiring at the pleasure of the governor. Senate confirmation is not needed. Mrs. Klein succeeds Dr Bruce Dante of Birmingham, who resigned. She is chairman of the Greater Kalamazoo United Way Campaign for 1976 and a board member of the Kalamazoo Red Cross.

Legal Drivers Gather Large Following On Busy Freeway

Long and five friends put that principle into practice this morning by driving the 50 miles along Interstate 94 from Ann Arbor to Detroit at 55 miles per hour, the legal speed limit.

But they did it going two-and three-cars abreast the entire distance, causing a string of backed-up traffic Long estimated at more than 600 vehicles by the time they reached Detroit.

He said he wanted to protest the way motorists ignore the speed limit, wasting gasoline in the process.

The group, in a trio of cars carrying signs declaring "Stay Alive at 55" and "Gas Shortage," left Ann Arbor shortly after 7 a.m. on the two-and three-lane freeway.

Four miles later, they had a following of 45 cars and trucks and the rush-hour pavement was getting crowded.

In fact, it got so crowded that Long said some motorists began passing on the both shoulders of the road. In all, he counted 32 cars and trucks, some traveling at 75 miles per hour, he said. They took to grass, gravel and paved shoulders to pass.

"It was really hairy," the 23-year-old Long said after reaching Detroit. "It was amazing how obnoxious people were."

Some audible comments were made by the drivers as they took the shoulder route, "But nothing you could print," he said.

The three vehicles stayed in formation most of way to the Trumbull Street exit in Detroit, despite attempts by motorists to break the line.

"Cars would pass us on the shoulder, get in front of us and then stop dead in the middle of the highway," he said. At one point, this tactic did get the slower-downers out of line and "a few cars got through," but the troops quickly recovered, Long said.

He said one motorist passed the moving blockade on a shoulder and then joined in the protest, driving at a steady 55 mph.

He said the protesters planned to escort the rush-hour traffic back to Ann Arbor from Detroit this afternoon.

Originally, they had planned to lead the morning and evening caravans on Thursday, too. But Long said after their experience this morning, they decided to skip the treks tomorrow.

Carter Pardon Booed

statement.

"He was talking about those people who, when their country needed them, said to hell with their country and turned tail and fled," Wicker said angrily.

Carter told fair goers today that the Ford Administration has neglected the family farmer and American Consumer and has failed to establish a stable agricultural policy.

"We need to take agricultural leadership in Washington out of the hands of the corporate interests and the grain speculators," Carter said in a speech prepared for delivery at the Iowa State Fair.

"We need a president and a secretary of agriculture who understand the problems of the family farmer and the consumer — and if I am elected, we're going to have both.

The peanut farmer from Plains, Ga., who is confident he has a strong chance of winning in President Ford's native Midwest, made Des Moines his last stop on a four-day campaign trip. Aides said he would try to capitalize on what he believes is significant discontent in the farm belt over Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz and the administration's farm program.

He has attacked Butz as a supporter of big agricultural businesses, lacking understanding and support for small farmers.

"We need to close the revolving door between the agriculture department and the large special interests," Carter said.

"We need to guarantee a decent price for the farmer and a reasonable price for the consumer. The costs of production have risen much faster than the prices you can get. Support levels are unreasonably low.

"If I am elected, we will make sure that our support prices are at least equal to the cost of production. That will not guarantee profit — no real farmer wants that — but it will give the determined farmer a chance to stay in business."

The Democratic presidential nominee also attacked export embargos placed on agricultural products by the Nixon and Ford adminstrations in the last three years, calling them "a record of unparalleled incompetence.

"It's not my idea of a fair shake when the government promotes foreign sales and then cuts them off for political convenience.

"It's not my idea of a fair shake when inside speculators, with special connections in the agriculture department, make windfall profits on grain deals while the producer himself sells at a loss."

Carter had said Tuesday night when he met with representatives of two dozen national farm organizations that if elected president he would never authorize an embargo singling out foreign shipment of U.S. farm products.

"Under my administration, if I'm elected, there will never be another embargo that singles out farm products," the former Georgia governor said during the meeting with representative of such groups as the National Farmers Organization, Farmers Union, National Grange, American Farm Bureau and National Corn Growers Association.

Embargoes on shipments of U.S. grain, particularly last October's embargo on shipments to Russia, have been a sore point with many farmers who claim they lost money because of them. The administration has said that no farm sales were lost because all available ports and ships were tied up at the time of the embargoes.

He said firefighters are forced to slog through waistdeep water in some areas, and much of the land is too soft to support even four-wheel drive vehicles.

In addition, the fire is centered on a breeding ground for several hundred Canada geese, and Hartigan said firemen in that area were having trouble with "very slippery footing." Others reported problems with large, aggressive snapping turtles.

The crews are being housed in "every motel within 30 miles," Hartigan said, and a fire camp was being set up near the command post, at the Seney Refuge headquarters.

"We're setting up to be here a while. I'd be out of my tree to even talk about containing this thing yet," said Hartigan, who flew in Monday from the federal Interagency Fire Center in Boise, Idaho.

Libertowski Back In Jail In South Bend

By JOHN DYE
South Berrien Bureau

SOUTH BEND — Gerald Libertowski, accused of murdering a Niles woman who disappeared in 1975, is back in jail here. Accompanied by his lawyers, Libertowski surrendered himself yesterday to the St. Joseph county, Ind., sheriff's department.

Indiana Gov. Otis Bowen has signed documents authorizing his extradition to Berrien county.

A 34-year-old building contractor, Libertowski faces an open murder charge in Michigan in connection with the disappearance of Mrs. Janis Sanders, Niles, who was last seen in July, 1975.

Libertowski was acquitted Aug. 6 in Indiana of a first degree murder charge stemming from the disappearance of another woman in 1973.

On Aug. 19, St. Joseph county, Ind., Superior Court Judge Douglas Seeley Jr. dismissed a Michigan fugitive warrant under which Libertowski was being held in Indiana since the Aug. 6 acquittal.

Libertowski's co-counsel, Atty. Carl Leibowitz of South Bend, said he planned to file petitions today in South Bend asking that the extradition warrant be set aside.

The South Bend attorney said he would also ask that Libertowski be freed on bail pending a ruling on the petitions.

Ohio Confirms Encephalitis Discoveries

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio state health authorities have confirmed two cases of potentially deadly St. Louis encephalitis, commonly known as sleeping sickness.

A spokesman for the Ohio Health Department said Tuesday that a third case has been tentatively identified, and all three persons are under close observation.

The disease killed 28 Ohio residents last summer, and nine Detroit area residents also died from it.

Washington Promotion Advanced

WASHINGTON (AP) — George Washington's promotion to the highest ranking Army officer in U.S. history now goes to the Senate after a 275-107 favorable vote in the House.

Washington was made a lieutenant general after his command of U.S. revolutionary forces 200 year ago. It was the highest rank at the time but now is only a three-star general.

Rep. Lucien N. Nedzi, D-Mich., said Washington's place in history is assured and he "certainly doesn't need an extra star from us." He compared the proposal to "having the Pope offer to make Christ a Cardinal."

Rep. Mario Biaggi, D-N.Y., the bill's chief sponsor, said he never intended to have Congress improve Washington's status. He said he offered the proposal "in the spirit of the bicentennial."

The bill would make Washington a general of the armies of the United States, as of last July 4. Nedzi said it wasn't clear this would make Washington the highest ranking Army officer ever, despite the bill's language saying so.

He produced a 1930s federal finding that Congress gave Gen. John Pershing the rank of general of the armies of the United States after World War I.

But Chairman F. Edward Hebert, D-La., of the House Armed Services subcommittee, which approved the bill, said he assumes the bill would make Washington a six-star general.

Legal Drivers Gather Large Following On Busy Freeway

Long and five friends put that principle into practice this morning by driving the 50 miles along Interstate 94 from Ann Arbor to Detroit at 55 miles per hour, the legal speed limit.

But they did it going two-and three-cars abreast the entire distance, causing a string of backed-up traffic Long estimated at more than 600 vehicles by the time they reached Detroit.

He said he wanted to protest the way motorists ignore the speed limit, wasting gasoline in the process.

The group, in a trio of cars carrying signs declaring "Stay Alive at 55" and "Gas Shortage," left Ann Arbor shortly after 7 a.m. on the two-and three-lane freeway.

Four miles later, they had a following of 45 cars and trucks and the rush-hour pavement was getting crowded.

In fact, it got so crowded that Long said some motorists began passing on the both shoulders of the road. In all, he counted 32 cars and trucks, some traveling at 75 miles per hour, he said. They took to grass, gravel and paved shoulders to pass.

"It was really hairy," the 23-year-old Long said after reaching Detroit. "It was amazing how obnoxious people were."

Some audible comments were made by the drivers as they took the shoulder route, "But nothing you could print," he said.

The three vehicles stayed in formation most of way to the Trumbull Street exit in Detroit, despite attempts by motorists to break the line.

"Cars would pass us on the shoulder, get in front of us and then stop dead in the middle of the highway," he said. At one point, this tactic did get the slower-downers out of line and "a few cars got through," but the troops quickly recovered, Long said.

He said one motorist passed the moving blockade on a shoulder and then joined in the protest, driving at a steady 55 mph.

He said the protesters planned to escort the rush-hour traffic back to Ann Arbor from Detroit this afternoon.

Originally, they had planned to lead the morning and evening caravans on Thursday, too. But Long said after their experience this morning, they decided to skip the treks tomorrow.

He said firefighters are forced to slog through waistdeep water in some areas, and much of the land is too soft to support even four-wheel drive vehicles.

In addition, the fire is centered on a breeding ground for several hundred Canada geese, and Hartigan said firemen in that area were having trouble with "very slippery footing." Others reported problems with large, aggressive snapping turtles.

The crews are being housed in "every motel within 30 miles," Hartigan said, and a fire camp was being set up near the command post, at the Seney Refuge headquarters.

"We're setting up to be here a while. I'd be out of my tree to even talk about containing this thing yet," said Hartigan, who flew in Monday from the federal Interagency Fire Center in Boise, Idaho.

Posse Comitatus' Founder Predicts U.S. Rebellion

that fired during the so-called "tomato field incident" in September last year. The blast left a deputy with a concussion and sent Gillings to trial. Gillings, convicted of assault with a deadly weapon, says someone else must have fired his gun. The posse was there, he says, because the sheriff wasn't doing his job and keeping the organizers away.

When public officials don't fulfill their oath of office properly, Gillings said, they should be tried and removed from office upon conviction.

In the group's early days, one of the posse's first manuals mentioned hangings of public officials who fail to enforce the law. That language, scrapped in later editions, was simply quoted from an old English law that "a few pantywaists felt was going a little too strong," Beach said. Nowadays, few posse members talk openly about hangings, and they remain vague about just what kind of situations will prompt them to help out their local sheriffs.

Rev. Phillip Potter, the South Dakota minister who tangled with the posse over planning commission regulations, describes himself as a member of the authorized 40-man sheriff's posse in Meade County.

"Their interpretation is we're just minions of big government on the planning commission. It's typical Nazi tactics. If they ever came to blows, they would be the first ones to jump the trigger and do something foolish, I'm afraid," Potter said. Potter said the group reminded him of the Ku Klux Klan, which had a big membership in his state in the 1920s.

When discussions come up about law enforcement-posse confrontations, posse members often have much calmer descriptions of the episodes than the local authorities.

Robert Lewis, the 40-year-old rancher from Stevensville, Mont., who had his truck repossessed, says a couple of posse members were wearing guns the day Sheriff Dale Dye tried to auction his truck. Lewis said the guns were used because he wanted to buy the truck back and was carrying a large amount of cash on him. Dye, the sheriff in Hamilton, Mont., recalled the situation somewhat differently. First, Dye said, Lewis tried to run his tractor across the road to block Dye from taking his truck. A lawyer finally convinced Lewis to turn over the truck and the auction took place.

"Alleged posse members showed up wearing firearms and circulating pamphlets saying I had stolen the truck," Dye said. The state internal revenue service finally bought the truck.

In Missouri last October posse member Jack Moffitt said the Ozark Sunbeam "was about to get burned down there in Seligman" because it opposed regional government.

"In view of apparent lack of law enforcement we carried defensive weapons and took posts as look-outs in various places around the building," Moffitt wrote in an account of the "Seige."

Soon there were 103 men to help if anyone tried to burn the newspaper, he said. Nobody tried to burn the paper, but two posse members were arrested for carrying concealed weapons. A local court threw out the charges.

Montana posse member Slim Deardorff had a showdown with Sheriff Roy Kitson, who told him to put his .357-caliber Smith and Wesson pistols in his car when he went into bars and restaurants.

Kitson said Virginia City banned guns in public places after some shootings in bars. "This guy got a little book out of his pocket and he was going to read it to me. I said I'd been around too many years. I knew what the law was." Deardorff, a 45-year-old "horse-shoer" and self-described tax rebel, put his guns away.

When Deardorff talks about why he joined the posse, he sounds like many members across the country. He mentions the crime rate, heavy handed government, a conspiracy "at the top" involving many Jews.

George Hill of the San Joaquin County posse in California summed up this way:

Carter Pardon Booed

statement.

"He was talking about those people who, when their country needed them, said to hell with their country and turned tail and fled," Wicker said angrily.

Carter told fair goers today that the Ford Administration has neglected the family farmer and American Consumer and has failed to establish a stable agricultural policy.

"We need to take agricultural leadership in Washington out of the hands of the corporate interests and the grain speculators," Carter said in a speech prepared for delivery at the Iowa State Fair.

"We need a president and a secretary of agriculture who understand the problems of the family farmer and the consumer — and if I am elected, we're going to have both.

The peanut farmer from Plains, Ga., who is confident he has a strong chance of winning in President Ford's native Midwest, made Des Moines his last stop on a four-day campaign trip. Aides said he would try to capitalize on what he believes is significant discontent in the farm belt over Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz and the administration's farm program.

He has attacked Butz as a supporter of big agricultural businesses, lacking understanding and support for small farmers.

"We need to close the revolving door between the agriculture department and the large special interests," Carter said.

"We need to guarantee a decent price for the farmer and a reasonable price for the consumer The costs of production have risen much faster than the prices you can get Support levels are unreasonably low

"If I am elected, we will make sure that our support prices are at least equal to the cost of production. That will not guarantee profit — no real farmer wants that — but it will give the determined farmer a chance to stay in business."

The Democratic presidential nominee also attacked export embargos placed on agricultural products by the Nixon and Ford adminstrations in the last three years, calling them "a record of unparalleled incompetence.

"It's not my idea of a fair shake when the government promotes foreign sales and then cuts them off for political convenience.

"It's not my idea of a fair shake when inside speculators, with special connections in the agriculture department, make windfall profits on grain deals while the producer himself sells at a loss."

Carter had said Tuesday night when he met with representatives of two dozen national farm organizations that if elected president he would never authorize an embargo singling out foreign shipment of U.S. farm products.

"Under my administration, if I'm elected, there will never be another embargo that singles out farm products," the former Georgia governor said during the meeting with representative of such groups as the National Farmers Organization, Farmers Union, National Grange, American Farm Bureau and National Corn Growers Association.

Embargoes on shipments of U.S. grain, particularly last October's embargo on shipments to Russia, have been a sore point with many farmers who claim they lost money because of them. The administration has said that no farm sales were lost because all available ports and ships were tied up at the time of the embargoes.

Van Buren Eyeing 'Magnet' For Doctors

By DENNIS COGSWELL
Paw Paw Bureau

PAW PAW — Van Buren commissioners last night authorized the county health department to make inquiries into the feasibility of a county medical center.

Board Chairman Walter Stickels said the facility would not be another county hospital as such, but rather a well-equipped clinic which could be used as a magnet to attract doctors.

He said health department officials are now investigating the possibility of funding the center through one or more private foundations.

"It would be a place where we could encourage doctors to come for the clinical facilities," he said. "If it can be done with no cost to the county, I'm all in favor of it."

Commissioners Gerald Rendel and George Fritz both questioned the need for such a facility.

"We've already got two hospitals in the county (Lake View Community hospital, Paw Paw, and South Haven Community hospital) that are struggling," Fritz said.

Stickels replied doctors are looking for situations where they can work more-or-less an eight hour day, and that the county has lost some physicians because of constant pressures in practices in the smaller towns.

"Dr. (James) Davis (head of the county health department) has said he knew he could get seven doctors in immediately in a clinical situation," Stickels said.

Commissioner Edwin Twitchell added that there are now only 11 physicians in the county to care for over 60,000 people. He said that while rising malpractice insurance rates have accounted for some doctors leaving, many others have gone to larger communities because of better facilities.

The resolution authorizing further study passed by an 8-1 vote, with Fritz dissenting and commissioners Stickels, Twitchell, Rendel, James Wellington, Ronald DeCook, Donald Hanson, Boyd Estes, and Mrs. Shirley Jackson in favor.

Lottery Winner Giving Someone Else A Chance

By LARRY MacINTYRE
Staff Writer

Mrs. Elmeda Keeter of Stevensville says she has stopped buying Michigan lottery tickets.

It's not because she's tired of losing, but rather because she wants to give someone else a chance to win.

Mrs. Keeter won $10,000 in June with an instant lottery ticket, and just last week she was assured of winning at least another $10,000 with a shot at $1 million.

She and 49 others were finalists in an Aug. 20 drawing of losing tickets from the now-ended Michigan Landmarks game.

MRS. HARRIETT MICHAEL
Chance for $1 million

MRS. ELMEDA KEETER
Two-time winner

The finalists are to compete in the Million Dollar Grand Drawing in Saginaw Sept. 9.

Another Berrien county resident, Mrs. Max (Harriett) Michael, 60, Eau Claire, will also be competing for the big money in that drawing.

All the finalists will get a minimum of $10,000. Ten will collect $25,000 each; two will win $50,000; and one will win the $1 million top prize.

To apply to be a finalist, people had to send in three tickets from the landmarks game. There were over five million entries. A person could enter as many tickets as he wished.

Mrs. Keeter, 63, of 3017 Johnson road, said she does not remember how many losing tickets she mailed in, but she figures it must have been "just enough."

She said she only bought a few instant tickets each week. "I never kept track of it because I never thought I'd win;" she said.

A life-long resident of Lincoln township and Stevensville, Mrs. Keeter recently retired as a data processor for the Whirlpool Corp. Her husband Gustav died a year ago and she has no children.

All she has decided on so far is that she will visit her sister in Arizona after Sept. 9.

Berrien county's other hopeful in the millionaire drawing, Mrs. Michael, said she and her husband are planning to buy a fancy recreational vehicle with their winnings.

She said they have had a longstanding urge to travel around the country, but until now have been unable to afford a recreational vehicle or motor home.

Mrs. Michael and her husband Max both work at the Jeno's fruit processing plant in Sodus. The couple lives on route 2, Preston road, Eau Claire, and they have a grown son.

Mrs. Michael said that until now, she had won just $2 from instant lottery tickets.

"I finally quit buying the stupid things," she said.

Firm Hired For 3-County Study Of Water Quality

CASSOPOLIS — The Southwestern Michigan Regional Planning commission (SWMRPC) yesterday hired a South Bend, Ind., engineering consultant firm to conduct a study of water quality in the Berrien, Cass and Van Buren county area.

Thomas Byers, planning director, reported the SWMRPC voted to hire Lawson-Fisher Associates of South Bend as the prime contractor for the study.

The two-year study would enable communities in the three counties to qualify for federal grants under the Water Pollution Control act which provides funds for sewage systems and related items.

Byers said Lawson-Fisher will receive about $80,000 for work on the study. Total funding for the study is $143,440, according to Byers, with $107,580 coming from the federal Environmental Protection Agency and $35,860 coming as a match from SWMRPC.

Byers said the study would review use of land along waterways in the three counties and make recommendations on the way the land should be developed.

The SWMRPC also reviewed and approved requests from eight governmental units for more than $3.3 million in federal grants.

The planning commission approved a request by Berrien County Action, Inc., to apply for $172,975 from the federal Community Services Administration for administration costs of the agency.

Other grant applications approved by the planning commmission were:

— Region Four Area Agency on Aging, $243,066 grant from the federal Department of Health, Education and Welfare to fund the Southwestern Michigan Regional Commission on Aging program plan for 1976-1977.

— Van Buren county road commission, $34,420 grant from the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency to develop a wastewater treatment facilities plan for the Mattawan area.

— Vocational Rehabilitation Service, for $33,000 in Berrien county, Comprehensive Employment Training Act (CETA) funds through the state labor department to fund counseling and training.

— Twin Cities Area Transportation Authority, $73,000 grant from the Urban Mass Transit Administration, to replace six old buses for the St. Joseph and Benton Harbor Dial-A-Ride service.

— City of Dowagiac, for a $51,000 grant from the Federal Highway administration for a bicycle trail from Rotary park in Dowagiac to Southwestern Michigan College.

The regional planning commission also approved grant requests by the Michigan Department of State Highways and Transportation for road repairs in southwestern Michigan. The funding agency would be the Federal Highway administration.

Grants for construction projects were approved for:

— A program to purchase and remove billboards not in compliance with state and federal laws, $1.6 million.

— Reconstruction of bridges located at the intersection of M-51 and I-94 in Van Buren county and the I-94 bridge intersected by US-12 and the Penn Central railroad in Berrien county, for $360,000.

— Replacement of inadequate bridge on Bundy road, northwest of Coloma, for $209,000.

— Improve Cleveland avenue from the state line north to the Village of Galien, for $426,880.

— To conduct a study on public transit needs in the area, $35,000.

—To inventory and survey the number of junkyards on new primary roads and to provide preliminary engineering and right-of-way studies to deal with needed beautification programs, for $240,000.

— A grant to pay the final costs of a Twin-CATS (Twin Cities Area Transportation Study) to survey needs for auto traffic and transit improvements, $12,080.

Final approval of the grants is up to the agencies asked to provide the funds.

A Logical Choice

DETROIT (AP) — A trio of parade marshals will lead the two-hour Michigan State Fair opening march through downtown Detroit Thursday: area television weather-people Sonny Eliot, Marilyn Turner and Jerry Hodak.

The choice was a logical one. Last year's fair was deluged with rain for nine of its 11 days. Rain or no, thousands of viewers are expected to be on hand to watch 4,300 marchers, floats, musicians and floats make their way down Woodward Avenue from the Fisher Freeway to Kennedy Square, starting at 11 a.m. Included will be Britain's colorful First Footguards Grenadier Company; the Marching Harmonica Band; the all-woman, award-winning Praesidium Drum and Bugle Corps; and the mounted Oakland County Sheriff's Posse. Both the parade and the fair itself, which official opens Friday morning with ceremonies presided over by Mayor Coleman Young, are of record-breaking size, according to fair officials.

The state fair runs through Labor Day, Sept. 6, at the fairground in Detroit.

Van Buren Gives Nod For Animal Shelter Bids

By DENNIS COGSWELL
Paw Paw Bureau

PAW PAW — The county building authority was given the green light by the Van Buren board of commissioners last night to take bids for a new county animal shelter.

The 3,471 square foot facility is expected to cost about $80,000 and could be built by the beginning of next year, according to Ivan Stein of South Haven, building authority chairman. It will be located at the southern edge of the county fairgrounds, which are at the corner of CR-681 and Red Arrow highway between Hartford and Lawrence.

GRADUATE: Patricia Guhl, Niles, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Guhl, Buchanan, received a master's degree in elementary education last week during commencement exercises at Western Michigan university, Kalamazoo. She is teacher with Brandywine school district.

Stein said the facility will be of cement block construction and will be able to accommodate up to 70 dogs at a time. The building includes 18 kennels, a garage, office, and oil burning incinerator for disposal of dead animals.

In other areas, commissioners officialy put an $825,000 bond issue and 1.2 mill property tax levy for a countywide solid waste system on the Nov. 2 ballot.

The $825,000 bond issue would be used to acquire, construct and equip sites for a central landfill and 10 transfer stations. Paul Kaiser, county highway engineer-manager, estimated it would require a levy of three-tenths of a mill to pay off the issue over a 16-year period.

The 1.2 mill levy would run for a period of 20 years and would be used to operate and maintain the system. Kaiser estimated it would generate about $300,000 in the first year.

Kaiser said it was possible that all or part of the cost of acquiring and equipping the landfill sites might be reimbursed through the new federal Public Works Employment Act. Some $340 million for public works projects is expected to be funneled into the state through the act.

Board Chairman Walter Stickels of Bangor said the board must soon decide its priorities if funds do become available, noting that in addition to the solid waste system, the dog pound must be paid off, and something done to alleviate crowding at the county jail.

Commissioner Donald Hanson of Decatur reported that the state has approved plan designs for the Sauk Trails Resource, Conservation, and Development area (R,C,&D). The plan includes Cass, Berrien, and Van Buren counties, and focuses on the areas of soil conservation and recreational development.

Hanson said final plans must still be approved by the federal government. He listed the following projects as possibilities for development in the county next year:

— Erosion control on county roads.

— Improvements on the Covert township park.

— Erosion control on Brush creek in Lawrence.

— Erosion control and land drainage for Central and Maple Grove schools in South Haven.

— A cleanout of Ismond pond in Paw Paw to serve as a sediment pool for Maple lake and the Paw Paw river.

Commissioners also approved adding programs for the aging under the coordination of an area Human Resources commission in conjunction with Cass and Berrien counties. The commission currently coordinates substance abuse programs in the three counties.

Stickels received the board's permission to begin working on the mechanics of setting up a committee to prepare a plan for economic development in the county. He said the plan will be tied to an overall study being done by the Southwestern Michigan Regional Planning commission.

The chairman also assigned the board's administrative affairs committee to come up with an affirmative action plan for the future hiring of minorities.

Commissioners denied a request by the union which represents county road commissin workers for a meeting with the board. In a letter, the union said it was concerned about a story in the July 27 issue of The Herald-Palladium which mentioned that commissioners had met in private to discuss complaints about work being done by road commission employes.

Stickels said the meeting only concerned the job performance of a road commission supervisor, and that the workers had apparently gotten the wrong impression from the article. He said he did not feel a meeting with them was necessary.

The board also authorized Prosecutor Ward S. Hamlin to hire an assistant prosecutor at such time as he felt it was necessary; and awarded a $1,400 contract to George Miller, Gobles, for repairs on the the county jail roof.

Stickels replied doctors are looking for situations where they can work more-or-less an eight hour day, and that the county has lost some physicians because of constant pressures in practices in the smaller towns.

"Dr. (James) Davis (head of the county health department) has said he knew he could get seven doctors in immediately in a clinical situation," Stickels said.

Commissioner Edwin Twitchell added that there are now only 11 physicians in the county to care for over 60,000 people. He said that while rising malpractice insurance rates have accounted for some doctors leaving, many others have gone to larger communities because of better facilities.

The resolution authorizing further study passed by an 8-1 Vote, with Fritz dissenting and commissioners Stickels, Twitchell, Rendel, James Wellington, Ronald DeCook, Donald Hanson, Boyd Estes, and Mrs. Shirley Jackson in favor.

Lottery Winner Giving Someone Else A Chance

By LARRY MacINTYRE
Staff Writer

Mrs. Elmeda Keeter of Stevensville says she has stopped buying Michigan lottery tickets.

It's not because she's tired of losing, but rather because she wants to give someone else a chance to win.

Mrs. Keeter won $10,000 in June with an instant lottery ticket, and just last week she was assured of winning at least another $10,000 with a shot at $1 million.

She and 49 others were finalists in an Aug. 20 drawing of losing tickets from the now-ended Michigan Landmarks game.

MRS. HARRIETT MICHAEL
Chance for $1 million

The finalists are to compete in the Million Dollar Grand Drawing in Saginaw Sept. 9.

Another Berrien county resident, Mrs. Max (Harriett) Michael, 60, Eau Claire, will also be competing for the big money in that drawing.

All the finalists will get a minimum of $10,000. Ten will collect $25,000 each; two will win $50,000; and one will win the $1 million top prize.

To apply to be a finalist, people had to send in three tickets from the landmarks game. There were over five million entries. A person could enter as many tickets as he wished.

Mrs. Keeter, 63, of 3017 Johnson road, said she does not remember how many losing tickets she mailed in, but she figures it must have been "just enough."

She said she only bought a few instant tickets each week. "I never kept track of it because I never thought I'd win," she said.

A life-long resident of Lincoln township and Stevensville, Mrs. Keeter recently retired as a data processor for the Whirlpool Corp. Her husband Gustav died a year ago and she has no children.

MRS. ELMEDA KEETER
Two-time winner

All she has decided on so far is that she will visit her sister in Arizona after Sept. 9.

Berrien county's other hopeful in the millionaire drawing, Mrs. Michael, said she and her husband are planning to buy a fancy recreational vehicle with their winnings.

She said they have had a longstanding urge to travel around the country, but until now have been unable to afford a recreational vehicle or motor home.

Mrs. Michael and her husband Max both work at the Jeno's fruit processing plant in Sodus. The couple lives on route 2, Preston road, Eau Claire, and they have a grown son.

Mrs. Michael said that until now, she had won just $2 from instant lottery tickets.

"I finally quit buying the stupid things," she said.

Nonetheless, she wisely mailed in her losing tickets for a second chance.

INTOLERABLE

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

California officials, after being told that conditions are intolerable at the Detroit House of Corrections, have released a 20-year-old woman escapee rather than return her to Michigan. The woman, Daneen Ann Weaver of Sturgis, was released after a two-hour hearing where conditions at Dehoco were described as "intolerable."

Firm Hired For 3-County Study Of Water Quality

CASSOPOLIS — The Southwestern Michigan Regional Planning commission (SWMRPC) yesterday hired a South Bend, Ind., engineering consultant firm to conduct a study of water quality in the Berrien, Cass and Van Buren county area.

Thomas Byers, planning director, reported the SWMRPC voted to hire Lawson-Fisher Associates of South Bend as the prime contractor for the study.

The two-year study would enable communities in the three counties to qualify for federal grants under the Water Pollution Control act which provides funds for sewage systems and related items.

Byers said Lawson-Fisher will receive about $80,000 for work on the study. Total funding for the study is $143,440, according to Byers, with $107,580 coming from the federal Environmental Protection Agency and $35,860 coming as a match from SWMRPC.

Byers said the study would review use of land along waterways in the three counties and make recommendations on the way the land should be developed.

The SWMRPC also reviewed and approved requests from eight governmental units for more than $3.3 million in federal grants.

The planning commission approved a request by Berrien County Action, Inc., to apply for $172,975 from the federal Community Services Administration for administration costs of the agency.

Other grant applications approved by the planning commmission were:

— Region Four Area Agency on Aging, $243,086 grant from the federal Department of Health, Education and Welfare to fund the Southwestern Michigan Regional Commission on Aging program plan for 1976-1977.

— Van Buren county road commission, $34,420 grant from the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency to develop a wastewater treatment facilities plan for the Mattawan area.

— Vocational Rehabilitation Service, for $33,000 in Berrien county, Comprehensive Employment Training Act (CETA) funds through the state labor department to fund counseling and training.

— Twin Cities Area Transportation Authority, $73,000 grant from the Urban Mass Transit Administration, to replace six old buses for the St. Joseph and Benton Harbor Dial-A-Ride service.

— City of Dowagiac, for a $51,000 grant from the Federal Highway administration for a bicycle trail from Rotary park in Dowagiac to Southwestern Michigan College.

The regional planning commission also approved grant requests by the Michigan Department of State Highways and Transportation for road repairs in southwestern Michigan. The funding agency would be the Federal Highway administration.

Grants for construction projects were approved for:

— A program to purchase and remove billboards not in compliance with state and federal laws, $1.6 million.

— Reconstruction of bridges located at the intersection of M-51 and I-94 in Van Buren county and the I-94 bridge intersected by US-12 and the Penn Central railroad in Berrien county, for $360,000.

— Replacement of inadequate bridge on Bundy road, northwest of Coloma, for $209,000.

— Improve Cleveland avenue from the state line north to the Village of Galien, for $426,880.

— To conduct a study on public transit needs in the area, $35,000.

—To inventory and survey the number of junkyards on new primary roads and to provide preliminary engineering and right-of-way studies to deal with needed beautification programs, for $240,000.

— A grant to pay the final costs of a Twin-CATS (Twin Cities Area Transportation Study) to survey needs for auto traffic and transit improvements, $12,080.

Final approval of the grants is up to the agencies asked to provide the funds.

A Logical Choice

DETROIT (AP) — A trio of parade marshals will lead the two-hour Michigan State Fair opening march through downtown Detroit Thursday: area television weather-people Sonny Eliot, Marilyn Turner and Jerry Hodak.

The choice was a logical one. Last year's fair was deluged with rain for nine of its 11 days. Rain or no, thousands of viewers are expected to be on hand to watch 4,300 marchers, floats, musicians and floats make their way down Woodward Avenue from the Fisher Freeway to Kennedy Square, starting at 11 a.m. Included will be Britain's colorful First Footguards Grenadier Company; the Marching Harmonica Band; the all-woman, award-winning Praesidium Drum and Bugle Corps; and the mounted Oakland County Sheriff's Posse. Both the parade and the fair itself, which official opens Friday morning with ceremonies presided over by Mayor Coleman Young, are of record-breaking size, according to fair officials.

The state fair runs through Labor Day, Sept. 6, at the fairground in Detroit.

Van Buren Gives Nod For Animal Shelter Bids

By DENNIS COGSWELL
Paw Paw Bureau

PAW PAW — The county building authority was given the green light by the Van Buren board of commissioners last night to take bids for a new county animal shelter.

The 3,471 square foot facility is expected to cost about $80,000 and could be built by the beginning of next year, according to Ivan Stein of South Haven, building authority chairman. It will be located at the southern edge of the county fairgrounds, which are at the corner of CR-681 and Red Arrow highway between Hartford and Lawrence.

GRADUATE: Patricia Guhl, Niles, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Guhl, Buchanan, received a master's degree in elementary education last week during commencement exercises at Western Michigan university, Kalamazoo. She is teacher with Brandywine school district

Stein said the facility will be of cement block construction and will be able to accommodate up to 70 dogs at a time. The building includes 18 kennels, a garage, office, and oil burning incinerator for disposal of dead animals.

In other areas, commissioners officialy put an $825,000 bond issue and 1.2 mill property tax levy for a countywide solid waste system on the Nov. 2 ballot.

The $825,000 bond issue would be used to acquire, construct and equip sites for a central landfill and 10 transfer stations. Paul Kaiser, county highway engineer-manager, estimated it would require a levy of three-tenths of a mill to pay off the issue over a 16-year period.

The 1.2 mill levy would run for a period of 20 years and would be used to operate and maintain the system. Kaiser estimated it would generate about $360,000 in the first year.

Kaiser said it was possible that all or part of the cost of acquiring and equipping the landfill sites might be reimbursed through the new federal Public Works Employment Act. Some $240 million for public works projects is expected to be funneled into the state through the act.

Board Chairman Walter Stickels of Bangor said the board must soon decide its priorities if funds do become available, noting that in addition to the solid waste system, the dog pound must be paid off, and something done to alleviate crowding at the county jail.

Commissioner Donald Hanson of Decatur reported that the state has approved plan designs for the Sauk Trails Resource, Conservation, and Development area (R,C,&D). The plan includes Cass, Berrien, and Van Buren counties, and focuses on the areas of soil conservation and recreational development.

Hanson said final plans must still be approved by the federal government. He listed the following projects as possibilities for development in the county next year:

— Erosion control on county roads.

— Improvements on the Covert township park.

— Erosion control on Brush creek in Lawrence.

— Erosion control and land drainage for Central and Maple Grove schools in South Haven.

— A cleanout of Ismond pond in Paw Paw to serve as a sediment pool for Maple lake and the Paw Paw river.

Commisioners also approved adding programs for the aging under the coordination of an area Human Resources commission in conjunction with Cass and Berrien counties. The commission currently coordinates substance abuse programs in the three counties.

Stickels received the board's permission to begin working on the mechanics of setting up a committee to prepare a plan for economic development in the county. He said the plan will be tied to an overall study being done by the Southwestern Michigan Regional Planning commission.

The chairman also assigned the board's administrative affairs committee to come up with an affirmative action plan for the future hiring of minorities.

Commissioners denied a request by the union which represents county road commission workers for a meeting with the board. In a letter, the union said it was concerned about a story in the July 27 issue of The Herald-Palladium which mentioned that commissioners had met in private to discuss complaints about work being done by road commission employes.

Stickels said the meeting only concerned the job performance of a road commission supervisor, and that the workers had apparently gotten the wrong impression from the article. He said he did not feel a meeting with them was necessary.

The board also authorized Prosecutor Ward S. Hamlin to hire an assistant prosecutor at such time as he felt it was necessary; and awarded a $1,400 contract to George Miller, Gobles, for repairs on the the county jail roof.

Four Area People Earn WMU Doctoral Degrees

KALAMAZOO — Four southwestern Michigan people were among 25 Western Michigan university students who received their doctoral degrees in recent commencement ceremonies.

Included was Mrs. George (Florence) Taber, 2127 Bonnie drive, Stevensville, the first to receive the doctor of education degree in special education ever awarded by the university, according to a university spokesman.

Mrs. Taber is on the faculty of Nazareth college in Kalamazoo and is a graduate of Eastern Michigan university. She previously received her master's degree at Western.

Other area people who received their doctoral degrees were J. Phillip McLaren of Decatur; Randall D. Bos of Gobles; and Linda Vingelen of St. Joseph.

Bos, 30, is elementary school principal at Gobles, a position he has held since 1972. He received his doctorate in educational leadership. He previously received his bachelor's and master's degrees from Western.

Mrs. Allan (Linda) Vingelen, 34, 2821 Thayer drive, St. Joseph, received her doctorate in education. A graduate of the University of North Dakota, she earned her master's degree from the University of Oregon. She has been a reading consultant at St. Joseph schools since 1971.

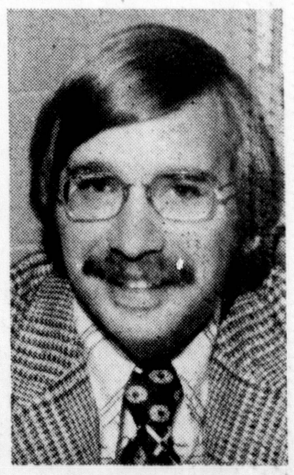

McLaren, 35, received his doctor's degree in science education. He has lived in Decatur for the past 10 years while teaching natural science at Bethel college in Mishawaka, Ind. He moved over the weekend to Quincy, Mass., where he has accepted appointment as associate professor of marine biology at Eastern Nazarene college.

ALTIE TAYLOR
Mentally Exhausted

Embarrassed Lions Stop Taylor Swap

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — The Detroit Lions postponed a trade involving their fullback Altie Taylor Tuesday after the Lions' embarrassed top brass discovered Taylor was hospitalized in a psychiatric unit suffering "from mental exhaustion."

The word of Taylor's illness following his trade to the Houston Oilers forced Lions General Manager Russ Thomas to declare, "The deal is off if they want it off. We simply didn't know about Altie when the trade was made."

In other developments occuring as the Lions near the end of a dismal 1-4 exhibition season:

—Veteran quarterback Bill Munson announced he wanted to be traded.

—Joe Reed was declared the club's No. 1 quarterback, at least for the time being.

—Detroit Radio station WJR said at least two other players have asked to be traded, including star defensive tackle Herb Orvis. The other was unnamed.

General Manager Thomas said, "There's no crisis ... it's just like any other season ... players always ask to be traded."

Dr. Erwin R. Guise, the Lions team physician, said Taylor admitted himself to the hospital on Monday and asked for help.

"He is very tired and just worn out," Guise said. "But he slept well last night, which is a good sign."

Taylor, the Lions' all-time leading ground gainer with 4,297 yards, reportedly has been unhappy with the Lions for at least the past year. He is the second Lion in three years to admit himself to psychiatric care in the midst of the training season. The other was cornerback Lem Barney in 1974. Barney returned strongly last year.

Munson, 35, had been in a three-way battle for the starting spot, but on Tuesday, Coach Rick Forzano named Reed as the top signal-caller.

Munson skipped practice, told Thomas he wanted to be traded and was later unavailable for comment.

Thomas said he was already talking to other clubs concerning Munson. Thomas said Reed will probably start the Sept 12 opener, "but it's up to him to keep it."

Owens announced his retirement and the ex-Oklahoma star who has been plagued by injuries said he couldn't stand sitting on the sidelines.

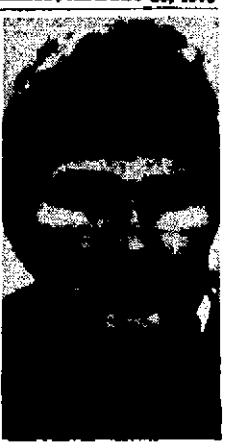

"On a physical basis, I've always said if I can't play like I think Steve Owens ought to play, I'd get out ... it's come to that point."

Owens had knee problems earlier in his career, but has been hurting lately from a pulled hip muscle.

He spent last season recovering from surgery to correct ligament and cartilege damage.

In his second year with the Lions, he ran for 1,035 yards and was the only man in Lion history to pass the 1,000 mark. During his five-year National Football League career, he totaled 2,451 rushing yards and scored 22 touchdowns in 53 games.

Oakland Cuts 'Old Man' Blanda

'Skins Obtain Scott, Matuszak

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

The veterans are heading for Washington as usual, while the "old man" may finally be heading for home.

Washington Redskins Coach George Allen, in an attempt to repair his porous defense by importing proven talent, obtained safety Jake Scott from the Miami Dolphins and defensive end John Matuszak from the Kansas City Chiefs.

In Oakland, the Raiders reportedly placed the "old man" — 48-year-old George Blanda — on waivers as the National Football League teams, with the exception of newcomers Seattle and Tampa Bay, whittled their rosters to 49 players by midnight Tuesday.

Blanda, who joined the NFL in 1948 with the Chicago Bears as the third-string quarterback behind Sid Luckman and Johnny Lujack, has been sitting on the sidelines this preseason watching rookie Fred Steinfort take over the Raiders' kicking chores.

"I don't care for being here as an insurance policy in case the other kicker can't cut it," said Blanda on Monday, speculating that he would be released. "It's been frustrating and discouraging for me after all the years I've helped this team."

After scoring 2,002 points in 340 games over 26 years, Blanda said it was unlikely any other team would be interested in him. They'd have to "be nuts," he said.

Known for his preference of building teams with veterans, Allen obtained Scott and a high draft choice for defensive back Bryant Salter. Then he sent two draft choices — Allen's favorite trading currency — to Kansas City for Matuszak, a 6-foot-8, 275-pounder who was the first player chosen in the NFL's 1973 college draft.

The Redskins' defense, Allen's pride, has given up 80 points as Washington has lost three of its four preseason games.

Miami, besides sending Scott to the "Over-the-Hill Gang" in Washington, shuffled running back Mercury Morris off to the San Diego Chargers for an undisclosed draft pick. Both Scott and Morris had asked to be traded.

Dolphins Coach Don Shula said Tuesday a tentative agreement has been made to bring veteran Nick Buoniconti out of retirement to shore up Miami's injury-plagued linebacking corps.

Also on the busiest auction day of the season so far, Detroit sent running back Altie Taylor to the Houston Oilers for two undisclosed draft choices; Houston picked up running back Joe Dawkins and offensive tackle Dave Simonson from the New York Giants; the Dallas Cowboys sent wide receiver Cornelius Greene to Seattle, and the Los Rams traded center Ron Keeman and cornerback Gregg Butler to the Philadelphia Eagles.

For the 26 established teams, the midnight roster limit was 49 players plus late-reporters from the College All-Star Game. For Tampa Bay and Seattle, the expansion entries, the limit remained at 80 plus All-Stars.

The trim-down date sent many "name" players into the ranks of the unemployed, though injury-troubled Detroit running back Steve Owens sent himself there by announcing his retirement.

Houston cut defensive end Bubba Smith. Washington released running back Moses Denson, linebacker Lonnie Warwick, safety Spencer Davis, defensive end Len Burnham and quarterback Pat Sullivan, a former Heismann Trophy winner.

The Philadelphia Eagles placed fullback Tony Baker, tackle Rich Glover and kicker-wide receiver David Ray on waivers, and five players, including cornerback Mel Shy, guard John Niland and defensive Kermit Alexander, on the injured reserved list.

The New England Patriots waived seven players, including veterans linebacker Maury Damkroger, defensive lineman Marty Imhoff and running back Leon Crosswhite, while the New York Jets released five players, including Greg Gantt, the worst punter in the American Conference last season.

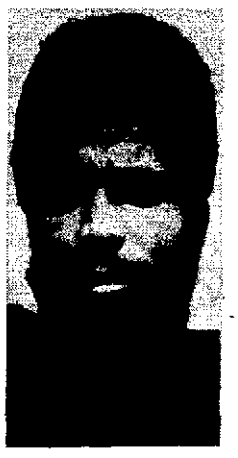

San Diego lost rookie running back Joe Washington, who will undergo surgery for torn knee cartilage. The Chargers' No. 1 draft pick, the former Oklahoma star is expected to be out eight weeks.

MSU's Marshall Switches To End

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Mike Marshall, the highly touted freshman quarterback from Detroit Southwestern, has taken himself out of the fight to be Michigan State's No. 1 signal caller — at least this fall.

Marshall has asked for and received a chance to win a spot as a receiver as the Spartans begin fall drills. He already is running pass routes instead of throwing the ball himself.

"He came to us Sunday night and asked if he could try out at receiver," said MSU coach Darryl Rogers. "He's a great athlete and we were more than willing to give him a shot."

Marshall, a prep All-American, was strongly recruited and MSU hailed him as a possible star at quarterback — a weak spot for the Spartans since Charlie Baggett's three-year grip on the position has expired.

But the 6-foot-3, 190-pound Marshall evidently saw too many other quarterbacks ahead of him, at least in his freshman year.

"My main goal is to play as soon as possible and I see that we have seven quarterbacks right now, and only two of them are going to play very much," he said.

"I came to Michigan State very open-minded," he said. "I like playing quarterback, but I also was a wide receiver and a defensive back in high school.

"Eventually, I would like to move back to quarterback, but we'll just have to wait and see how things go. Personally, I like catching the ball as much as I do passing it."

"It's still way too early to tell, but he has a lot of rare ability and can catch the ball," said receiver coach Ray Greene.

Meanwhile, the Spartans also have moved Ted Bell again — back to tailback. The former high school All-American from Ohio was switched to defensive back last spring after a series of knee injuries and two operations.

"We know that Ted was a great halfback at one time, and we've never seen him at that position," Rogers said. "We can use a little help at that position, and if it doesn't work out, we can always move Ted back."

Bell, a junior, saw his first varsity action last fall when he started against Ohio State after sitting out a year with a knee injury — but immediately suffered an ankle injury which kept him sidelined most of the year.

The Spartans began their two-a-day sessions on an old grass football practice field near the stadium, instead of on the AstroTurf floor of the stadium itself. Rogers said it was "cooler and softer," provided more room and won't hurt the team when it switches to artificial surfaces.

WAITING OVER: George Blanda, shown here last Saturday night waiting for a chance to play against the Los Angeles Rams, was put on waivers Tuesday by the Oakland Raiders. Boos Get To Alston

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Walt Alston has been managing the Los Angeles Dodgers for 23 years and it's taken the boo birds that long to get to him. But they've finally succeeded.

The local newspapers and radio talk shows have been swamped recently with letters and calls sharply criticizing Alston, who began his career at the Dodger helm in 1954 when the team was in Brooklyn.

The fans are frustrated.

They expected a pennant this year — or at the very least, a club that would be in contention all the way.

Instead, the Dodgers are nine games back of Cincinnati in the National League West and their fans, who've turned out 2 million strong — the largest attendance in the majors — are crying for Alston's scalp.

On Sunday, an uncharacteristically irate Alston got into a shouting match with a local sports editor who had written a column calling for the end of Alston's reign. Alston called the writer an "overstuffed pig." But Tuesday, Alston telephoned the writer and apologized.

"It was overblown," he said of the incident. "But I called the guy and said I was sorry because I realize I have no right to make personal comments about him. I told him he has a right to his opinions and I have a right to mine.

"The only thing is, he can write his in the newspapers and I don't get much chance to make mine heard. Another thing I don't like is guys who come out to the ballpark three or four times a year trying to take my job away."

Ali Bucking WBC Edict

SHOW LOW, Ariz. (AP) — World champion Muhammad Ali says he's ignoring a World Boxing Council edict on when he must fight George Foreman.

The WBC recently said that if Ali wins his Sept. 28 heavyweight title bout in New York with Ken Norton, he must fight Foreman within 90 days or face loss of his crown.

"I'm going to buck them," Ali said Monday in this northeastern Arizona community where he's training for the Norton fight. "I'm going to punish them. I don't need no title. I'm above the title. The name Muhammad Ali don't need no title no more."

Bo Shows Same Enthusiasm

'M' Coach Going Strong Following Surgery

BACK FROM HEART SURGERY: University of Michigan head football coach Bo Schembechler was all smiles at Michigan's picture day recently in Ann Arbor. Schembechler, who underwent open heart surgery for 8½ hours last May 13, is gearing up for another Big Ten season as if nothing happened. (AP Wirephoto)

Open heart surgery the University of Michigan head football coach underwent last May 13 hasn't ended his successful career. And he doesn't expect it will have much effect on it, except to alter busy postseason recruiting work — for which he never cared much anyway.

Schembechler (SHEM-beckler) is gearing for another Big Ten season as if nothing happened. That should mean trouble for opponents.

"I don't think it'll have any effect at all," he said, when asked if his surgery might change his tenacious coaching techniques that have produced a 86-8-3 record in his seven years with the Wolverines.

Michigan is the only team in the nation which has finished in the top 10 every year since 1969, Schembechler's first at the school.

"The only restrictions on me may be after the season in terms of how much time I can spend on the road recruiting," he said. "I figure after the season doctors will tell me to take it easy on recruiting. Actually, that's tougher than the season, being on the road so much and staying up late."

Assistant coach Gary Moeller handled the Wolverines in spring practice. Schembechler was discharged from the hospital June 2 and it wasn't much later that he was back to work.

"I felt that without surgery I'd have been all right," he said. "But since I've had it I feel so much better I didn't realize how bad I really felt. I feel 10 times better going into this season than the 1970 season after I was coming back from a heart attack."

Schembechler is a realist. While he sees "strong challenges" from Michigan State, Minnesota, Purdue and Illinois, he expects the conference race to — as usual — be a battle between Michigan and Ohio State, which has gone to the Rose Bowl four consecutive years.

"Until proven otherwise, you have to go that route," he said.

Michigan, 8-2-2 last season, was runnerup to the Buckeyes in the Big Ten and lost to No. 1-ranked Oklahoma, 14-6, in the Orange Bowl.

There weren't many seniors on last year's squad, probably the purest team Schembechler has had at Michigan. With so many underclassmen back — experienced underclassmen — the Wolverines should be championship-tough at nearly every position.

"We expect to have a good team, but the basic problem at the end of spring practice is we didn't come up with a first-string middle guard," Schembechler said. "We have to have a great one in there. And we have to find a couple backup defensive tackles."

Sophomore Rick Leach begins his second year at quarterback, but a replacement for departed backup Mark Elzinga needs to be found.

Among Michigan's top players, a couple of whom could be All-American caliber, are: wingback Jim Smith, guard Kirk Lewis, tailbacks Bob Lytle and Harlan Huckleby, linebacker Calvin O'Neal, defensive end-punter John Anderson and defensive tackle Bo Morton.

Leading newcomers include tailback Roosevelt Smith, linebacker Ron Simpkins and safety Gene Bell.

Mentally Exhausted

Embarrassed Lions Stop Taylor Swap

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — The Detroit Lions postponed a trade involving their fullback Altie Taylor Tuesday after the Lions' embarrassed top brass discovered Taylor was hospitalized in a psychiatric unit suffering "from mental exhaustion."

The word of Taylor's illness following his trade to the Houston Oilers forced Lions General Manager Russ Thomas to declare, "The deal is off if they want it off. We simply didn't know about Altie when the trade was made."

In other developments occuring as the Lions near the end of a dismal 1-4 exhibition season:

—Veteran quarterback Bill Munson announced he wanted to be traded.

—Joe Reed was declared the club's No. 1 quarterback, at least for the time being.

—Detroit Radio station WJR said at least two other players have asked to be traded, including star defensive tackle Herb Orvis. The other was unnamed.

General Manager Thomas said, "There's no crisis ... it's just like any other season ... players always ask to be traded."

Dr. Edwin R. Guise, the Lions team physician, said Taylor admitted himself to the hospital on Monday and asked for help.

"He is very tired and just worn out," Guise said. "But he slept well last night, which is a good sign."

Taylor, the Lions' all-time leading ground gainer with 4,297 yards, reportedly has been unhappy with the Lions for at least the past year. He is the second Lion in three years to admit himself to psychiatric care in the midst of the training season. The other was cornerback Lem Barney in 1974. Barney returned strongly last year.

Munson, 35, had been in a three-way battle for the starting spot, but on Tuesday, Coach Rick Forzano named Reed as the top signal-caller.

Munson skipped practice, told Thomas he wanted to be traded and was later unavailable for comment.

Thomas said he was already talking to other clubs concerning Munson. Thomas said Reed will probably start the Sept 12 opener, "but it's up to him to keep it."

Owens announced his retirement and the ex-Oklahoma star who has been plagued by injuries said he couldn't stand sitting on the sidelines.

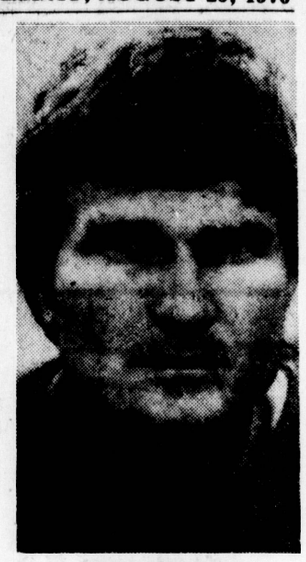

"On a physical basis, I've always said if I can't play like I think Steve Owens ought to play, I'd get out ... it's come to that point."

Owens had knee problems earlier in his career, but has been hurting lately from a pulled hip muscle.

He spent last season recovering from surgery to correct ligament and cartilege damage.

In his second year with the Lions, he ran for 1,035 yards and was the only man in Lion history to pass the 1,000 mark. During his five-year National Football League career, he totaled 2,451 rushing yards and scored 22 touchdowns in 53 games.

Oakland Cuts 'Old Man' Blanda

'Skins Obtain Scott, Matuszak

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

The veterans are heading for Washington as usual, while the "old man" may finally be heading for home.

Washington Redskins Coach George Allen, in an attempt to repair his porous defense by importing proven talent, obtained safety Jake Scott from the Miami Dolphins and defensive end John Matuszak from the Kansas City Chiefs.

In Oakland, the Raiders reportedly placed the "old man" — 48-year-old George Blanda — on waivers as the National Football League teams, with the exception of newcomers Seattle and Tampa Bay, whittled their rosters to 49 players by midnight Tuesday.

Blanda, who joined the NFL in 1948 with the Chicago Bears as the third-string quarterback behind Sid Luckman and Johnny Lujack, has been sitting on the sidelines this preseason watching rookie Fred Steinfort take over the Raiders' kicking chores.

"I don't care for being here as an insurance policy in case the other kicker can't cut it," said Blanda on Monday, speculating that he would be released. "It's been frustrating and discouraging for me after all the years I've helped this team."

After scoring 2,002 points in 340 games over 26 years, Blanda said it was unlikely any other team would be interested in him. They'd have to "be nuts," he said.

Known for his preference of building teams with veterans, Allen obtained Scott and a high draft choice for defensive back Bryant Salter. Then he sent two draft choices — Allen's favorite trading currency — to Kansas City for Matuszak, a 6-foot-8, 275-pounder who was the first player chosen in the NFL's 1973 college draft.

The Redskins' defense, Allen's pride, has given up 80 points as Washington has lost three of its four preseason games.

Miami, besides sending Scott to the "Over-the-Hill Gang" in Washington, shuffled running back Mercury Morris off to the San Diego Chargers for an undisclosed draft pick. Both Scott and Morris had asked to be traded.

Dolphins Coach Don Shula said Tuesday a tentative agreement has been made to bring veteran Nick Buoniconti out of retirement to shore up Miami's injury-plagued linebacking corps.

Also on the busiest auction day of the season so far, Detroit sent running back Altie Taylor to the Houston Oilers for two undisclosed draft choices; Houston picked up running back Joe Dawkins and offensive tackle Dave Simonson from the New York Giants; the Dallas Cowboys sent wide receiver Cornelius Greene to Seattle, and the Los Rams traded center Ron Kecman and cornerback Gregg Butler to the Philadelphia Eagles.

For the 26 established teams, the midnight roster limit was 49 players plus late-reporters from the College All-Star Game. For Tampa Bay and Seattle, the expansion entries, the limit remained at 60 plus All-Stars.

The trim-down date sent many "name" players into the ranks of the unemployed, though injury-troubled Detroit running back Steve Owens sent himself there by announcing his retirement.

Houston cut defensive end Bubba Smith. Washington released running back Moses Denson, linebacker Lonnie Warwick, safety Spencer Davis, defensive end Len Burnham and quarterback Pat Sullivan, a former Heismann Trophy winner.

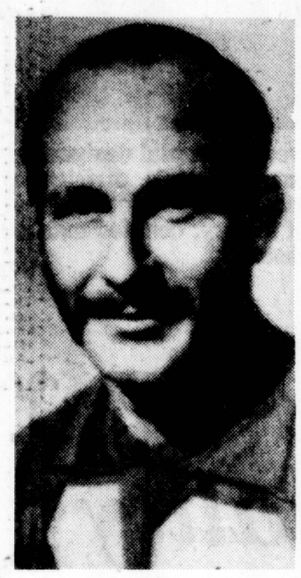

The Philadelphia Eagles placed fullback Tony Baker, tackle Rich Glover and kicker-wide receiver David Ray on waivers, and five players, including cornerback Mel Shy, guard John Niland and defensive Kermit Alexander, on the injured reserved list.

The New England Patriots waived seven players, including veterans linebacker Maury Damkroger, defensive lineman Marty Imhoff and running back Leon Crosswhite, while the New York Jets released five players, including Greg Gantt, the worst punter in the American Conference last season.

San Diego lost rookie running back Joe Washington, who will undergo surgery for torn knee cartilage. The Chargers' No. 1 draft pick, the former Oklahoma star is expected to be out eight weeks.

MSU's Marshall Switches To End

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Mike Marshall, the highly touted freshman quarterback from Detroit Southwestern, has taken himself out of the fight to be Michigan State's No. 1 signal caller — at least this fall.

Marshall has asked for and received a chance to win a spot as a receiver as the Spartans begin fall drills. He already is running pass routes instead of throwing the ball himself.

"He came to us Sunday night and asked if he could try out at receiver," said MSU coach Darryl Rogers. "He's a great athlete and we were more than willing to give him a shot."

Marshall, a prep All-American, was strongly recruited and MSU hailed him as a possible star at quarterback — a weak spot for the Spartans since Charlie Baggett's three-year grip on the position has expired.

But the 6-foot-3, 190-pound Marshall evidently saw too many other quarterbacks ahead of him, at least in his freshman year.

"My main goal is to play as soon as possible and I see that we have seven quarterbacks right now, and only two of them are going to play very much," he said.

"I came to Michigan State very open-minded," he said. "I like playing quarterback, but I also was a wide receiver and a defensive back in high school.

"Eventually, I would like to move back to quarterback, but we'll just have to wait and see how things go. Personally, I like catching the ball as much as I do passing it."

"It's still way too early to tell, but he has a lot of rare ability and can catch the ball," said receiver coach Ray Greene.

Meanwhile, the Spartans also have moved Ted Bell again — back to tailback. The former high school All-American from Ohio was switched to defensive back last spring after a series of knee injuries and two operations.

"We know that Ted was a great halfback at one time, and we've never seen him at that position," Rogers said. "We can use a little help at that position, and if it doesn't work out, we can always move Ted back."

Bell, a junior, saw his first varsity action last fall when he started against Ohio State after sitting out a year with a knee injury — but immediately suffered an ankle injury which kept him sidelined most of the year.

The Spartans began their two-a-day sessions on an old grass football practice field near the stadium, instead of on the AstroTurf floor of the stadium itself. Rogers said it was "cooler and softer," provided more room and won't hurt the team when it switches to artificial surfaces.

Boos Get To Alston

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Walt Alston has been managing the Los Angeles Dodgers for 23 years and it's taken the boo birds that long to get to him. But they've finally succeeded.

The local newspapers and radio talk shows have been swamped recently with letters and calls sharply criticizing Alston, who began his career at the Dodger helm in 1954 when the team was in Brooklyn.

The fans are frustrated.

They expected a pennant this year — or at the very least, a club that would be in contention all the way.

Instead, the Dodgers are nine games back of Cincinnati in the National League West and their fans, who've turned out 2 million strong — the largest attendance in the majors — are crying for Alston's scalp.

On Sunday, an uncharacteristically irate Alston got into a shouting match with a local sports editor who had written a column calling for the end of Alston's reign. Alston called the writer an "overstuffed pig." But Tuesday, Alston telephoned the writer and apologized.

"It was overblown," he said of the incident. "But I called the guy and said I was sorry because I realize I have no right to make personal comments about him. I told him he has a right to his opinions and I have a right to mine.

"The only thing is, he can write his in the newspapers and I don't get much chance to make mine heard. Another thing I don't like is guys who come out to the ballpark three or four times a year trying to take my job away."

Ali Bucking WBC Edict

SHOW LOW, Ariz. (AP) — World champion Muhammad Ali says he's ignoring a World Boxing Council edict on when he must fight George Foreman.

The WBC recently said that if Ali wins his Sept. 28 heavyweight title bout in New York with Ken Norton, he must fight Foreman within 90 days or face loss of his crown.

"I'm going to buck them," Ali said Monday in this northeastern Arizona community where he's training for the Norton fight. "I'm going to punish them. I don't need no title. I'm above the title. The name Muhammad Ali don't need no title no more."

'M' Coach Going Strong Following Surgery

BACK FROM HEART SURGERY: University of Michigan head football coach Bo Schembechler was all smiles at Michigan's picture day recently in Ann Arbor. Schembechler, who underwent open heart surgery for 6½ hours last May 13, is gearing up for another Big Ten season as if nothing happened. (AP Wirephoto)

Open heart surgery the University of Michigan head football coach underwent last May 13 hasn't ended his successful career. And he doesn't expect it will have much effect on it, except to alter busy postseason recruiting work — for which he never cared much anyway.

Schembechler (SHEMbecklur) is gearing for another Big Ten season as if nothing happened. That should mean trouble for opponents.

"I don't think it'll have any effect at all," he said, when asked if his surgery might change his tenacious coaching techniques that have produced a 66-9-3 record in his seven years with the Wolverines.

Michigan is the only team in the nation which has finished in the top 10 every year since 1969, Schembechler's first at the school.

"The only restrictions on me may be after the season in terms of how much time I can spend on the road recruiting," he said. "I figure after the season doctors will tell me to take it easy on recruiting. Actually, that's tougher than the season, being on the road so much and staying up late."

Assistant coach Gary Moeller handled the Wolverines in spring practice. Schembechler was discharged from the hospital June 2 and it wasn't much later that he was back to work.

"I felt that without surgery I'd have been all right," he said. "But since I've had it I feel so much better I didn't realize how bad I really felt. I feel 10 times better going into this season than the 1970 season after I was coming back from a heart attack."

Schembechler is a realist. While he sees "strong challenges" from Michigan State, Minnesota, Purdue and Illinois, he expects the conference race to — as usual — be a battle between Michigan and Ohio State, which has gone to the Rose Bowl four consecutive years.

"Until proven otherwise, you have to go that route," he said.

Michigan, 8-2-2 last season, was runnerup to the Buckeyes in the Big Ten and lost to No. 1-ranked Oklahoma, 14-6, in the Orange Bowl.

There weren't many seniors on last year's squad, probably the poorest team Schembechler has had at Michigan. With so many underclassmen back — experienced underclassmen — the Wolverines should be championship-tough at nearly every position.

"We expect to have a good team, but the basic problem at the end of spring practice is we didn't come up with a first-string middle guard," Schembechler said. "We have to have a great one in there. And we have to find a couple backup defensive tackles."

Sophomore Rick Leach begins his second year at quarterback, but a replacement for departed backup Mark Elzinga needs to be found.

Among Michigan's top players, a couple of whom could be All-American caliber, are: wingback Jim Smith, guard Kirk Lewis, tailbacks Rob Lytle and Harlan Huckleby, linebacker Calvin O'Neal, defensive end-punter John Anderson and defensive tackle Bo Morton.

Area Gridders Are Vying For Chip Starting Jobs

BY PAUL MORGAN
Staff Sports Writer

MT. PLEASANT — Coach Roy Kramer prides himself on the fact that every member of his Central Michigan University football team is from the state of Michigan.

And it looks like four members of the southwest part of the state are going to see lots of action when the Chippewas open their season on Sept. 11 at Perry Shorts Stadium against tough Kent State University.

Lanier (6-0, 190-pounds) might have the toughest job of the four area gridders. He is trying to crack a starting backfield which returns intact this season.

Currently, the sophomore is playing the number two upback in Central's offense behind Flint junior Mike Gray. All Gray did last season was become the team's second leading rusher with 835 yards. The Chips were led on the ground by Walt 'Smoke' Hodges, who netted 1,055 yards with an average of 5.5 yards per carry to lead the Mid-American Conference.

"Lanier had a real, fine spring practice," Kramer said. "He is good and quick and matured as a blocker. He really worked on his blocking.

"That's what we mainly worked on with him in the spring," he added. "His blocking and reading his blocks."

Lanier knows he has his work cut out for him if he wants to get in some playing time. "Gray is big and tough," he said. "I've been doing a lot of running and hitting to try and beat him out and I'm going to keep on trying."

The upback in Kramer's offense does do a lot of blocking, so Lanier will spell Gray during the season.

Last season, Lanier carried the ball just three times for 13 yards.

The other three area gridders are all playing on a young defensive squad.

Steve Smallbone (6-2, 230) is slated to start at left defensive tackle. He is just a sophomore eligibility-wide, having been redshirted last season when he separated his shoulder. "The extra spring practice helped him a lot," Kramer said.

"He had an excellent spring this season, too," he added. "Smallbone is a hard nosed, disciplined player. He is very quick and is good on the pass rush."

Steve agrees that his best asset is his speed. "I am trying to improve on my strength," he said. "But it's easier to go around than through."

"The best thing our defense has going for it is that we stayed healthy all spring. We worked together and that is the best thing we could have done."

Smallbones feels the defense really played as a unit in the spring. "Everybody is pulling each other up," he said. "When someone makes a good play, we all let him know that."

Ryan (6-1, 180) is currently running as the number two weak-side defensive back, but, that could change, as there is only one veteran returning to the defensive backfield.

What hurt the most was when he strained some ligaments in his knee at the beginning of spring and missed all the practices. The knee didn't require surgery, but it was in a cast for four weeks.

Ryan was an offensive back at St. Joseph. "But you will find that most every defensive halfback recruited was an offensive back in high school," Kramer commented.

Marty Smallbone (6-3, 240) is listed as the number three right defensive tackle. The freshman will get a lot of teaching by just watching the first-string lineman John Wunderlich play. He is the leading tackler returning with seven tackles and 53 assists last season.

"Right now I'm just working on my keys to the plays," Smallbone said. "By playing behind Wunderlich, I'm learning a lot."

"Marty is bigger but not as quick as Steve is," Kramer said. "I'm impressed with him in the early drills we've had. He has cut his weight and come in strong."

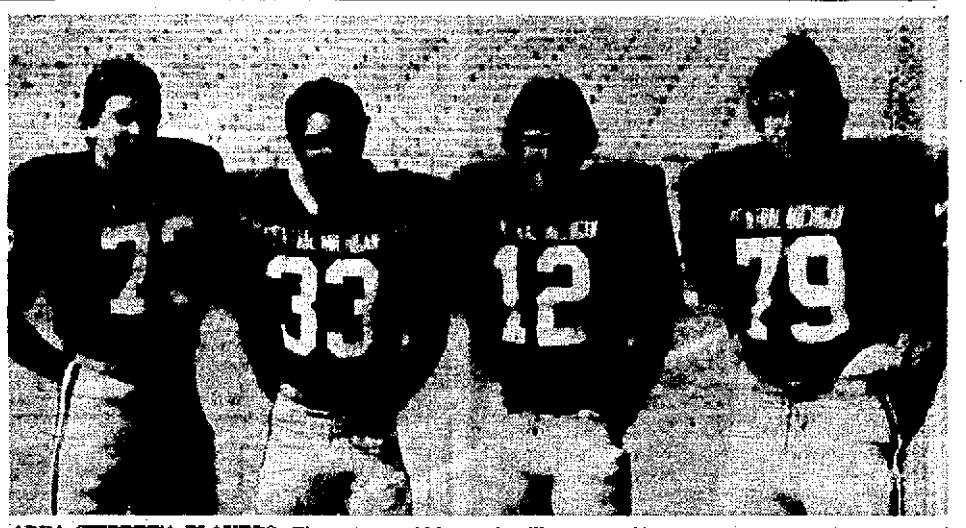

Besides Hodges and Gray, the Chips will also have back Ron Rummel, their number one quarterback. Rummel was 37 for 96 in the air for a total of 566 yards. He rushed 93 times for 439 yards which was fourth on a team which finished with an 8-2-1 overall mark and a 4-1-1 MAC record.

Mose Rison, Central's top swingback and third leading rusher with 735 yards on 128 carries, also is back.

"That's our primary strength...the offensive backfield," Kramer, a former coach at Benton Harbor and Dowagiac, indicated. "Our weaknesses are in the offensive line and defensive backfield. We will be young on defense."

Kramer looks at Miami, Bowling Green and Ball State as being tough in the conference this season. "But the strength of the MAC is in the equality of the teams," he said. "Just about anybody can pull an upset on any given Saturday."

In the media poll conducted in early August, Central was picked to finish fourth behind the trio of teams Kramer mentioned. One of the big factors Central will be fighting is its schedule. The Chips open the season playing five of six games at home and then end the campaign with five straight road games, four of them being against MAC foes.

AREA CHIPPEWA PLAYERS: These four gridders from southwestern Michigan could see plenty of action in the upcoming campaign for Central Michigan University. White Sox 'Rock' Tigers

DETROIT (AP) — His Detroit Tiger infielders were "shellshocked" and it's the fault of Tiger Stadium's "rock pile" infield, an angry Manager Ralph Houk said Tuesday night.

The Tigers were victims of six errors — four by infielders in the ninth inning when Chicago rallied for seven runs off four relief pitchers — as Detroit fell to the White Sox, 12-7.

"It was like a ... rock pile out there," Houk said. "I think we were shellshocked before the game even started. (Coach Joe) Schultz said balls were bouncing all over the place in infield practice."

"It wasn't the fault of the relief pitchers," Houk said. "The thing that lost it was the errors because of that rock infield. Anybody who could catch a ball on that tonight had to be a genius. You couldn't fault the infielders. You couldn't blame them one bit. We knew it before the game but couldn't do anything about it."

Is it a lack of rain that has caused the field to be so hard?

"It's a lack of something," Houk said. "You'll have to ask the groundskeepers. I'll tell you, I'll find out tomorrow. When it's you're own field something's wrong.

"I don't alibi and I don't like to say they aren't doing their job, but there's something wrong and something should be done about it."

Asked if he planned to discuss the situation with Ralph Snyder, director of stadium operations, Houk said: "There'll be something said, you can bet. They'll be mad at me, but I don't give a damn. I gotta protect my players."

It's questionable whether much can be done before tonight's rematch, which pits Mark "The Bird" Fidrych, 14-5, against Bart Johnson, 9-11. Chicago is the only team rookie Fidrych hasn't faced — or beaten.

The White Sox are tied with California for last in the American League West, while Detroit is fourth in the East.

Bill Freehan was one bright spot Tuesday for the Tigers. He had a home run, double, single, walk and scored twice. His homer — the 200th of his career — followed walks to Alex Johnson and Aurelio Rodriguez in the second inning off starter Ken Brett.

There will eight divisions, starting with mini bikes and running up to the 501cc and up open class. Two of the divisions, 201 to 250cc and 251 to 500cc, will also be divided into classes for experienced and first-year riders.

Action on the seventh-eighths of a mile track, which includes two hills and a right turn, starts at 1:30 p.m. Practice will get underway at noon.

Admission to the track, located seven miles east of Benton Harbor on Territorial, will be $3 Sunday. Millburg will also hold regular scramble events Saturday at 7:30 p.m. and again on Sunday following the championship events.

All competitors Sunday will have qualified for the championship race previously in AMA-sanctioned events. Among area qualifiers are Gary Kanyuh, Ken Fredericks and Ken Scheffler, all of Benton Harbor.

Championship winners Sunday will receive a jacket and an AMA award.

Detroit Fall Sports Saved By Bank Gift

DETROIT (AP) — Detroit high school athletes will get to compete this fall, thanks to a last-minute $146,000 gift from a city bank.

Marilynn N. Trued, chairman of the Bank of the Commonwealth board, handed the check to schools superintendent Dr. Arthur Jefferson Tuesday, saying "We simply wanted to help out."

Plans for all fall sports had been cancelled three weeks ago when voters turned down a millage vote.

But public schools athletic supervisor Roy Allen said Tuesday's gift would allow boys' varsity football and girls' basketball to go on.

"We're back in business," Allen said. "It will enable us to have a strong fall program and save some 400 college scholarships for our football players."

All 22 squads in the Public Schools League have been holding practice in anticipation of the season which starts Sept. 17.

It has been estimated that it would cost $500,000 to $1 million to salvage the entire Detroit public school athletic program for the 1976-77 school year.

The school board will present its millage request to the voters again in November in hopes of eliminated cutbacks in athletics and dozens of scholastic areas.

NFL To Start Lottery Battle

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP) — Lawyers for the National Football League were to present arguments this afternoon in U.S. District Court in an attempt to suppress Delaware's planned pro football betting game.

The NFL has filed a request for an injunction which says the proposed wagering game "injures the integrity of sports, causes fan disinterest or suspicion and undermines the financial investment of the clubs."

The league is arguing its case before Judge Walter K. Stapleton.

Meanwhile, Peter M. Simmons, acting head of the Delaware lottery, said Tuesday he will go ahead with plans for the new game.

Simmons told a news conference officials want to have the lottery in operation by Sept. 1.

"We are continuing because we believe it is something desirable to the people," Simmons said, "and in the opinion of our attorneys we have a proper and legal right to do that."

The game, called "Scoreboard," will have two forms of pari-mutuel betting, Simmons said.

One part — "Touchdown" — will resemble the illegal football cards which have been used for betting on college and pro games for years.

Persons could bet on three, four or five games and must select both the winning teams and the point spreads. Cards would list all 14 NFL games each week.

The second part of the game — "Football Bonus" — will have two slates of seven games each. A bettor could wager on one or both slates but the winning teams must be selected on each.

About 45 per cent of the money bet on a particular segment is expected to be paid out in winnings.

Wagers will range from $1 to $10.

Simmons says one million cards for each of the segments will be available Sept. 1. The cards will be free and money will be collected when selections are turned over to lottery agents.

Area Gridders Are Vying For Chip Starting Jobs

BY PAUL MORGAN
Staff Sports Writer

MT. PLEASANT — Coach Roy Kramer prides himself on the fact that every member of his Central Michigan University football team is from the state of Michigan.

And it looks like four members of the southwest part of the state are going to see lots of action when the Chippewas open their season on Sept. 11 at Perry Shorts Stadium against tough Kent State University.

Lanier (6-0, 190-pounds) might have the toughest job of the four area gridders. He is trying to crack a starting backfield which returns intact this season.

Currently, the sophomore is playing the number two upback in Central's offense behind Flint junior Mike Gray. All Gray did last season was become the team's second leading rusher with 835 yards. The Chips were led on the ground by Walt 'Smoke' Hodges, who netted 1,025 yards with an average of 5.5 yards per carry to lead the Mid-American Conference.

"Lanier had a real, fine spring practice," Kramer said. "He is good and quick and matured as a blocker. He really worked on his blocking.

"That's what we mainly worked on with him in the spring," he added. "His blocking and reading his blocks."

Lanier knows he has his work cut out for him if he wants to get in some playing time. "Gray is big and tough," he said. "I've been doing a lot of running and hitting to try and beat him out and I'm going to keep on trying."

The upback in Kramer's offense does do a lot of blocking, so Lanier will spell Gray during the season.

Last season, Lanier carried the ball just three times for 13 yards.

The other three area gridders are all playing on a young defensive squad.

Steve Smallbone (6-2, 220) is slated to start at left defensive tackle. He is just a sophomore eligibility-wide, having been redshirted last season when he separated his shoulder. "The extra spring practice helped him a lot," Kramer said.

"He had an excellent spring this season, too," he added. "Smallbone is a hard nosed, disciplined player. He is very quick and is good on the pass rush."

Steve agrees that his best asset is his speed. "I am trying to improve on my strength," he said. "But it's easier to go around than through."

"The best thing our defense has going for it is that we stayed healthy all spring. We worked together and that is the best thing we could have done."

Smallbones feels the defense really played as a unit in the spring. "Everybody is pulling each other up," he said. "When someone makes a good play, we all let him know that,"

Ryan (6-1, 180) is currently running as the number two weak-side defensive back, but, that could change, as there is only one veteran returning to the defensive backfield.

What hurt the most was when he strained some ligaments in his knee at the beginning of spring and missed all the practices. The knee didn't require surgery, but it was in a cast for four weeks.

Ryan was an offensive back at St. Joseph. "But you will find that most every defensive halfback recruited was an offensive back in high school," Kramer commented.

Marty Smallbone (6-3, 240) is listed as the number three right defensive tackle. The freshman will get a lot of teaching by just watching the first-string lineman John Wunderlich play. He is the leading tackler returning with seven tackles and 53 assists last season.

"Right now I'm just working on my keys to the plays," Smallbone said. "By playing behind Wunderlich, I'm learning a lot."

"Marty is bigger but not as quick as Steve is," Kramer said. "I'm impressed with him in the early drills we've had. He has cut his weight and come in strong."

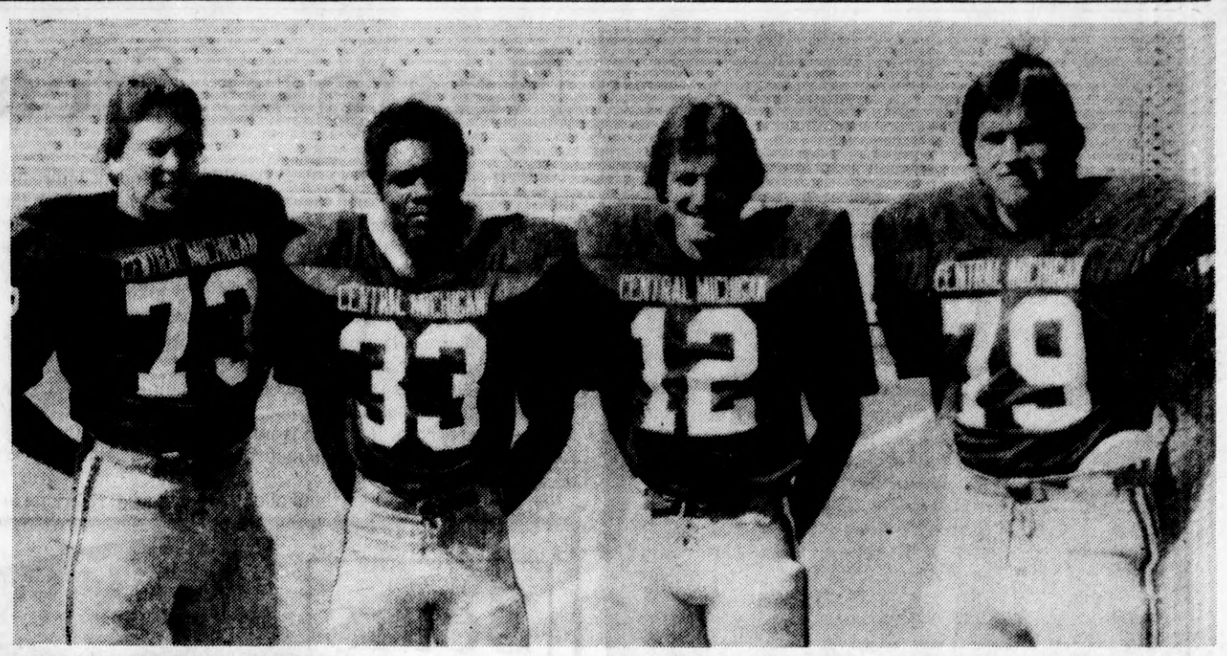

Besides Hodges and Gray, the Chips will also have back Ron Rummel, their number one quarterback. Rummel was 37 for 98 in the air for a total of 586 yards. He rushed 93 times for 439 yards which was fourth on a team which finished with an 8-2-1 overall mark and a 4-1-1 MAC record.

Mose Rison, Central's top swingback and third leading rusher with 735 yards on 126 carries, also is back.

"That's our primary strength..the offensive backfield," Kramer, a former coach at Benton Harbor and Dowagiac, indicated. "Our weaknesses are in the offensive line and defensive backfield. We will be young on defense."

Kramer looks at Miami, Bowling Green and Ball State as being tough in the conference this season. "But the strength of the MAC is in the equality of the teams," he said. "Just about anybody can pull an upset on any given Saturday."

In the media poll conducted in early August, Central was picked to finish fourth behind the trio of teams Kramer mentioned. One of the big factors Central will be fighting is its schedule. The Chips open the season playing five of six games at home and then end the campaign with five straight road games, four of them being against MAC foes.

AREA CHIPPEWA PLAYERS: These four gridders from southwestern Michigan could see plenty of action in the upcoming campaign for Central Michigan University. White Sox 'Rock' Tigers

DETROIT (AP) — His Detroit Tiger infielders were "shellshocked" and it's the fault of Tiger Stadium's "rock pile" infield, an angry Manager Ralph Houk said Tuesday night.

The Tigers were victims of six errors — four by infielders in the ninth inning when Chicago rallied for seven runs off four relief pitchers — as Detroit fell to the White Sox, 12-7.

"It was like a ... rock pile out there," Houk said. "I think we were shellshocked before the game even started. (Coach Joe) Schultz said balls were bouncing all over the place in infield practice."

"It wasn't the fault of the relief pitchers," Houk said. "The thing that lost it was the errors because of that rock infield. Anybody who could catch a ball on that tonight had to be a genius. You couldn't fault the infielders. You couldn't blame them one bit. We knew it before the game but couldn't do anything about it."

Is it a lack of rain that has caused the field to be so hard?

"It's a lack of something," Houk said. "You'll have to ask the groundskeepers. I'll tell you, I'll find out tomorrow. When it's you're own field something's wrong.

"I don't alibi and i don't like to say they aren't doing their job, but there's something wrong and something should be done about it."

Asked if he planned to discuss the situation with Ralph Snyder, director of stadium operations, Houk said: "There'll be something said, you can bet. They'll be mad at me, but I don't give a damn. I gotta protect my players."

It's questionable whether much can be done before tonight's rematch, which pits Mark "The Bird" Fidrych, 14-5, against Bart Johnson, 9-11. Chicago is the only team rookie Fidrych hasn't faced — or beaten.

The White Sox are tied with California for last in the American League West, while Detroit is fourth in the East.

Bill Freehan was one bright spot Tuesday for the Tigers. He had a home run, double, single, walk and scored twice. His homer — the 200th of his career — followed walks to Alex Johnson and Aurelio Rodriguez in the second inning off starter Ken Brett.

Nastase Steals Limelight

SOUTH ORANGE, N.J. (AP) — Despite the frequent unpredictability of Ilie Nastase, one thing is certain when he steps on the tennis court: he's instant proof that men players are far superior and more exciting than women players — Renee Richards notwithstanding.

The 30-year-old Romanian proved it Tuesday night at the Tennis Week Open by disposing of John Lloyd of Great Britain, 6-1, 6-2.

With his all-around game, Nastase showed why he and the other top male players reign supreme on the court.

At 1-1 in the first set, the defending champion run off five straight games. About one-half hour later, he sat down with the handful of reporters left over from the less exciting Caroline Stoll-Renee Richards afternoon match to talk about tennis's latest phenomenon.

"So people come to watch 'him' play," Nastase said, referring to Dr. Richards, the 42-year-old transsexual eye surgeon from Newport Beach, Calif. "What do you think, I'm jealous?"

When he arrived at the Orange Lawn Tennis Club on Sunday for some practice, Nastase was asked what affect Dr. Richards' presence would have on his publicity. "I have too low an image to lose my publicity," he said.

Tournament director Gene Scott, whose acceptance of Dr. Richards' entry led to the withdrawal of 25 women players, said, "The people come to see Nastase play, and that's the way it should be."

Scott noted that the evening session was a sellout crowd of 3,000, while the afternoon Dr. Richards match drew only 1,200.

In that match Dr. Richards, who underwent a sex change operation last year, came back to beat Miss Stoll, a 15-year-old high school junior from Livingston, N.J., 6-2, 0-6, 6-1.

Seaver Finally Posts Victory

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

"A couple of years ago, if I had gone through one of these streaks, I might have gone through the roof," said a relieved Tom Seaver.

Seaver, the long-time pitching ace of the New York Mets, had ended one of the most frustrating periods of his illustrious major league career, firing a four-hitter and beating the San Francisco Giants 4-0 Tuesday night for his first victory since July 8.

"I didn't despair," Seaver said, "because I had been pitching well. The main thing I could do was be consistent, and I had done that."

In between victories, Seaver had started seven times, and the Mets had lost each time. He was charged with four of the defeats, two by shutouts and one by one run. In his three no-decisions, the Mets dropped all three games by one run, two in extra innings — including a 1-0 decision.

But Seaver's character and his earned run average didn't suffer. Throughout the drought, he maintained his calm, and the shutout over the Giants reduced his ERA to 2.51 — best among starting pitchers in the National League.

Seaver, 10-8, struck out eight and walked only one in beating the Giants for the seventh time in a row since 1974.

Elsewhere in the National League, the Los Angeles Dodgers handed the Montreal Expos their 10th consecutive loss 6-0, the Philadelphia Phillies routed the Atlanta Braves 14-3, the San Diego Padres whipped the Pittsburgh Pirates 7-2, the St. Louis Cardinals downed the Cincinnati Reds 4-1, and the Houston Astros defeated the Chicago Cubs 4-3.

Burt Hooton registered his first victory since Aug. 3 and his fourth shutout of the season, scattering seven hits, striking out seven and walking only one in pitching the Dodgers past Montreal.

Ron Cey's 21st homer and Dusty Baker's two-run single helped the Dodgers to their eighth victory in nine games.

Philadelphia pitcher Steve Carlton, 16-4, scattered seven hits over eight innings for his sixth consecutive victory and helped his cause with three hits and three runs batted in.

Bobby Tolan paced the Phils' 17-hit attack with two singles, a homer and five RBI.

Mike Ivie singled twice, driving in four runs for the first time in a year, in pacing the Padres' offense.

San Diego's Brent Strom recovered from a shaky start and finished with a six-hitter, retiring 18 of the last 20 Pittsburgh batters.

St. Louis' Pete Falcone stymied Cincinnati's slumping West Division leaders on five hits and was helped by Willie Crawford's homer.

The Reds have scored more than four runs only once in their last 11 games — and that was in a 9-5 loss to St. Louis Monday night.

Bob Watson singled and doubled, driving in one run and scoring another, to lead Joaquin Andujar and the Astros to a victory over the Cubs.

Watson singled to trigger a two-run rally in the second inning Tuesday and doubled to drive in a run in the fifth.

Andujar, 7-8, pitched four-hit ball before being taken out for a pinch hitter in the eighth inning. The only run the Cubs scored off him came in the fifth when Manny Trillo and Joe Wallis singled and George Mitterwald hit into a double play.

The Cubs got their other two runs in the ninth when Bill Madlock was hit by a bases-loaded pitch and Trillo hit an RBI grounder.

Nastase Steals Limelight

SOUTH ORANGE, N.J. (AP) — Despite the frequent unpredictability of Ilie Nastase, one thing is certain when he steps on the tennis court: he's instant proof that men players are far superior and more exciting than women players — Renee Richards notwithstanding.

The 30-year-old Romanian proved it Tuesday night at the Tennis Week Open by disposing of John Lloyd of Great Britain, 6-1, 6-3.

With his all-around game, Nastase showed why he and the other top male players reign supreme on the court.

At 1-1 in the first set, the defending champion ran off five straight games. About one-half hour later, he sat down with the handful of reporters left over from the less exciting Caroline Stoll-Renee Richards afternoon match to talk about tennis's latest phenomenon.

"So people come to watch 'him' play," Nastase said, referring to Dr. Richards, the 42-year-old transsexual eye surgeon from Newport Beach, Calif. "What do you think, I'm jealous?"

When he arrived at the Orange Lawn Tennis Club on Sunday for some practice, Nastase was asked what affect Dr. Richards' presence would have on his publicity. "I have too low an image to lose my publicity," he said.

Tournament director Gene Scott, whose acceptance of Dr. Richards' entry led to the withdrawal of 25 women players, said, "The people come to see Nastase play, and that's the way it should be."

Scott noted that the evening session was a sellout crowd of 3,600, while the afternoon Dr. Richards match drew only 3,200.

In that match Dr. Richards, who underwent a sex change operation last year, came back to beat Miss Stoll, a 15-year-old high school junior from Livingston, N.J., 6-2, 0-6, 6-1.

Seaver Finally Posts Victory

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

"A couple of years ago, if I had gone through one of these streaks, I might have gone through the roof," said a relieved Tom Seaver.

Seaver, the long-time pitching ace of the New York Mets, had ended one of the most frustrating periods of his illustrious major league career, firing a four-hitter and beating the San Francisco Giants 4-0 Tuesday night for his first victory since July 8.

"I didn't despair," Seaver said, "because I had been pitching well. The main thing I could do was be consistent, and I had done that."

In between victories, Seaver had started seven times, and the Mets had lost each time. He was charged with four of the defeats, two by shutouts and one by one run. In his three no-decisions, the Mets dropped all three games by one run, two in extra innings — including a 1-0 decision.

But Seaver's character and his earned run average didn't suffer. Throughout the drought, he maintained his calm, and the shutout over the Giants reduced his ERA to 2.51 — best among starting pitchers in the National League.

Seaver, 10-9, struck out eight and walked only one in beating the Giants for the seventh time in a row since 1974.

Elsewhere in the National League, the Los Angeles Dodgers handed the Montreal Expos their 10th consecutive loss 6-0, the Philadelphia Phillies routed the Atlanta Braves 14-3, the San Diego Padres whipped the Pittsburgh Pirates 7-3, the St. Louis Cardinals downed the Cincinnati Reds 4-1, and the Houston Astros defeated the Chicago Cubs 4-3.

Burt Hooton registered his first victory since Aug. 3 and his fourth shutout of the season, scattering seven hits, striking out seven and walking only one in pitching the Dodgers past Montreal.

Ron Cey's 21st homer and Dusty Baker's two-run single helped the Dodgers to their eighth victory in nine games.

Philadelphia pitcher Steve Carlton, 16-4, scattered seven hits over eight innings for his sixth consecutive victory and helped his cause with three hits and three runs batted in.

Bobby Tolan paced the Phils' 17-hit attack with two singles, a homer and five RBI.

Mike Ivie singled twice, driving in four runs for the first time in a year, in pacing the Padres' offense.

San Diego's Brent Strom recovered from a shaky start and finished with a six-hitter, retiring 18 of the last 20 Pittsburgh batters.

St. Louis' Pete Falcone stymied Cincinnati's slumping West Division leaders on five hits and was helped by Willie Crawford's homer.

The Reds have scored more than four runs only once in their last 11 games — and that was in a 9-5 loss to St. Louis Monday night.

Bob Watson singled and doubled, driving in one run and scoring another, to lead Joaquin Andujar and the Astros to a victory over the Cubs.

Watson singled to trigger a two-run rally in the second inning Tuesday and doubled to drive in a run in the fifth.

Andujar, 7-9, pitched four-hit ball before being taken out for a pinch hitter in the eighth inning. The only run the Cubs scored off him came in the fifth when Manny Trillo and Joe Wallis singled and George Mitterwald hit into a double play.

The Cubs got their other two runs in the ninth when Bill Madlock was hit by a basesloaded pitch and Trillo hit an RBI grounder.

Hunt Suit Adds Big Ten, NCAA

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP)—The Big Ten conference and the NCAA were added as defendants Tuesday in a federal court suit challenging suspension of a Michigan State University football player.

U.S. Dist. Court Judge Noel Fox set an additional hearing on the suit filed by defensive back Joseph Hunt for Sept. 8 after making the conference and the governing body for big-time collegiate sports defendants in the case.

Meanwhile, a Lansing attorney said he would go to court in an attempt to lift the suspensions of six other MSU football players disciplined in connection with an NCAA probe into the football program.

Attorney Fred Abood said he would seek an injunction from Fox to reinstate the players. Abood represents quarterback Eddie Smith, tight end Mike Cobb, defensive linemen Melvin Land and Larry Bethea, linebacker Jim Epolito and Ted Bell, who has played in both offensive and defensive backfields.

As for Hunt, he originally sued the East Lansing school, a Big Ten member, claiming he was suspended without a fair hearing or the chance to face his accusers. His lawyers argued he is due those constitutional rights although Hunt admitted to the acts leading to his suspension.

The suit by Hunt seeks to set aside his year-long suspension until a full hearing is held in his case. Michigan State started football practice Monday. Without some court action, Hunt, a senior, will miss his final year of college play.

An attorney for the school asked Judge Fox to add the NCAA to the case since the association ordered Michigan State to suspend Hunt. The suspension order came after a probe into the school's football program. That investigation resulted in three years probation for the school.

Hunt was accused of using a credit card owned by a Spartan fan. The fan, T. Michael Doyle, a Lansing lawyer, lent his credit card to an assistant football coach. Hunt said he used the card without permission after borrowing the coach's car.

Penn State, Pitt Powers Again In East Grid Wars

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

If you listen to Joe Paterno long enough, you kind of get the idea that he thinks a whole lot of Eastern college football.

"They have the Big Eight and the Big Ten. How about the Big East?" Paterno wonders, casting a glance at last season's records.

What they show is that nine of the 12 major Eastern independents posted winning marks a year ago and three went to bowl games. Paterno's Penn State club, the perennial mythical Eastern champs, bowed to Alabama in the Sugar Bowl but Pitt whipped Kansas in the Sun Bowl and West Virginia upended North Carolina State in the Peach Bowl.

Hopes are high for something resembling a repeat and Penn State and Pitt have appeared in many preseason rankings.

In addition, Boston College and Temple are proven winners, West Virginia has a sound program, Navy and Syracuse have returned to respectability and Rutgers is talking about an unbeaten season.

Many experts give Pitt the Eastern nod over Penn State and both teams will be tested early. Pitt opens at Notre Dame, while Penn State starts with explosive Stanford and then goes against mighty Ohio State.

"I can't do anything about the ratings," says Pitt Coach Johnny Majors. "I know we're going to be ranked high. We can be competitive with most teams in the country. I hope we can get to the stage where we can win on our bad days. In the past we weren't able to do that."

The Panthers return 18 starters, including the brilliant Tony Dorsett, who needs 94 yards a game to become college football's all-time rushing leader. His superb supporting cast includes halfback Elliott Walker, offensive guard Tom Brzoza, nose guard Al Romano and linebacker Arnie Weatherington.

The defense will be solid with Ron Crosby, Tony Petruccio and George Reihner up front, Kurt Allerman and Ron Hostetler at linebacker and Gary Petercuskie and Neil Hutton in the secondary. And from all reports, Paterno had an outstanding recruiting year.

Defense is the name of the game at Boston College with 18 of the top 22 returning from the unit which ranked ninth nationally a year ago. They include tackle-linebacker Pete Cronan, end Byron Hemingway and linebackers Bob Watts and Rich Scudellari.

West Virginia lost Coach Bobby Bowden, who took the Florida State job — and 13 regulars graduated, making it a rebuilding year for new Coach Frank Cignetti despite the presence of Peach Bowl MVP quarterback Dan Kendra.

Navy achieved its long-awaited winning season last fall and almost got a bowl bid but the Middies lost All-American Chet Moeller and eight other defenders plus the top two runners and most of the offensive line.

Syracuse has returned to winning ways under Frank Maloney and hopes to continue its slow but sure climb back towards the top.

Rutgers returns 18 starters from a 9-2 club, including nine from the only major college defense to rank among the top 10 nationally in four categories. Temple is bidding for a seventh consecutive winning campaign under Coach Wayne Hardin.

Fred Dunlap, who took Lehigh to the NCAA Division II playoffs twice, is the new coach at Colgate, where he has some fine runners. Villanova, Army and Holy Cross were the only losers among Eastern independents last year and Holy Cross, under Neil Wheelwright, Dunlap's predecessor at Colgate, appears to have the best chance to turn it around.

Among the Ivies, All-East quarterback Jim Kubacki is the big noise at Harvard, where Coach Joe Restic's only question is the offensive line that must block for his wide-open Multiflex offense. Yale must rebuild its defense while Dartmouth lost heavily at the linebacker and secondary positions.

Brown returns Bob Farnham, the nation's leading receiver, among nine regulars. Quarterback Bob Graustein paces Penn's potent offense, Columbia is enroute to becoming competitive while Cornell expects improvement now that Coach George Seifert has had a year to get acclimated.

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Oakland A's have been counted out more times than Joe Louis' old Bum of the Month Club, but somehow the count always stops short of the knockout number.

"They've tried to count us out lots of times but they haven't reached 10 yet," Manager Chuck Tanner said after the A's beat the Baltimore Orioles 5-4 Tuesday night on Gene Tenace's tie-breaking homer in the eighth inning. "We keep coming off the floor and coming back at them."

The people the A's keep coming back at are the Kansas City Royals, 2-1 losers to the Cleveland Indians. The Royals' lead over the A's in the American League West shrank to 7½ games.

Most observers, including the Royals, thought the five-time champion A's were finished when they fell 12 games behind earlier this month. But a nine-game winning streak trimmed the deficit to seven games.

It went to 9½ during a little slump last weekend, but the A's sliced off two games during the last two days while winning for the 15th time in the last 20.

Tenace, who has been playing first base rather than catching while recovering from a jammed thumb, hit the first pitch from Wayne Garland in the eighth inning for his 14th home run, snapping the 4-4 tie. Lee May's two-run homer in the bottom of the seventh — his 23rd — pulled the Orioles into the tie. May also had a run-scoring single while Joe Rudi drove in three runs for Oakland with two singles and a sacrifice fly.

Elsewhere, the New York Yankees edged the Minnesota Twins 5-4, the California Angels nipped the Boston Red Sox 6-5, the Chicago White Sox downed the Detroit Tigers 12-7 and the Milwaukee Brewers shaded the Texas Rangers 1-0 in 10 innings.

Rick Waits fired a three-hitter while batterymate Ray Fosse drove in the winning run with a fourth-inning single. Royals ace Dennis Leonard also went the route, giving up just four hits and retiring the last 13 batters he faced.

Rookie Willie Randolph greeted Minnesota relief ace Bill Campbell with a tie-breaking three-run double in the seventh inning and scored what proved to be the winner on Mickey Rivers' triple. Campbell replaced Eddie Bane after the Yankeees loaded the bases with none out on Chris Chambliss' double, a single by Graig Nettles and a walk to Otto Velez.

Terry Humphrey's ninth-inning double following a single by Dave Collins produced the winning run and saddled reliever Jim Willoughby with his 10th loss in 12 decisions. Carlton Fisk hit a two-run homer for Boston while Tony Solaita belted a three-run shot for California.

Tim Johnson looped a single to center field with one out in the 10th inning to score Darrell Porter from second base and give the Brewers their triumph behind the five-hit pitching of Jerry Augustine. Porter led off with a single and was sacrificed to second before Johnson delivered his third single of the game.

Hunt Suit Adds Big Ten, NCAA

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP)—The Big Ten conference and the NCAA were added as defendants Tuesday in a federal court suit challenging suspension of a Michigan State University football player.

U.S. Dist. Court Judge Noel Fox set an additional hearing on the suit filed by defensive back Joseph Hunt for Sept. 8 after making the conference and the governing body for big-time collegiate sports defendants in the case.

Meanwhile, a Lansing attorney said he would go to court in an attempt to lift the suspensions of six other MSU football players disciplined in connection with an NCAA probe into the football program.

Attorney Fred Abood said he would seek an injunction from Fox to reinstate the players. Abood represents quarterback Eddie Smith, tight end Mike Cobb, defensive linemen Melvin Land and Larry Bethea, linebacker Jim Epolito and Ted Bell, who has played in both offensive and defensive backfields.

As for Hunt, he originally sued the East Lansing school, a Big Ten member, claiming he was suspended without a fair hearing or the chance to face his accusers. His lawyers argued he is due those constitutional rights although Hunt admitted to the acts leading to his suspension.

The suit by Hunt seeks to set aside his year-long suspension until a full hearing is held in his case. Michigan State started football practice Monday. Without some court action, Hunt, a senior, will miss his final year of college play.

An attorney for the school asked Judge Fox to add the NCAA to the case since the association ordered Michigan State to suspend Hunt. The suspension order came after a probe into the school's football program. That investigation resulted in three years probation for the school.

Hunt was accused of using a credit card owned by a Spartan fan. The fan, T. Michael Doyle, a Lansing lawyer, lent his credit card to an assistant football coach. Hunt said he used the card without permission after borrowing the coach's car.

Penn State, Pitt Powers Again In East Grid Wars

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

If you listen to Joe Paterno long enough, you kind of get the idea that he thinks a whole lot of Eastern college football.

"They have the Big Eight and the Big Ten. How about the Big East?" Paterno wonders, casting a glance at last season's records.

What they show is that nine of the 12 major Eastern independents posted winning marks a year ago and three went to bowl games. Paterno's Penn State club, the perennial mythical Eastern champs, bowed to Alabama in the Sugar Bowl but Pitt whipped Kansas in the Sun Bowl and West Virginia upended North Carolina State in the Peach Bowl.

Hopes are high for something resembling a repeat and Penn State and Pitt have appeared in many preseason rankings.

In addition, Boston College and Temple are proven winners, West Virginia has a sound program, Navy and Syracuse have returned to respectability and Rutgers is talking about an unbeaten season.

Many experts give Pitt the Eastern nod over Penn State and both teams will be tested early. Pitt opens at Notre Dame while Penn State starts with explosive Stanford and then goes against mighty Ohio State.

"I can't do anything about the ratings," says Pitt Coach Johnny Majors. "I know we're going to be ranked high. We can be competitive with most teams in the country. I hope we can get to the stage where we can win on our bad days. In the past we weren't able to do that."

The Panthers return 18 starters, including the brillliant Tony Dorsett, who needs 94 yards a game to become college football's all-time rushing leader. His superb supporting cast includes halfback Elliott Walker, offensive guard Tom Brzoza, nose guard Al Romano and linebacker Arnie Weatherington.

The defense will be solid with Ron Crosby, Tony Petruccio and George Reihner up front, Kurt Allerman and Ron Hostetler at linebacker and Gary Petercuskie and Neil Hutton in the secondary. And from all reports, Paterno had an outstanding recruiting year.

Defense is the name of the game at Boston College with 18 of the top 22 returning from the unit which ranked ninth nationally a year ago. They include tackle-linebacker Pete Cronan, end Byron Hemingway and linebackers Bob Watts and Rich Scudellari.

Navy achieved its long-awaited winning season last fall and almost got a bowl bid but the Middies lost All-American Chet Moeller and eight other defenders plus the top two runners and most of the offensive line.

Syracuse has returned to winning ways under Frank Maloney and hopes to continue its slow but sure climb back towards the top.

Rutgers returns 18 starters from a 9-2 club, including nine from the only major college defense to rank among the top 10 nationally in four categories. Temple is bidding for a seventh consecutive winning campaign under Coach Wayne Hardin.

Fred Dunlap, who took Lehigh to the NCAA Division II playoffs twice, is the new coach at Colgate, where he has some fine runners. Villanova, Army and Holy Cross were the only losers among Eastern independents last year and Holy Cross, under Neil Wheelwright, Dunlap's predecessor at Colgate, appears to have the best chance to turn it around.

Among the Ivies, All-East quarterback Jim Kubacki is the big noise at Harvard, where Coach Joe Restic's only question is the offensive line that must block for his wide-open Multiflex offense. Yale must rebuild its defense while Dartmouth lost heavily at the linebacker and secondary positions.

Brown returns Bob Farnham, the nation's leading receiver, among nine regulars. Quarterback Bob Graustein paces Penn's potent offense. Columbia is enroute to becoming competitive while Cornell expects improvement now that Coach George Seifert has had a year to get acclimated.

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Oakland A's have been counted out more times than Joe Louis' old Bum of the Month Club, but somehow the count always stops short of the knockout number.

"They've tried to count us out lots of times but they haven't reached 10 yet," Manager Chuck Tanner said after the A's beat the Baltimore Orioles 5-4 Tuesday night on Gene Tenace's tie-breaking homer in the eighth inning. "We keep coming off the floor and coming back at them."

The people the A's keep coming back at are the Kansas City Royals, 2-1 losers to the Cleveland Indians. The Royals' lead over the A's in the American League West shrank to 7½ games.

Most observers, including the Royals, thought the five-time champion A's were finished when they fell 12 games behind earlier this month. But a nine-game winning streak trimmed the deficit to seven games.

It went to 9½ during a little slump last weekend, but the A's sliced off two games during the last two days while winning for the 15th time in the last 20.

Tenace, who has been playing first base rather than catching while recovering from a jammed thumb, hit the first pitch from Wayne Garland in the eighth inning for his 14th home run, snapping the 4-4 tie. Lee May's two-run homer in the bottom of the seventh — his 23rd — pulled the Orioles into the tie. May also had a run-scoring single while Joe Rudi drove in three runs for Oakland with two singles and a sacrifice fly.

Elsewhere, the New York Yankees edged the Minnesota Twins 5-4, the California Angels nipped the Boston Red Sox 6-5, the Chicago White Sox downed the Detroit Tigers 12-7 and the Milwaukee Brewers shaded the Texas Rangers 1-0 in 10 innings.

Rick Waits fired a three-hitter while batterymate Ray Fosse drove in the winning run with a fourth-inning single. Royals ace Dennis Leonard also went the route, giving up just four hits and retiring the last 13 batters he faced.

Rookie Willie Randolph greeted Minnesota relief ace Bill Campbell with a tie-breaking three-run double in the seventh inning and scored what proved to be the winner on Mickey Rivers' triple. Campbell replaced Eddie Bane after the Yankeees loaded the bases with none out on Chris Chambliss' double, a single by Graig Nettles and a walk to Otto Velez.

Terry Humphrey's ninth-inning double following a single by Dave Collins produced the winning run and saddled reliever Jim Willoughby with his 10th loss in 12 decisions. Carlton Fisk hit a two-run homer for Boston while Tony Solaita belted a three-run shot for California.

Tim Johnson looped a single to center field with one out in the 10th inning to score Darrell Porter from second base and give the Brewers their triumph behind the five-hit pitching of Jerry Augustine. Porter led off with a single and was sacrificed to second before Johnson delivered his third single of the game.

TEACHING JOHNNY TO READ

It Takes Faith, Fortitude And Phonics

By KATHRYN DIEHL
Reading Reform Foundation

CHAPTER THREE

The intensive phonics sytem will work successfully for children and adults of all ages who are ready to learn to read.

In this article, we will assume that you are working with a child of elementary school age or about to start first grade, whose reading is poor or nonexistent. (A later article deals specifically with teaching students of junior high of high school age.) If you want to start with a child too young for school, go ahead. But don't push it if the child isn't ready.

The first essential ingredient is faith that you can do it. With this method you CAN do it if you are willing to spend the needed time and effort.

If you are a relative or a friend of the family, and the child must come to your home from a distance, make it one hour at a time, three times a week. Don't worry, 6-year-olds can easily work that long on something they enjoy.

There will be times, certainly, when you'll have other things to do and it would be convenient to postpone the lesson. DON'T DO IT! Discipline yourself! You will find the time flies by, you will enkoy the lessons — and how satisfying it will be to see your child, in just a short time, reading, writing and spelling dozens of simple little words!

By now you are asking: Just what is it I am going to teach my child?

First, if necessary, you must teach him to recognize and write the alphabet perfectly. Then you are going to teach him:

The common consonant blends, those two- and three-letter combinations with which so many words begin: "bl," "spl," and "fr,", etc.

—The sounds of some other letter combinations, and some simple rules about the sounds of letters in different combinations.

—Those very few irregular words for which the rules don't apply — "of," and "said," etc.

Most important, you are going to teach him how to turn the sounds of letters, alone and in the combination, into words. You are going to teach him to read.

An important point: When I say that you are going to teach your child the letter sounds, I don't mean you are going to tell him about them, or "introduce" them to him. I mean you are going to teach those letter sounds until he knows them, and knows how they build words. That's why you are going to succeed.

When you child has learned some of the consonant sounds, then you will teach him a vowel sound, the short "a" as in "apple." Then you will teach him to build little words and take them apart, using those letter sounds he knows: bad, bag, dad, had, man, fan, fat.

He learns by writing — and spelling — those little words as you dictate them.

This is a very simple beginning, granted. But your child — and perhaps you — have learned the essential lesson: there is a simple, logical common sense way to learn to read.

As your home teaching continues, a whole new world opens up to your child. He is on his way.

Make Child's Daily Reading An Unbreakable Habit

If your child is already struggling, or failing, in school, you must give him faith that he can and will learn to read (as he will find out very quickly)! You must totally wipe out any feeling he brings from school that he is "too dumb" to read. Just tell him you know a better, easier way that will work.

Set aside a half-hour a day, every day, six or seven days a week, for reading. Make it an unbreakable habit. And never put today's lesson off until tomorrow. If you start doing that, soon you will average two lessons a week, then one, then the whole project goes down the drain unfinished, and no help at all to your child. "A little extra phonics" won't help. That's the way look-say does it, and that's why look-say is a failure.

Many high-school students cannot read signs, printed ingredients or simple directions....

That's not a theory. It's a fact—as shown by U.S. Office of Education statistics. Your child need not be hampered by this tragic deficiency. Help give him the priceless gift of good reading ability by getting a copy of "JOHNNY STILL CAN'T READ," which pinpoints a way of teaching him properly. It's available for only $1.25. Affluent Forgetting Recession

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Consumer confidence rose among upper-income families between February and May, according to a University of Michigan researcher.

But Jay Schmiedeskamp said the level of consumer confidence dropped among lower-income families.

Overall, Schmiedeskamp found the index of consumer sentiment dropped 2.3 points from February to May, which he called "little change."

Schmiesdeskamp, of the U-M Survey Research Center, said the survey results lead him to believe "consumer spending, especially for cars and household durables, will continue on an upward course for the rest of this year."

He reported in a recent article that families making more than $15,000 a year said they were more confident because of rising incomes and a better short-term outlook for business conditions.

He said the lower-income families' attitudes reflected their being harder-hit by high levels of inflation and unemployment during the recent recession.

"At present, the severity of the recent recession means that it is taking an unusually long time for attitudes to recover among lower-income people, many of whom still feel vulnerable to unemployment," Schmiedeskamp said.

Schmiedeskamp said the consumer index's lowest point was reached in December 1974. Since then, he said, the confidence of consumers has gone through four different periods:

—February and May 1975: Surveys showed a strong rise in consumer confidence, primarily because many persons thought the economy had stopped declining, Schmiedeskamp said.

—August and October 1975: Surveys showed little improvement in consumer confidence due to lack of confidence in the government's economic policies and widespread pessimism about the long-term outlook for the economy, he said.

—February 1976: The index rose as consumer confidence advanced strongly, Schmiedeskamp said. He said this was based on favorable news about economic recovery and a greatly reduced rate of inflation.

—May 1976: The index showed a small decline, probably because of fewer reports about favorable changes in business conditions, Schmiedeskamp said.

He said the patterns are comparable to the rates of retail spending.

Schmiedeskamp said that despite the small decline in the consumer confidence index between February and May, "It would be a mistake to characterize the May survey findings as a downward turn in consumer confidence from February.

"There has, for example, been hardly any increase in the frequency of unfavorable news reported by respondents, nor has there been much change in expectations about inflation during the next 12 months.

"The May survey suggests that concern about recent past inflation has also not changed very much since February....

"Consumer attitutes are much more favorable now than they were six or nine months ago," Schmiedeskamp said in the report, published in the summer issue of "Economic Outlook USA," a U-M publication.

Patient's Death Probed

IONIA, Mich. (AP) — The state attorney general's office has launched probe into the June 15 death of a 30-year-old Riverside Center Hospital patient who suffered a mysterious skull fracture at the mental hospital. Assistant Attorney General Clive D. Gemmill said his office is picking up the investigation into the death of James Randolph Hughes where Ionia officials and State Police left off. Gemmill said officials have told him they found no indication of foul play in Hughes death. Hospital authorities said Hughes suffered the head injury when he fell for an unknown reason in a hospital ward hallway. The patient's father, James Ruskin Hughes, asked for the attorney general's office investigation June 30, saying he believed his son may have been murdered.

Ford Plan Would Put Private Toe In Uncle Sam's Door

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Ford administration is proposing new rules that officials said could result in federal agencies purchasing from private contractors hundreds of millions of dollars worth of services now performed by government employes.

Affected by the proposal, published Monday in the federal register, are some 10,000 "commercial and industrial" operations, such as guard services, maintenance of government buildings and grounds, cafeteria operations and film processing.

Hugh E. Witt, an official of the White House Office of Management and Budget, said those operations now involve a government investment in facilities and equipment of $12 billion and annual operating costs of $7 billion.

The new rules require that agencies add 24.7 per cent for retirement benefits to payroll figures in computing the cost of services performed by government workers. Previously, they needed to add only 7 per cent of the payroll total for retirement, a figure that Witt called "way out of date."

Federal regulations require agencies to buy goods and services from private contractors unless the agencies can show it is in the "national interest" for government employes to provide them.

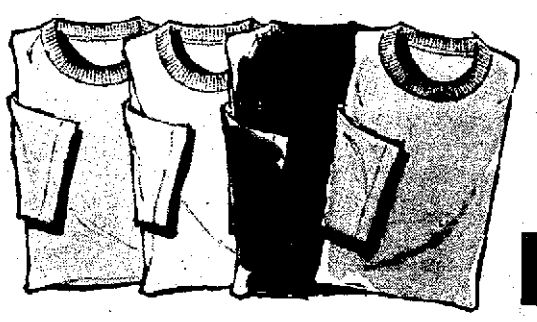

Of the 10,000 service operations, at least 1,000 now are justified solely on the basis that they are provided more cheaply by federal workers than by private contractors, Witt said.

The contractors often lose out on a cost basis because the agencies sharply underestimate their retirement costs, he said.

No estimate was available on how many federal workers could lose their jobs because of a takeover by private firms, but Witt said companies that win service contracts often rehire the displaced employes.

PENNSYLVANIA: Cradle For Free New Nation

By GILBERT LOVE

PITTSBURGH (NEA) — Pennsylvania, focal point for this year's Bicentennial celebration, is in many ways an unusual state, with many fascinating facets in its history.

It has been fortunate, too.

The first settlers, who were Dutch and Swedes, were welcomed by the local Indians and shown how to grow food and build shelters on these shores, thus avoiding the "starving times" of some other early settlements.

When Charles II of England gave the approximate area of Pennsylvania to William Penn, the latter owned it outright, and could have established a vast dukedom but Penn was a practical idealist. He and his heirs sold land to settlers at low prices and set up a government giving its people unheard-of liberties.

Penn wanted to call his domain New Wales, because of the gentle hills along the Delaware River, but the King insisted on honoring Penn's father, Admiral William Penn, with the name Penn's sylvania.

The freedoms enjoyed by Pennsylvania's residents made them especially resentful of the new taxes and restrictions Great Britain attempted to impose on its American colonies in the 1760s and 1770s.

The revolutionary climate around Philadelphia attracted the Continental Congress and, later, the adoption there of the Declaration of Independence, the Articles of Confederation and the Constitution of the United States.

Fortunately for today's Americans the building where all that took place, Independence Hall, is still standing and in good condition. Visitors can see the same inkstand used in signing the Declaration of Independence. The Liberty Bell is also on display in a nearby structure.

Philadelphia was occupied by the British after Washington was defeated in the Battle of Brandywine on Sept. 11, 1777. The Continental Congress fled to Lancaster, which was capital of the country for one day, then went on to York where it directed the war effort until the following summer.

Brandywine Battlefield, southwest of Philadelphia, attracts relatively few visitors. Many more go to Valley Forge, a park west of the city, on the ground where Washington's troops suffered through the winter of 1777-78. It is beautiful around early May when thousands of dogwood trees are in bloom.

Lancaster attracts many tourists who are curious about the Pennsylvania Dutch (actually Germans) who came to southeastern Pennsylvania in Colonial times because of Penn's offer of religious freedom.

The strictest sects, Amish and Dunkards, still dress in the plainest of garb, use real horsepower for transportation and don't believe in electricity, but they maintain beautiful farms.

To the west of the "Dutch Country" is Gettysburg, where nearly 175,000 men were locked in battle for three days in July of 1863. Today, Gettysburg National Military Park is so dotted with statues of soldiers, its roads so lined with cannon, that you have a feeling the troops are still there, ready to resume hostilities.

July 4, incidentally, seems fated to be the date for big events in Pennsylvania. There was, of course, the Declaration of Independence. On July 4, 1863, Confederate General Robert E. Lee began his retreat from Gettysburg. July 4, 1754, a youthful George Washington was losing a battle to the French at his "Fort Necessity" near present Uniontown.

Pennsylvania has been a battleground for most of America's "at home" wars. The French and Indian War, which Washington launched with his "Fort Necessity" engagement, featured Gen. Edward Braddock's disastrous defeat as his splendid (and very visible) army of Redcoats approached the site of Pittsburgh to dislodge the French.

Three years later, methodical Gen. John Forbes captured the strategic site where the Allegheny and Monongahela Rivers meet to form the Ohio, thus ending France's attempt to control the interior of the North American continent, and making possible the later spread of this country to the Pacific coast.

In 1794 Pennsylvania was the site of a small but threatening internal conflict called the Whisky Rebellion. Western Pennsylvania farmers who reduced their grain to whisky for easier shipment revolted against a Federal excise tax on this product. Troops under the personal direction of President Washington marched into the region and the rebellion fizzled out.

Erie was the shipyard and home port for Oliver Hazard Perry's fleet on Lake Erie in the War of 1812, although the big battle was fought off Put-in-Bay, Ohio. The so-called "Erie Triangle" had been acquired by Pennsylvania two decades before, after Massachusetts and Connecticut gave up their claims to lands that far west.

For $151,640, paid to the U.S. Government, Pennsylvania got a port on the Great Lakes. Philadelphia is a major port on the Atlantic, via the Delaware River. Pittsburgh's rivers handle more tonnage than the Panama Canal.

When Pennsylvania's borders were finally settled, the state turned out to be almost a rectangle, about 300 miles long by half that in width. The Appalachian Mountains — here called the Alleghenies — run from southwest to northeast across the state, covering most of it. However, there are fertile valleys between the ridges and the southeast is fine farming country.

Here's Number 38

Here's No. 38 in a series on some of the colorful facts, history and people of each of America's 50 states. Today's author is on the staff of the Pittsburgh Press.

The Keystone State

Area: 45,333 sq. mi.; rank, 33d. Population (1974): 11,835,000; rank, 3d. Capital: Harrisburg. Motto: Virtue, Liberty and Independence. Flower: Mountain laurel. Bird: Ruffed grouse. Tree: Eastern hemlock. Second of the original 13 states to ratify the Constitution, Dec. 12, 1787. Nickname: Keystone State.

First settlers were Swedish, 1643, on Tinicum Is. In 1655 the Dutch seized the settlement but lost it to the British, 1664. The region was given by Charles II to William Penn, 1681. Philadelphia (brotherly love) was the capital of the colonies during most of the Revolution, and of the U.S., 1790-1800. Pennsylvanians aided in the siege of Boston; Philadelphia was taken by the British, 1777; Washington's troops encamped at Valley Forge in the bitter winter of 1777-78. The Declaration of Independence, 1776, and the Constitution, 1787, were signed in Philadelphia.

A Heavy Theft

SHICKSHINNY, Pa. (AP) — A New York land owner wants state troopers to find his 150-foot stone wall, which he claims was stolen from his property in Luzerne County near here. But police said they don't have much to go on. The 50 tons of field stone from the property of John Levyak of Long Island had no identifying marks.

WORK TOTALS $622,012

Area Highway Bids Are Opened

LANSING — The state highway department has opened bids on $622,012 in road and bridge work in southwestern Michigan.

Included is resurfacing M-89 in Allegan county; removal of a bridge in Coloma; repairs to a pedestrian bridge in Benton Harbor; and resurfacing state highway maintenance yards in Cass, Van Buren and Kalamazoo counties.

Low bids on the work must be approved by the State Highway commission and State Administrative board before contracts can be awarded, a highway department spokesman said.

Low bidder on the Allegan county project was Gillisse Construction Co., Wyoming, at $440,238. The work includes resurfacing 7.4 miles of M-89 between Allegan and Otsego, and construction of passing flares on M-89 at 26th street, 11th avenue, 21st street, 108th avenue and Jefferson street. Work is to be done by June, 1977.

For work in Coloma, Milbocker and Sons, Inc., Allegan, submitted the low bid of $77,741 for removal of the bridge carrying East Logan street over the Ryno drain, and installation of a culvert to replace the bridge. The work is to be completed by this November.

For repair of the pedestrian bridge over northbound M-139 at Sickle street in Benton Harbor, Getman Bros. Construction of South Haven submitted the $30,314 low bid. Work is to be done by November.

Resurfacing of yards of state highway maintenance garages in Dowagiac, Paw Paw and Kalamazoo was apparently won by Klett Construction of Hartford which submitted the low bid of $61,000.

MADERA, Calif. (AP) — Ed Ray, the bus driver kidnaped with 26 Chowchilla school children last month, found an overtime parking ticket on his car after he told the grand jury about his experience.

Ray won't have to pay the fine — but not because he is considered a local hero for his part in rescuing the children from an underground prison.

Madera Justice Court Judge Alec Brown said the ticket issued Monday will be waived because it is common practice to dismiss parking violations received by court witnesses or jurors.

No 'Rats' This Time

ATLANTA (AP) — Stephanie Nilson, the soloist who forgot the words to the national anthem at a major league baseball game last week, performed flawlessly on her second attempt. Miss Nilson, 18, the reigning Miss Bloomington, Minn., forgot the words to the anthem while singing before the start of the Baltimore Orioles-Minnesota Twins game last Tuesday night. She apparently became confused by the delay of the stadium's electronic system, stopped singing, stomped her feet and said, "Aw, rats," in frustration. Undaunted, she accepted an invitation to try again for the Atlanta Braves-Philadelphia Phillies game Monday night in Atlanta. She held a cue card containing the lyrics in her hand, but she sang without looking at it, even when she came to "the rockets' red glare," where she had stumbled previously.

BH Realtor Is Cited On Erosion

R. J. Burkholz, a Benton Harbor area Realtor, is a contributor to an article on shoreline erosion that appeared in a recent issue of "Michigan Realtor," the bulletin of the Michigan Association of Realtors.

The article is getting wider circulation than just the real estate profession. Mrs. Donna Asselin, of Shoreham, president of the Lakeshore Property Owners association sent 300 copies to members of the association who range from Indiana-Michigan state line, north to Traverse City and east to Lake Huron.

Titled "Shoreline Erosion — Special Problems for Realtors," the article was written by Leslie Y. Lin, a staff writer for the Michigan Sea Grant program and graduate student in the University of Michigan School of Natural Resources.

In the article, Realtor Burkholz offers advice for homeowners and real estate professionals who come in contact with erosion problems.

Burkholz advises homeowners in erosion areas that the best protection against a poorly designed shore protection system is consultation with a qualified hydraulic engineer who knows the local area.

Agreeing with Burkholz on this were two other contributors, Martin Jamnerath, water resource planner for the state Department of Natural Resources; and Mike McGill, a researcher for the Michigan Coastal Zone (CZL) laboratory.

For realtors, Burkholz noted it's been well publicized that erosion destroys property values. When showing a property for sale in an erosion area, Burkholz said: "People in the Midwest are pretty knowledgeable. You have to explain what has happened to the property—really lay it out."

Burkholz advises a young realtor or one new to shoreline areas to "make himself knowledgeable about the problems and solutions."

The article details varied erosion including flood control insurance and special permits needed to build in high risk areas.

Mrs. Asselin a year ago won the citizen activist award in the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency's 1975 Environmental Quality Awards competition for the State of Michigan. Her services include the Lake Michigan Federation, Grand Mere, United for Survival and Shoreline Property Owners association.

Skinny Dip Sites Listed

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Two spots in Michigan have been included in a national magazine's list of 36 favorite skinny-dipping spots across the country.

New Times magazine said Sleeping Bear Dunes near Traverse City and beaches near Pentwater were popular with its Michigan skinny-dipping sources.

Pentwater area officials said they hadn't heard of any nude swimming in the area.

But Terry Way, manager of a nudist camp near Pentwater, said people can and do skinny dip along some isolated Lake Michigan beaches. In fact, he said, "I've done it myself."

"I'm sure people do it," said a ranger at the Sleeping Bear National Lakeshore park. "There are a lot of places around here you can only reach on foot and we can't patrol them all the time."

The skinny dippers are "tolerated as long as no one complains," he added.

Democrats Announce Festival Site

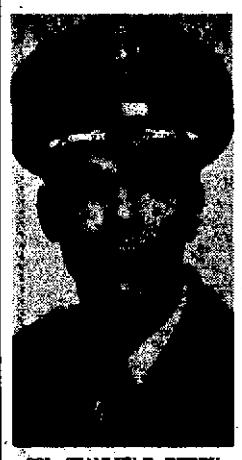

NEW BUFFALO — LaPorte (Ind.) county Democrats are sponsoring a blueberry festival to be held south of here Saturday and Sunday.

The festival will be on the Joe Farina farm, on M-239 on the Indiana-Michigan line, about a mile south of New Buffalo, according to Farina, chairman of the LaPorte county Democrats.

Scheduled activities include carnival rides, barbecues, dances and parades on Saturday and Sunday, plus blueberries free for the picking, Farina said.

He said Chicago Mayor Richard Daley has said he plans to attend Sunday and Democratic presidential nominee Jimmy Carter's staff said a member of the Carter family will try to attend.

Skinny Dip Sites Listed

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Two spots in Michigan have been included in a national magazine's list of 58 favorite skinny-dipping spots across the country.

New Times magazine said Sleeping Bear Dunes near Traverse City and beaches near Pentwater were popular with its Michigan skinny-dipping sources.

Pentwater area officials said they hadn't heard of any nude swimming in the area.

But Terry Way, manager of a nudist camp near Pentwater, said people can and do skinny dip along some isolated Lake Michigan beaches. In fact, he said, "I've done it myself."

"I'm sure people do it," said a ranger at the Sleeping Bear National Lakeshore park. "There are a lot of places around here you can only reach on foot and we can't patrol them all the time."

The skinny dippers are "tolerated as long as no one complains," he added.

Democrats Announce Festival Site

NEW BUFFALO — LaPorte (Ind.) county Democrats are sponsoring a blueberry festival to be held south of here Saturday and Sunday.

The festival will be on the Joe Farina farm, on M-239 on the Indiana-Michigan line, about a mile south of New Buffalo, according to Farina, chairman of the LaPorte county Democrats.

Scheduled activities include carnival rides, barbecues, dances and parades on Saturday and Sunday, plus blueberries free for the picking, Farina said.

He said Chicago Mayor Richard Daley has said he plans to attend Sunday and Democratic presidential nominee Jimmy Carter's staff said a member of the Carter family will try to attend.

Love At Any Cost

RODNEY, Ind. (AP) — A 15-year-old Decatur County youth wasn't about to let something as trivial as a screen door stand in the way of his love life. At least, that's what sheriff's deputies surmised when they arrived at Betty Kuntz' home in this southeastern Indiana community. What they found was a smashed screen door — and a love note attached to the bedroom door of Mrs. Kuntz' daughter, Becky. Police said the youth, whose name was withheld, probably will have to pay the estimated $10 damage to the door.

TV Debates May Be Illegal

Love At Any Cost

RODNEY, Ind. (AP) — A 15-year-old Decatur County youth wasn't about to let something as trivial as a screen door stand in the way of his love life. At least, that's what sheriff's deputies surmised when they arrived at Betty Kuntz' home in this southeastern Indiana community. What they found was a smashed screen door — and a love note attached to the bedroom door of Mrs. Kuntz' daughter, Becky. Police said the youth, whose name was withheld, probably will have to pay the estimated $10 damage to the door.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Post-Watergate laws on campaign financing may block proposed televised debates between President Ford and his Democratic challenger, Jimmy Carter, federal lawyers say.

LAWRENCE TOWNSHIP

Board Will Spend $5,000 For Gravel

LAWRENCE — The Lawrence township board last night took action to improve roads in the township.

The board voted to spend up to $5,000 for purchasing gravel at $2.50 a yard. The gravel will be used where it is most needed, according to Lew Bowen, township treasurer.

The board also voted to have the county road commission begin resurfacing 63rd avenue from CR-385 to the 64th avenue intersection.

The project, estimated to cost about $11,500, will be paid for equally by township and county funds.

The board voted to extend 50th street for about a quarter mile north of 31st avenue. Some of the gravel to be purchased will be used in the project.

GM Car Price Hike Will Average $269

DETROIT (AP) — General Motors Corp. announced today manufacturer's suggested retail prices for base 1977 GM car models will increase an average of $269 over the comparable 1976 models.

GM Chairman Thomas Murphy said dealers' introductory wholesale prices will rise an average of $216, the same amount as a year ago.

He said the base-car increases at both wholesale and retail levels will average 5.8 per cent. The percentage includes the new full-size and luxury models GM will introduce next month, he said. Option prices will increase an average of 8.2 per cent, Murphy said.

Murphy said the suggested retail price increases will range from $23 on the Oldsmobile Starfire to $700 on the Cadillac Seville.

"We are confident that the American car-buyer will recognize this GM price increase as moderate in the light of the value which these new 1977 models present," Murphy said in a statement.

"Although GM's car prices have not changed since our 1976 model prices were announced in August 1975, the costs of both materials and labor have risen substantially and we have been notified of further increases which will affect the cost of 1977 model production," Murphy said.

"GM's labor costs, affected heavily by recent increases in the cost of benefits, have risen more than 9 per cent in the past year, and we are even now negotiating new contracts with the unions representing our hourly employes," the GM chairman said.

"Our increased material costs, already experienced or now expected, together with increased labor and other costs, will add substantially more to the cost of the average 1977 GM car than we will recover by the price increases we announce today," he said.

Murphy said the nation's largest automaker "hopes" no additional increase in the introductory 1977 prices will be necessary during the model year.

"However, the prices we announce today are subject to review as the costs of materials and labor clarify in the months ahead," Murphy added.

Stocks Stay On Decline

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was off more than 3 points in the early going, and losers led gainers by more than a 2-1 margin among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Today's prices included Citicorp, down ½ at 33⅝; Travelers, down ⅜ at 35, and Standard Oil of California, off ⅛ at 38⅝. On Tuesday the Dow Jones industrial average fell 8.56 to 962.63, extending its loss for the past five sessions to 36.71 points.

Losers outnumbered gainers by about a 4-3 margin among NYSE-listed issues, and the exchange's composite index dropped .33 to 54.15.

Warner Has Two New Wines

PAW PAW — Warner Vineyards, the state's largest winery, has announced the introduction of two new premium varietal wines.

The new wines, Seyval Blanc and Marechal Foch, are both the results of cross breeding European and American vine stock.

Marechal Foch, named in honor of a French World War I general, is described s a heavy dry red wine, designed to be served at room temperate to accompany beef or other hearty dishes such as lasgne or spaghetti.

With the addition of the two new wines, the company now produces seven varietals — three white wines, two roses, and two red wines.

Firestone Hit Record

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Sales set a record, but Firestone Tire & Rubber Co. earnings for the past three months plunged sharply under the impact of the 128-day-old rubber workers strike, the firm reported Tuesday.

Firestone also said its nineomonth earnings this year still were slightly better than those of a year earlier, again a new high.

Firestone reported third-quarter profits fell to 38 cents per share or a total of $21.52 million on sales of $984.07 million, compared with the previous third quarter's net earnings of 62 cents per share or a total of $35.17 million on sales of $944.91 million.

For the first three quarters, Firestone said its earnings totaled $70.93 million or $1.40 per share on sales of $2.91 billion, compared with the previous equivalent period's net income of $75.73 million or $1.33 per share on sales of $2.68 billion.

The strike by United Rubber Workers Union members against Firestone and the rest of the industry's four largest firms included the union's call for a consumer boycott of Firestone products.

Besides nine tire plants closed by the strike directly, Firestone said the strike also affected plants making industrial products, synthetic rubber and plastics. The firm said the deadlock reduced operations at textile, synethetic fiber, wire, synthetic rubber and other raw material plants whose output largely was used in Firestone tire production.

The record third-quarter sales stemmed from Firestone's large pre-strike inventory, the company said.

Three Are Accused Of Welfare Fraud

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — Arrest warrants have been issued for three Oakland County women who allegedly collected nearly $20,000 in welfare payments while working for the state. It is the second such welfare fraud case uncovered this month. Last week two legislative employes were arrested in Lansing on similar charges. Oakland County Prosecutor L. Brooks Patterson said the women's names turned up during a recent statewide computer check that compared Social Security numbers of state employes with those of persons receiving welfare money. Named in the warrants Tuesday were Lillian Allen, 40 of Ferndale; Barbara Maddox, 31, of Pontiac; and Carolyn Joy Gordon, 31, also of Pontiac.

Patterson said Allen was employed as a nurse at the Plymouth Center for Human Development in Northville between 1973 and 1976 at the same time she allegedly received some $10,000 in welfare payments. Gordon, a nurse at the Oakland Medical Center, is alleged to have received $3,350 in welfare payments between 1975 and 1976.

Maddox, a former Michigan Employment Security Commission employe, is alleged to have received more than $5,500 in welfare money between 1974 and 1976 while working for the state and, after she was laid off, while receiving unemployment benefits. The women are scheduled for arraignment on charges of welfare fraud later this week. The felony charge carries a four-year sentence, Patterson said.

Car Sales Fail To Top '75

By MICHAEL GRACZYK
Associated Press Writer

DETROIT (AP) — Sales of new U.S. automobiles during the middle ten days of August failed to top year-ago levels for the first time in 32 ten-day reporting periods, although they virtually were unchanged from the same period a year ago.

Sales of 291,174 reported Tuesday by the four major domestic auto companies were just three cars short of the figure recorded during the Aug. 11-20 period last year. The daily sales rate, the industry guideline for computing sales percentages, was the same for both periods, 22,353.

But for the year-to-date, sales of 5,597,030 remain nearly 34 per cent ahead of last year's pace.

Analysts attributed the minor overall decline to the end of sales incentive contests at General Motors' Chevrolet and Buick divisions. Sales at Ford Motor Co. were off 9.5 per cent from the same year ago period, due mainly to a dealer incentive program at this time last year, analysts said.

Despite the slackening pace, analysts say the market remains strong, with the annual sales rate for the first 20 days of August put at 8.8 million cars, compared to a rate of 8.6 million in July.

For the Aug. 11-20 period, GM sold 103,923 cars, up from 100,382 a year ago. Ford sales were 59,915, off from 66,206. Chrysler reported sales of 30,652, compared with 26,547 a year ago. And American Motors sold 6,684 cars, down from 8,042 in the same 1975 period.

For the year-to-date, GM sales of 3,078,313 top year-ago levels by 38 per cent. Ford, with 1,482,497, is 24.9 per cent ahead of last year; Chrysler sales of 871,043 are 39 per cent better than a year ago; and American Motors sales of 165,177 compares with 208,642, a 21 per cent decline.

Farm Worker Gets $1,000 Jury Award From Employer

A Berrien Fifth District court has awarded $1,000 in damages to a farm worker who claimed that his efforts to move from a farm last summer were blocked by the by the owner of the farm.

Awarded a judgment after a civil trial that took parts of three days was Isaac Huggins, 31, a Berrien county resident. He sued his former employer, Ronald Baiers, Territorial road, Bainbridge township, a fruit grower.

The suit stemmed from an incident that occurred in July of 1975 when, Huggins testified, he began to move his mobile home from a site provided by Baiers. Huggins claimed that Baiers blocked the exit of the mobile home with a truck and also cut the cable that provided electrical service to the home.

Huggins, represented by the Michigan Migrant Legal Assistance Project, had to get a restraining order against Baiers in Berrien Circuit court before he could move the trailer, he told the six-person jury.

Baiers testified that he moved a truck near Huggins' mobile home (but did not block it) to make it more difficult for his employe to leave. Baiers said that Huggins owed him an $80 electricity bill. And he admitted that he cut the electrical cord, which belonged to Huggins.

Atty. Richard Feferman, who represented Huggins, said that the jury's award covered the cost of the electrical cable, the value of spoiled food and compensation for constructive eviction (interfering with the use of the mobile home.)

Atty. F. Ronald Postelli, who represented Baiers, added that the jury also found no cause for action on a counter-claim filed against Huggins by Baiers.

Baiers wanted an award of $100 for damage done by Huggins to a building near the trailer site. Baiers testified. Postelli said his client may appeal that finding by the jury, because Huggins himself testified that he'd damaged the building.

Buyer Awaiting Sentence

SOUTH HAVEN — The manager of Stone's Meat Packing company, South Haven township, pleaded no contest Friday in Seventh District court to charges that he tampered with a five-stick scale in order to falsify its readings.

Scheduled to be sentenced Sept. 7 on two misdemeanor charges is Joseph Tragna, also vice president of the slaughter house and packing company.

Sam Hansen, Southwestern Michigan regional supervisor for the Food inspection division, Michigan Department of Agriculture, said a complaint from a farmer got the investigation underway.

Hansen said a farmer agreed to help in the investigation by taking a pre-weighed load of hogs to Stone's. The animals weighed about 95 pounds less than they had just minutes earlier at another scale, Hansen reported.

According to the warrant, the charges against the man are using an incorrect instrument to falsify a weight, and taking more than the quantity of a commodity represented, hogs. He was placed on presentence investigation.

LAWRENCE TOWNSHIP
Board Will Spend $5,000 For Gravel

LAWRENCE — The Lawrence township board last night took action to improve roads in the township.

The board voted to spend up to $5,000 for purchasing gravel at $2.50 a yard. The gravel will be used where it is most needed, according to Lew Bowen, township treasurer.

The board also voted to have the county road commission begin resurfacing 63rd avenue from CR-365 to the 64th avenue intersection.

The project, estimated to cost about $11,500, will be paid for equally by township and county funds.

The board voted to extend 50th street for about a quarter mile north of 51st avenue. Some of the gravel to be purchased will be used in the project.

GM Car Price Hike Will Average $269

DETROIT (AP) — General Motors Corp. announced today manufacturer's suggested retail prices for base 1977 GM car models will increase an average of $269 over the comparable 1976 models.

GM Chairman Thomas Murphy said dealers' introductory wholesale prices will rise an average of $216, the same amount as a year ago.

He said the base-car increases at both wholesale and retail levels will average 5.8 per cent. The percentage includes the new full-size and luxury models GM will introduce next month, he said. Option prices will increase an average of 6.2 per cent, Murphy said.

Murphy said the suggested retail price increases will range from $23 on the Oldsmobile Starfire to $708 on the Cadillac Seville.

"We are confident that the American car-buyer will recognize this GM price increase as moderate in the light of the value which these new 1977 models present," Murphy said in a statement.

"Although GM's car prices have not changed since our 1976 model prices were announced in August 1975, the costs of both materials and labor have risen substantially and we have been notified of further increases which will affect the cost of 1977 model production," Murphy said.

He cited the increased costs of steel, aluminum, copper, lead, glass and plastics.

"GM's labor costs, affected heavily by recent increases in the cost of benefits, have risen more than 9 per cent in the past year, and we are even now negotiating new contracts with the unions representing our hourly employes," the GM chairman said.

"Our increased material costs, already experienced or now expected, together with increased labor and other costs, will add substantially more to the cost of the average 1977 GM car than we will recover by the price increases we announce today," he said.

Murphy said the nation's largest automaker "hopes" no additional increase in the introductory 1977 prices will be necessary during the model year.

"However, the prices we announce today are subject to review as the costs of materials and labor clarify in the months ahead," Murphy added.

Stocks Stay On Decline

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was off more than 3 points in the early going, and losers led gainers by more than a 2-1 margin among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

They noted that traders had turned extremely wary after an attempt at a rally early Tuesday failed to stand up.

Today's prices included Citicorp, down ½ at 33⅝; Travelers, down ⅜ at 35, and Standard Oil of California, off ⅛ at 36⅝. On Tuesday the Dow Jones industrial average fell 8.56 to 962.63, extending its loss for the past five sessions to 36.71 points.

Losers outnumbered gainers by about a 4-3 margin among NYSE-listed issues, and the exchange's composite index dropped .33 to 54.15.

Warner Has Two New Wines

PAW PAW — Warner Vineyards, the state's largest winery, has announced the introduction of two new premium varietal wines.

The new wines, Seyval Blanc and Marechal Foch, are both the results of cross breeding European and American vine stock.

The company describes Seyval Blanc as a "bone dry light bodied white wine", which has been aged in small oak casks.

Marechal Foch, named in honor of a French World War I general, is described s a heavy dry red wine, designed to be served at room temperate to accompany beef or other hearty dishes such as lasgne or spaghetti.

With the addition of the two new wines, the company now produces seven varietals — three white wines, two roses, and two red wines.

Firestone Hit Record

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Sales set a record, but Firestone Tire & Rubber Co. earnings for the past three months plunged sharply under the impact of the 126-day-old rubber workers strike, the firm reported Tuesday.

Firestone also said its ninemonth earnings this year still were slightly better than those of a year earlier, again a new high.

Firestone reported third-quarter profits fell to 38 cents per share or a total of $21.52 million on sales of $994.07 million, compared with the previous third quarter's net earnings of 62 cents per share or a total of $35.17 million on sales of $944.91 million.

For the first three quarters, Firestone said its earnings totaled $70.93 million or $1.40 per share on sales of $2.91 billion, compared with the previous equivalent period's net income of $75.73 million or $1.33 per share on sales of $2.68 billion.

The strike by United Rubber Workers Union members against Firestone and the rest of the industry's four largest firms included the union's call for a consumer boycott of Firestone products.

Besides nine tire plants closed by the strike directly, Firestone said the strike also affected plants making industrial products, synthetic rubber and plastics. The firm said the deadlock reduced operations at textile, synethetic fiber, wire, synthetic rubber and other raw material plants whose output largely was used in Firestone tire production.

The record third-quarter sales stemmed from Firestone's large pre-strike inventory, the company said.

Three Are Accused Of Welfare Fraud

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — Arrest warrants have been issued for three Oakland County women who allegedly collected nearly $20,000 in welfare payments while working for the state. It is the second such welfare fraud case uncovered this month. Last week two legislative employes were arrested in Lansing on similar charges. Oakland County Prosecutor L. Brooks Patterson said the women's names turned up during a recent statewide computer check that compared Social Security numbers of state employes with those of persons receiving welfare money. Named in the warrants Tuesday were Lillian Allen, 40 of Ferndale; Barbara Maddox, 31, of Pontiac; and Carolyn Joy Gordon, 31, also of Pontiac.

Patterson said Allen was employed as a nurse at the Plymouth Center for Human Development in Northville between 1973 and 1976 at the same time she allegedly received some $10,000 in welfare payments. Gordon, a nurse at the Oakland Medical Center, is alleged to have received $3,350 in welfare payments between 1975 and 1976.

Maddox, a former Michigan Employment Security Commission employe, is alleged to have received more than $5,500 in welfare money between 1974 and 1976 while working for the state and, after she was laid off, while receiving unemployment benefits. The women are scheduled for arraignment on charges of welfare fraud later this week. The felony charge carries a four-year sentence, Patterson said.

Car Sales Fail To Top '75

DETROIT (AP) — Sales of new U.S. automobiles during the middle ten days of August failed to top year-ago levels for the first time in 32 ten-day reporting periods, although they virtually were unchanged from the same period a year ago.

Sales of 201,174 reported Tuesday by the four major domestic auto companies were just three cars short of the figure recorded during the Aug. 11-20 period last year. The daily sales rate, the industry guideline for computing sales percentages, was the same for both periods, 22,353.

But for the year-to-date, sales of 5,597,030 remain nearly 34 per cent ahead of last year's pace.

Small car oriented American Motors Corp. continue its sales decline, reporting sales off 16.8 per cent for the period.

Despite the slackening pace, analysts say the market remains strong, with the annual sales rate for the first 20 days of August put at 8.8 million cars, compared to a rate of 8.6 million in July.

For the Aug. 11-20 period, GM sold 103,923 cars, up from 100,382 a year ago. Ford sales were 59,915, off from 66,206. Chrysler reported sales of 30,652, compared with 26,547 a year ago. And American Motors sold 6,684 cars, down from 8,042 in the same 1975 period.

For the year-to-date, GM sales of 3,078,313 top year-ago levels by 38 per cent. Ford, with 1,482,497, is 24.9 per cent ahead of last year; Chrysler sales of 871,043 are 39 per cent better than a year ago; and American Motors sales of 165,177 compares with 208,642, a 21 per cent decline.

SAUGATUCK — Allegan sheriff's deputies said they would resume searching a small lake north of here this morning for the body of a Texas man reported missing while swimming yesterday.

Divers had searched the lake from 5:30 p.m. to sundown yesterday and other officers dragged the bottom until 1 a.m. this morning, deputies said.

The man, whom officers identified only as a 27-year-old Mexican male from Texas here visiting relatives, was reported missing in Goshorn lake about 5:15 p.m. yesterday. He was last seen swimming in the small lake which is located about a mile north of Saugatuck.

Buyer Awaiting Sentence

By NICK SMITH
Staff Writer

SOUTH HAVEN — The manager of Stone's Meat Packing company, South Haven township, pleaded no contest Friday in Seventh District court to charges that he tampered with a livestock scale in order to falsify its readings.

Scheduled to be sentenced Sept. 7 on two misdemeanor charges is Joseph Tragna, also vice president of the slaughter house and packing company.

Sam Hansen, Southwestern Michigan regional supervisor for the Food Inspection division, Michigan Department of Agriculture, said a complaint from a farmer got the investigation underay.

Hansen said a farmer agreed to help in the investigation by taking a pre-weighed load of hogs to Stone's. The animals weighed about 95 pounds less than they had just minutes earlier at another scale, Hansen reported.

According to the warrant, the charges against the man are using an incorrect instrument to falsify a weight, and taking more than the quantity of a commodity represented, hogs. He was placed on presentence investigation.

BH Offender Given Doubled Prison Sentence

Wilbur Gillespie, Jr., 32, now faces up to 30 years in prison for perjury — double the normal maximum term because he pleaded guilty under the habitual criminal statute. Gillespie had earlier pleaded guilty to perjury, and was rearraigned so prior convictions could be introduced, according to Berrien Chief Assistant Prosecutor Jeff Long.

TURNDOWN: Senate Public Works committee for the second time in a row Tuesday rejected President Ford's choice to fill a vacancy on the Tennessee Valley Authority. By an 8-6 vote the committee turned down Thomas L. Longshore, above, an Alabama Power Co. executive, for the three-member board. (AP Wirephoto)

Gillespie originally pleaded guilty to perjury June 7, allowing the prosecutor's office to make a rearraignment request and submit "supplemental information" to support a longer sentence, Long explained.

Long said he does not believe Gillespie is the first person in Berrien county to be charged under the provisions of the habitual offender statute. Gillespie was returned to Berrien county from prison for the Carter trial and to face the perjury charge. Judge William S. White remanded him to the Berrien county jail to await sentencing.

POLICE ROUNDUP

Gunfire Hits Auto; Chicagoan Arrested

A young Chicago man was arrested by Benton township police early today after a Grand Rapids man told police his car was struck by shotgun blasts as he was driving it near the intersection of Edgecumbe and Wauceda avenues.

Ron Coffey, Grand Rapids, was unhurt in the incident about 1:30 a.m., police reported. Booked at the township police station on a charge of assault with intent to commit murder was Samuel Tillman Jr., 18, Chicago. Police said the incident stemmed from an apparent argument. At least two shotgun blasts were reported, police said.

State police of the Benton Harbor post arrested three people early today on charges of conspiracy to utter and publish a forged check and possession of marijuana.

Troopers said employes at Howard Johnson Motor Lodge, 2099 M-139, Sodus township, reported three people attempted to cash a $175 money order exchange certificate about 4 a.m. but were refused because they had no identification. A car matching the description of one used by the three was stopped by troopers at the Holiday Inn, 2980 M-139. Troopers said they were still attempting to determine if the money order was lost or stolen.

The money order was drawn on the Belmont National Bank of Chicago, troopers reported, and was made payable to the Milton Sivels company with the name Barbara Travis as remitter.

Booked at the post were Travis Spencer Jr., 22 and Gloria Van Taylor, 19, both of Chicago, and Sabrina Ford, 22, Lawrence, Mich. Troopers said a small amount of alleged marijuana was found in the car.

Berrien sheriff's deputies said it appeared a four-wheel drive vehicle was used to cart off a 400-pound hog reported stolen from Fred Mundt, 4130 Cleveland avenue, Stevensville, Tuesday. Mundt told deputies the hog was in a pen at 1947 West Glenlord road, Stevensville. Deputies said there were no signs of blood around the pen, indicating the hog was still alive when taken in the vehicle.

Another theft reported to deputies was a 25-horsepower outboard motor, valued at $550, from the residence of Granvil Slifer, route 2, Box 55F, Pipestone township.

City police said the 1976 Chevrolet Monte Carlo was located near the Paw Paw river just south of Klock road. It was reported stolen from Charles Howard, 126 Collins avenue. He told township police a boy had seen someone drive the car away from a lot near his residence about 11:30 p.m. Monday.

Another auto was reported stolen to township police Tuesday night. Herman Emery, 2446 Red Arrow highway, Benton Heights, told police he parked the 1972 Mercury Comet at Lite's Lunch, 2176 Red Arrow, about an hour before he found it gone at 10 p.m. He said the keys were in the car.

Reported in "fair" condition today at Mercy hospital, Benton Harbor, was Charles E. Beverly, 60, Logansport, Ind. Police said he was to be charged with reckless driving, having open intoxicants in a motor vehicle and was booked by police for being drunk and disorderly. Police said the car skidded off Britain into a field and struck the tower.

In a collision Tuesday morning between two trucks, township police said a passenger in one truck was injured.

The injured man was identified as Tom Moore, Jr., 30, of 1054 Chicago avenue, Benton township, who was in a truck driven by George L. Anderson, 26, South Bend, Ind. Moore was released after treatment at Mercy hospital. Driver of the other truck was Dean Wayne Meisner, 24, of 604 West John Beers road, Stevensville. BH Offender Given Doubled Prison Sentence

A former Benton Harbor man has been declared an habitual criminal because of his guilty plea Monday in Berrien Circuit court.

Wilbur Gillespie, Jr., 32, now faces up to 30 years in prison for perjury — double the normal maximum term because he pleaded guilty under the habitual criminal statute. Gillespie had earlier pleaded guilty to perjury, and was rearraigned so prior convictions could be introduced, according to Berrien Chief Assistant Prosecutor Jeff Long.

The perjury charge stemmed from lying under oath during a Berrien District court hearing Jan. 15. Previous convictions were for larceny in a building and uttering and publishing fradulent checks.

The perjury occurred during the preliminary examination of Maurice Carter who was later convicted of assault with intent to murder Benton Harbor Det. Tom Schadler.

Gillespie originally pleaded guilty to perjury June 7, allowing the prosecutor's office to make a rearraignment requestand submit "supplemental information" to support a longer sentence, Long explained.

Long said he does not believe Gillespie is the first person in Berrien county to be charged under the provisions of the habitual offender statute. Gillespie was returned to Berrien county from prison for the Carter trial and to face the perjury charge. Judge William S. White remanded him to the Berrien county jail to await sentencing.

POLICE ROUNDUP

Gunfire Hits Auto; Chicagoan Arrested

A young Chicago man was arrested by Benton township police early today after a Grand Rapids man told police his car was struck by shotgun blasts as he was driving it near the intersection of Edgcumbe and Wauceda avenues.

Ron Coffey, Grand Rapids, was unhurt in the incident about 1:30 a.m., police reported. Booked at the township police station on a charge of assault with intent to commit murder was Samuel Tillman Jr., 18, Chicago. Police said the incident stemmed from an apparent argument. At least two shotgun blasts were reported, police said.

State police of the Benton Harbor post arrested three people early today on charges of conspiracy to utter and publish a forged check and possession of marijuana.

Troopers said employes at Howard Johnson Motor Lodge, 2699 M-139, Sodus township, reported three people attempted to cash a $175 money order exchange certificate about 4 a.m. but were refused because they had no identification. A car matching the description of one used by the three was stopped by troopers at the Holiday Inn, 2860 M-139. Troopers said they were still attempting to determine if the money order was lost or stolen.

The money order was drawn on the Belmont National Bank of Chicago, troopers reported, and was made payable to the Milton Sivels company with the name Barbara Travis as remitter.

Booked at the post were Travis Spencer Jr., 22 and Gloria Van Taylor, 19, both of Chicago, and Sabrina Ford, 22, Lawrence, Mich. Troopers said a small amount of alleged marijuana was found in the car.

Berrien sheriff's deputies said it appeared a four-wheel drive vehicle was used to cart off a 400-pound hog reported stolen from Fred Mundt, 4130 Cleveland avenue, Stevensville, Tuesday. Mundt told deputies the hog was in a pen at 1947 West Glenlord road, Stevensville. Deputies said there were no signs of blood around the pen, indicating the hog was still alive when taken in the vehicle.

Another theft reported to deputies was a 25-horsepower outboard motor, valued at $550, from the residence of Granvil Sliter, route 2, Box 55F, Pipestone township.

Benton Harbor police said a tape player and tool box, valued at $90, were reported stolen from the apartment of William Wallace, 800 Warwick terrace.

A 1976 auto reported stolen Monday to Benton township police was found Tuesday night by Benton Harbor police, burned and its four tires missing.

City police said the 1976 Chevrolet Monte Carlo was located near the Paw Paw river just south of Klock road. It was reported stolen from Charles Howard, 126 Collins avenue. He told township police a boy had seen someone drive the car away from a lot near his residence about 11:30 p.m. Monday.

Another auto was reported stolen to township police Tuesday night. Herman Emery, 2446 Red Arrow highway, Benton Heights, told police he parked the 1972 Mercury Comet at Lite's Lunch, 2170 Red Arrow, about an hour before he found it gone at 10 p.m. He said the keys were in the car.

An Indiana man was hospitalized Tuesday after his car struck a high voltage electric line tower off Britain avenue near the intersection of Euclid avenue about 8:25 p.m.

Reported in "fair" condition today at Mercy hospital, Benton Harbor, was Charles E. Beverly, 60, Logansport, Ind. Police said he was to be charged with reckless driving, having open intoxicants in a motor vehicle and was booked by police for being drunk and disorderly. Police said the car skidded off Britain into a field and struck the tower.

In a collision Tuesday morning between two trucks, township police said a passenger in one truck was injured.

The injured man was identified as Tom Moore, Jr., 30, of 1054 Chicago avenue, Benton township, who was in a truck driven by George L. Anderson, 26, South Bend, Ind. Moore was released after treatment at Mercy hospital. Driver of the other truck was Dean Wayne Meisner, 24, of 604 West John Beers road, Stevensville. GM Division Is Cited In Death

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — General Motors Corp.'s Saginaw Steering Gear Division has been cited by the state Department of Labor for an alleged violation of the Occupational Safety and Health Act in the death of a Steering Gear employe.

State Labor Director Keith Molin said on Tuesday that Steering Gear was cited under a provision of the act which prohibits use of a safety device that creates a hazard.

Steering Gear was also fined $750 for the alleged violation. The maximum fine is $1,000, but the company got a 25 per cent credit because it has a good overall safety record, Molin said.

Steering Gear is required to comply with the citation banning the use of the hazardous safety device by Sept. 9 or begin an appeal of the ruling.

Lloyd Gabriel, 63, of Saginaw, a quality control inspector in Steering Gear's number two plant, was killed Aug. 9 when he was caught between a steel bin used for dumping castings on a conveyor and a safety bar designed to keep workers away from the bin when it is in motion.

Witnesses said Gabriel was reaching into the front of the bin to remove castings when the bin was set in motion by another employe who could not see Gabriel or the front of the bin.

As the front of the bin rose, the safety bar came down into position, as it was designed to do, and crushed Gabriel between the bar and the bottom edge of the bin, witnesses said.

Molin said Steering Gear has already taken some corrective action. The control panel for raising and lowering the bin has been moved and mirrors have been installed to give the operator a view of the bin and employes in the area. Steering Gear engineers are designing a new safety bar that will not be a hazard.

Steering Gear may request a labor department review of the citation and fine. It could appeal any decesion by a hearings officer in court if it wished.

Eyewitness To Murder Slain Two Days Before Testifying

SPRINGFIELD, Mich. (AP) — Authorities were trying to learn today who gunned down an eyewitness to a murder two days before the witness was scheduled to testify in the trial.

Calhoun County authorities contended they were uncertain if Sunday's fatal shooting of Kathryn Moss, 27, of Springfield, had any link with her role as a witness.

Police said Miss Moss, her finance and another couple were having a party early Sunday when a pistol shot fired from outside the woman's mobile home struck Miss Moss in the head. Authorities theorized the shot might have been a ricochet, but gave no details of that theory.

Miss Moss already had testified during a June 9 preliminary exam for Marcus Anthony Ware, 24, of Albion. Ware was due to go on trial Tuesday on an open charge of murder in the 1973 pistol slaying of Michael Foxe, 22, at his Battle Creek home.

Court records show Miss Moss testified she saw Foxe shot. The woman said she, Foxe, and three men were present when several shots were fired and Foxe fell.

The woman said all three men fled, although only one did the shooting, while she called an ambulance. But when asked if the killer was in the courtroom while she testified, Miss Moss replied, "I'm not sure."
